Battle Over Coffin of MacSwiney

MOURNERS RESIST COMMAND TO KEEP BODY FROM DUBLIN

Despite Resistance, However, the British Authorities Placed Body on Steamer Bound for Cork.

FUNERAL PROCESSION AMAZING TO LONDON

It Was Led by Band of Irish Pipers—Thousands Were Garbed in Sinn Fein Uniform and Sang the Sinn Fein Anthem.

Holyhead, Wales, October 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Relatives of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney resisted when the authorities started to place the body of the lord mayor on board a boat bound for Cork. After a fight over the coffin, however, the body was taken aboard the vessel, which sailed for Cork.

Sisters and brothers of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork were forcibly expelled, with other mourners, from their railway carriage by police as a result of the fight over the coffin. Members of the family objected to the coffin being placed on board a special boat which would go direct from this port to Cork, and a violent scene ensued. The fight lasted five minutes.

London, October 28.—The government has refused to permit the body of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney, of Cork, to be landed in Dublin and has provided a special steamer to convey the remains to Cork.

The reasons assigned by the government for not permitting the body to be landed anywhere except in the lord mayor's native city was "the risk of political demonstrations, which might result in the loss of innocent lives."

WAILING A DIRGE, IRISH PIPERS LED FUNERAL PARADE

BY PERCY SARL,
United News Staff Correspondent.

London, October 28.—A little band of Irish pipers, wailing a weird dirge and shrieking defiance by turns, led the strangest funeral procession that ever wound its way through the street sof London. A procession of 8,000 Irish "rebels," Sinn Feiners and sympathizers, following the body of their dead leader.

And of these 8,000, hundreds were proscribed "outlaws," with a price upon their heads, marching in safety through the heart of the "enemy" country, protected for once by a tacit truce between the British government and the Irish "republic."

They wore their Sinn Fein uniforms beneath long overcoats. They carried, draped in back, the proscribed green, white and orange flag of the only government they recognize. But there was no reply to their mute defiance. London offered them only respect.

For their own part, the Sinn Feiners gave and accepted pledges that for this one occasion there should be no outward indication of that ever-living hatred of England, never so bitter as it is today, that burns in Sinn Fein hearts. The pledges were kept, while soldier of the "republic" and soldier of the empire cooperated to make the final journey of Terence MacSwiney, late lord mayor of Cork, from cathedral to railway station, an uninterrupted tribute to his courage and devotion.

The funeral of Terence MacSwiney is the most dramatic incident in the history of the Irish revolt. Hours before the Irish leaders emerged from St. George's cathedral, where impressive services had been conducted, the three miles of streets through which the procession was to pass, were lined deep with British crowds.

In Gaelic Uniform.

Four hundred metropolitan police were stationed near the cathedral, 2,000 police lined the roads. A few yards apart. In and around the church were hundreds of men in gaelic uniform ready to enforce decorum if emotion should surge out of bounds. Two nurses, also in Sinn Fein uniform, and waving large Irish "republic" flags, made a splotch of color on the cathedral steps.

The sound of the pipes heading the procession could be heard for miles and stilled the noise of the crowds outside the church as the procession took up the step. The

HARDEN CONVICTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Man Known as "King of the Moonshiners" Fined $1,500 and Given Term of Two Years in Pen.

John Henry Harden, known as the "King of the Moonshiners," was convicted Thursday in the United States district court on charges of bribery, and was fined $1,500 and sentenced to the federal penitentiary for two years. He at once filed notice with Judge Sibley that he will demand a new trial, and he was released under $3,000 bond. A verdict of guilty was returned at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, after the jury had deliberated for 30 minutes. The trial began Wednesday with Harden's plea of not guilty, and the first witness was heard Thursday morning. Harden was represented by Attorneys Clay, Robertson & Anderson, of Marietta, and the prosecution was conducted by W. Paul Carpenter, assistant district attorney.

Harden was for many years one of Cherokee county's most prominent and well-to-do citizens, having been a prosperous planter, merchant and financier and at one time foreman of the grand jury. He had been an active worker in religious affairs. Shortly after the federal prohibition amendment became effective, he was convicted on a charge of distilling, and served 18 months in the federal penitentiary.

E. T. Dixon, federal prohibition agent, the first government witness, said that during the February term of court this year, Harden was in town, admittedly for the purpose, it is claimed, of ascertaining Judge Sibley's attitude toward convicted distillers. Judge Sibley had just been appointed to the bench for this district. Agent Dixon testified that one day he was accosted by Harden in the courtroom lobby and was told "if you and Tom Harris will not be so hard on my distillers, I will make it interesting." Agent Dixon said he acted as if he was interested in his proposition, and told Harden he would "have to study about it." Dixon said he immediately reported his conversation with Harden to G. T. E. Hardeman, assistant supervising prohibition agent, who in turn reported the incident to D. J. Gantt, supervising agent. The federal agents consulted with the district attorney, and it was agreed that Dixon was to go ahead and make preparations for accepting the bribe if it was offered again.

Again Broached Subject.

A few days later, it was said, Harden was in the postoffice building again, and approcahed Agent Dixon with the subject of "protection." Agent Dixon said he was offered $500 in cash in the courtroom lobby, and that he suggested to Harden that the place was too public for making the transfer and asked him to be at his room in the Wilmot hotel that afternoon after court adjournment. Dixon arranged with other federal officers to have a dictagraph installed in his room on a hatrack. An overcoat was hung over the instrument.

At the appointed time the two met and went to the room, it was said. Harden occupied the chair near the concealed dictagraph and Dixon sat on the bed. Wires from the distagraph led to another room on the same floor, from whoh the two men could be seen through the windows. Agents R. W. and Scott Jackson "listened in" while Agent Tom Harris stationed himself at the window to witness the transaction. Mr. Hardeman waited in the hallway, outside of Dixon's room.

Dixon testified that after passing only a few words Harden drew from his pocket $500, consisting of twenty-five $20 bills. One by one the bills were counted aloud, it is said, in order that the men at the dictagraph might hear. As they emerged from the room, Dixon testified, Agent Harris attacked him in the hallway, as per prearranged plans, and "accused" Dixon of "selling out." Still under the impression that Dixon had really sold out, Harden was arrested and arraigned before Commissioner W. C. Carter, who bound him over to the federal grand jury under $3,000 bond.

Hardeman Testifies.

The next witness was Mr. Hardeman, who testified that the money had been received by Agent Dixon at the direction of his superiors. He testified that he took the money from Dixon at the time of Harden's arrest. The money was exhibited to the jury.

The bribery charge was vigorously denied by Harden, and he claimed that the $500 paid by him to Dixon was only a loan. He said that out of the kindness of his heart and his love and respect for revenue officers he loaned Agent Dixon the sum without even taking a note or any other security for the amount. W. Paul Carpenter, representing the

And Failure to Obtain Affection of People Saddens the President, According to His Secretary.

WILSON IS DESCRIBED AS INTENSELY HUMAN

His Only Fault, Tumulty Says, Is That He Doesn't Know How to Play to Gallery—Reaction of Wilson to War Pictured.

Washington, October 28.—An intimate picture "of the manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is," based on ten years as his private secretary and touched here and there with hitherto unpublished incidents in the president's official life was drawn tonight by Joseph P. Tumulty, speaking at a democratic massmeeting, just over the line in Maryland.

Mr. Tumulty described the president "as man as strangely misunderstood by some and as violently misrepresented by others as any man in the history of American politics." He had long desired, he said, to tell the country what he knew of Mr. Wilson's character but had refrained in the knowledge that the president, "who shrinks from self-exploitation would resent exploitation by his friends."

With the approach of Mr. Wilson's retirement to private life, however, Secretary Tumulty continued, "it seems to me not improper that just before the curtain rises on the last act, I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings, and tell the audience a few things about the leader in this great drama of the past eight years."

Ten Years of Intimacy.

Recalling his ten years in the "intimate relationship of a private secretary," the speaker said:

"I may be presumed to know at least as much about him as the gentlemen who discourse volubly of him in Pullman smokers, on the golf links, and in the clubs, who assure you that all they say is fact—for they had it on the word of a friend of a friend who passed through Washington once and heard a man say that another man said, etc."

Among incidents on which he drew to illustrate his subject, Mr. Tumulty recalled the reaction of the president to the applause which greeted delivery of his war message to congress on April 6, 1917.

"On that fateful day," Secretary Tumulty said, "I rode with him back from the capitol to the white house, the echo of the applause still ringing in my ears. For a while he sat silent an dpale in the cabinet room. At last he said: 'Think what it was they were applauding. It means death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that.'"

"That simple remark," Secretary Tumulty continued, "is one key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson," who, he said, hated and dreaded war with "all of the fibres of his human soul."

As further evidence of the president's sense of responsibility in the blood shed by American soldiers, Mr. Tumulty told of the day when news came of American casualties at Vera Cruz in 1914.

How He Took Vera Cruz News.

"When the news came," he said, "the president was quiet all day. He went about his business methodically, with his usual clear judgment and prompt decisions, but that night he sat silent for a long time. At last he said: 'I cannot get it off my heart. It had to be done. It was right. Nothing else was possible; but I cannot forget that it was I who had to order those young men to their deaths.'"

Earlier that year, when word came "that a German vessel, laden with munitions, was on its way to Mexico," President Wilson talked over the telephone wire with Secretaries Bryan and Daniels, and Mr. Tumulty said he also was on the telephone during the conversation. When the situation had been stated to the president, he said, "the voice came back, clear and firm: 'Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once.'"

"Just before I cut off the connection," Secretary Tumulty continued, "I said a word to the president about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded, no longer clear, but muffled, as when one chokes back a sob: 'What do you think of it, Tumulty? It means death. It breaks my heart, but it must be done.'"

Secretary Tumulty recalled also Mr. Wilson's determination to ride in the funeral procession of the marines and sailors killed at Vera Cruz when the bodies were brought to New York. Disquieting rumors that an attack was planned on his life had reached secret service men. Mr. Tumulty said "one undertook to argue with him, saying: 'You will show all proper respect by ap-

ORGANIZED LABOR BACKING FARMERS IN HOLDING CROPS

ACTIVE PART TAKEN BY GEORGIA MEMBERS

Barrett, Jackson and Amorous Denounce Sending Bank Surpluses to New York City to Be Loaned to Wall Street.

Washington, October 28.—A plan for a general crop holding movement by farmers until their products will bring a price at least equal to the cost of production is expected to be recommended to the agricultural conference in session here by a special committee appointed today to dveise a plan of procedure. The committee was in session until late tonight working on its report, which probably will be ready for presentation to the conference tomorrow morning.

Eugene Myers, Jr., of New York, former head of the war finance corporation, was in conference with the committee.

A resolution commending Comptroller of the Currency Williams was adopted by the conference.

"Resolved,' it said, "that the National Board of Farm organization express their full appreciation of the sympathetic appreciation shown by Mr. John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, in the welfare of the farmers of this country and his fearless exposure of the high rates of interest charged by the New York state banks, the effect of which has been to draw the money from interior banks, where it is most needed for legitimate business and used in New York for speculative purposes."

While the committee is composed of many southerners the resolution does not confine its scope to cotton and products produced in the south. It includes everything raised on the farm.

Drastic Action Necessary.

It was the sense of the committee that drastic action was necessary in order to protect not only the farmer, but the banker, the railroads, merchants and practically every other industry. If the farmer goes bankrupt, it was contended, the merchant and all other business must ultimately follow the same course.

It is not thought the farmers assembled will again appeal to Secretary Houston and the reserve board for financial assistance. The program now is to ask community merchants and bankers to finance the producer so that he may hold his crop for better prices, and to keep produce off the market until a

Diamonds Lost, Sleuths Arrive, Gems Reappear

When Detectives Announce Intention to Search Peachtree House, Missing Gems Are Suddenly Found.

Five diamond rings, valued at over $2,000, reported to have mysteriously disappeared from the rooms of their owner, Mrs. Elizabeth Smart, at 362 Peachtree street, early last night, just as mysteriously reappeared in the middle of the living room floor of the home a short time later, when Atlanta detectives arrived on the scene and proposed to search the premises.

The jewels had evidently suffered no damage, for they were tied up in a silk handkerchief, just as Mrs. Smart declared she had last seen them.

When the rings were missed, city sleuths were summoned by Mrs. Smart. Immediately afterwards, Detectives Austin and Brown arrived, and in the living room of the home, talked with occupants for a few seconds regarding the disappearance. Then they went upstairs and discussed the situation with Mr. Stewart, and returned with her to the living room.

There on the floor, as clear to view as a house on a hill, lay the diamonds rings tied up in a handkerchief, according to the detectives, who returned the jewels to their delighted owner.

Republicans Spending $3,442,392.22 Trying To Put Over Harding

Nearly $700,000 of Democratic Fund Collected in New York—Guffey and Ryan Have Each Promised $25,000 Additional to the Democratic Committee.

Chicago, October 28.—The republican national committee's campaign to elect Senator Warren G. Harding president will cost $3,442,892.32, Fred W. Upham, national treasurer of the party, notified the senate committee appointed to investigate campaign expenditures in a report filed with the committee here today.

Of this sum, $3,042,892.32 had been spent up to the close of business Sunday, October 24, and Mr. Upham estimated the expenditures in the closing week of the campaign at $400,000 additional. The report shows that $301,388.98 was spent between October 18, when a report was filed with the clerk of the house of representatives in Washington, and October 24, the date of today's report.

In Excess of Budget.

The total estimated cost of the campaign—$3,442,892.32—is considerably in excess of the republican budget of $3,079,037.20, presented to the senate committee at a hearing here last August, but Mr. Upham explained that the disbursements covered the period from June 14, while the budget included only expenditures from July 1.

About $200,000 was spent between June 14 and July 1, Mr. Upham's office estimated, leaving the estimated disbursements from July 1 to November 2, approximately $3,243,000, about $162,000 in excess of the estimated budget.

Contributions received since June 14 total $2,914,706.08, or $128,186.24 less than the amount expended to date, Mr. Upham's report shows. Of the amount collected, $1,793,556.54 was devoted directly to the national campaign under the direction of the national committee. The remaining $1,121,149.54 was returned to the states in which it was raised, in accordance with an agreement whereby the national committee solicited all funds for both state and national campaign purposes.

Senator Warren G. Harding and Governor Calvin Coolidge, his running mate, each gave $1,000, as did Fred W. Upham, the republican national treasurer; John T. Adams, vice chairman of the national committee; A. T. Hert, of Louisville, committeeman from Kentucky; Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, former ambassador to France, and Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, brother of ex-President Taft. There are several hundred $1,000 contributions.

About 50,000 Contributors.

Mr. Upham's office estimated there were approximately 50,000 contributors to the campaign chest. The smallest contributions listed are of twenty-five cents. There are thousands of 25, 50, 75-cent and $1 donations, as well as large numbers in odd cents. Eleven Chicago women gave 62 cents each; why, no one in Mr. Upham's office knew.

With his report, Mr. Upham filed a sworn affidavit answering a series of written questions put to him by the senatorial committee. The affidavit sets forth that the "amount to be expended by the national committee for the further purposes of the campaign does not exceed the sum of $400,000, which is the aggregate sum unexpended of the appropriation provided for in the budget of the committee." One of the questions asked by the committee is:

"Have you in the foregoing statements truthfully and fully set forth all moneys paid or promised, whether the promise be of an express sum of money or an agreement to pay an indefinite sum, or to contribute with others to any fund or funds now being collected or to be hereafter collected?"

Mr. Upham answered in the affirmative. The report shows no pledges of aid to make up any deficit that may exist after the election, but the affidavit states that "the committee does, however, contemplate the continuation of its

HARDING RENEWS REFUSAL TO JOIN PRESENT LEAGUE

Senator Asserts He Favors An International Association Founded on Principles of Justice.

REPUBLICAN SENATE WANTED BY HARDING

So He May Translate His Pledges Into Legislation—Harding Declares That He Is Not Candidate of Any Clique.

Akron, Ohio, October 28.—Replying to charges of a "senate oligarchy," Senator Harding declared in a speech here tonight that he was not the candidate of any clique or combination, but was absolutely "unpledged" and "unbossed."

The senator spoke in the armory here before a crowd which packed every available square inch of space and interrupted the address many times with cheering.

Previously, despite a drizzling rain, a torchlight parade had escorted him through downtown streets and crowds had thronged the sidewalks at many points and cheered him along the way.

Asks for Republican Senate.

C. L. Knight, editor of The Akron Beacon Journal and republican candidate for congress from this district, presided at the meeting, and Harry L. Davis, republican gubernatorial nominee, made a speech preceding that of Mr. Harding. For both of these and for Frank B. Willis, republican candidate for senator, the presidential nominee made a special plea. He praised Mr. Knight as one of the most conscientious American editors and declared he was needed in congress "as a demonstration that there still is a free press and free speech in the United States."

In asking for a republican senate, Mr. Harding said that many of the difficulties of the last session were due to the slender republican majority and to the fact that "a number of so-called republican senators were not always republicans."

No senate oligarchy exists, the republican nominee declared, and no group of men would control him if he were elected to the presidency.

He said the only promise he had made which was not in the party platform was his pledge to try to organize a federal department of public welfare.

"I am not anybody else's candidate," Senator Harding said. "I believe I am the freest man that was ever nominated by any party for the presidency of the United States.

BROADSIDE FIRED AT HARDING VOTERS BY GOVERNOR COX

REACTIONARY FORCES DECLARED IN A ROUT

Cox Tells Indiana Voters Opponents of Progress Are Retreating Everywhere and Confidently Predicts His Election.

Indianapolis, October 28.—Arguments addressed especially to voters favoring Senator Harding, upon the broad, general ground of desiring "a change" in national affairs were emphasized here tonight by Governor Cox.

To a large audience in Tomlinson hall, and in a formal statement, Governor Cox fired a broadside of questions to the American people, attacking Senator Harding and other republican leaders for their league of nations, legislative and political records.

"Republicans, when they are honest," Governor Cox declared, "have acknowledged what is patent to every one—that no one really wants Senator Harding for president. And yet they tell me that as partisans many expected to vote for him because they have been taught to believe that they 'wanted a change.' The expression was preached as propaganda by reactionary leaders until it has become nauseating to the public."

Governor Cox asked whether the voters "desire a change back to normalcy relative to legislation to tax revision by big business," to "success of reactional politicians," to "control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose" and other conditions.

Great Rally of Democrats.

Gvernor Cox's visit here was the occasoin for a great rally of Hoosier democracy. A parade, with fireworks, torchlights and bands, was staged and the governor spoke to an overflow meeting outside of the hall. Hundreds of persons, including many clubs, marched in the parade.

The governor arrived here at 5:30 o'clock tonight from Dayton, Ohio, where he spent the day resting and where he issued a second statement attacking The Saturday Evening Post, renewing charges of unfair partisanship.

With his fire against the argument "for a change" in government, Governor Cox also preached the league of nations and predicted victory next Tuesday.

"When I started this campaign," said Governor Cox, "I made the prediction that we would drive our opponents out of the front trench by mid-October. I have now visited thirty-six states. Not only has that prediction come true, but the retreat of the reactionary forces has become a hout. Th American people clearly are for our going into the league. The lines are definitely set. My election means

Democratic Funds Needed As Cox Makes Great Gains

The national democratic campaign committee is making its final drive for the election of Cox and Roosevelt, confident that success will meet its efforts, according to a telegram received Thursday night by Finance chairman C. J. Haden, of Atlanta, from W. W. Marsh, treasurer. With public sentiment now rapidly turning in favor of the democrats, the committee is incurring liabilities with the expectation that Georgia and other loyal states will rally to its aid.

"We are making our final drive and are very confident," the telegram read. "The committee is incurring liabilities and is relying on the loyal democrats of Georgia and other states to support us. Will you help with a liberal contribution of funds at this critical period?"

Immediately after receiving this telegram from the national treasurer, Mr. Haden issued a short statement in which he declared Georgia now has an opportunity to greatly aid the democratic party by stepping into the breach with contributions to cover the deficit in the treasury.

Cox Gains Great.

"There is no doubt about Cox making a much greater gain than Harding during the past fifteen days. The republicans realize that many mistakes have been made by their chief candidate, resulting in public sentiment turning toward Cox." he said. "That confident spirit which marked the attitude of republican leaders several weeks ago has now disappeared as the full realization has come of the fight they have on their hands to win, both in the presidential and senatorial races."

The following letter has been received by Mr. Haden:

"Athens, Ga., October 26, 1920.
"Mr. J. C. Haden, Treasurer Democratic Campaign Fund, Atlanta, Ga.

"My Dear Sir: Enclosed find my check for $5 as my contribution to the national fund, and as a help to my friend, Governor Cox. Know him personally. Was born and reared in the same community, and can speak in the highest terms of him as a boy and as a man. Very truly yours,
"E. C. PAINE."

PLOT IS DISCLOSED BY U. S. GRAND JURY MEETING IN MACON

64 MEN ARE INDICTED ON NUMEROUS COUNTS

Railway Conductors, as Well as Express Agents and Express Messengers, Involved—All the Men Are White and Some Are Prominent.

Macon, Ga., October 28.—Indictments charging conspiracy to purloin and embezzle property of the United States, conspiracy to embezzle interstate express shipments and conspiracy to defraud the United States were returned by the federal grand jury here today against sixty-four express messengers, express agents, railroad conductors and others.

The American Railway Express company presented evidence to the grand jury showing that for the first six months of this year property stolen from the express company in southern states amounted to $1,018,722.94.

The articles alleged to have been stolen range from furs, silk shirts, pocket knives and guns to hogs, chickens, fish and eggs.

All Those Indicted Are White.

into negotiations for various articles that he was all right.

Thefts are said to have begun with the world war, when the bookkeeping department of the express company was unable to keep up with the business. Messengers are alleged to have torn the tags from shipments and put on new tags, addressing the shipment to a conspirator, destroying the shipping bill at the same time. A third party, the indictments charge, in most of the cases, disposed of the goods and then divided the spoils. Specific cases are named in the indictments and specific sums of money are named as passing between the alleged conspirators.

Arrests in State Courts.

From January 1 to July 1 of this year of the total losses sustained by the company from breakage, damage and other claims, 71.93 per cent were for packages that disappeared.

It was when the express company returned to private control on September 1, of this year, that an investigation was put under way to determine the cause of the disappearance of the goods.

The indictments name specific amounts in many cases received for stole articles alleged to have been sold. The work of gathering the evidence under which the indictments were made wa done by S. L. Rosser, special agent of the American Railway Express company; Superintendent R. H. May and Special Agents A. F. Copeland, L. P. Hickman, R. P. Burnett, W. C. Fryerson, G. G. Vaughn, J. A. Johnson and H. W. Quinn.

Numerous arrests have been made in the state courts in connection with the alleged thefts, but today's indictments cover only interstate shipments. Much of the property alleged to have been stolen has been recovered.

Spirit of Lawlessness.

W. C. Wright, foreman of the jury, made a short speech upon making the presentments to the court. He declared that the jury had found a spirit of lawlessness existing which to them was astounding. He stated that intoxicating liquors were, figuratively, flowing across this state like a river and leaving wreck and ruin behind it.

"In order to preserve the safety of the innocent—the women and the children, in order to make society purer, and in order to protect people of this state against this great evil, we respectfully request your honor to vigorously prosecute these cases of liquor violation."

"The prohibition laws are not the only ones that are being ignored," continued Mr. Wright. "We find conditions appalling. Over $1,000,000 worth of goods were stolen from the express company during the last year."

Attorney Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, geenral counsel for the American Railway Express company, stated Thursday night that, to his knowledge, none of the men indicated in the wholesale express robberies were Atlanta men. He said that the Atalnta offices of the company are not involved in the thefts.

"There's a ROGERS store near you"

Our patrons are due the credit for the success of these stores

Twenty-seven years ago we opened our first store. The founder of this institution had a vision, based upon the appreciation of the public.

He figured that to achieve success, he must deserve it. He had confidence that the buying public would be liberal in patronizing a store that at all times recognized its obligation to its customers.

Our present chain of 116 stores is the result of your patronage and support.

We give credit for a large measure of our success to our patrons, and in turn we give them every advantage of our large facilities.

You get the benefit of car-lot prices here. You get courteous treatment and intelligent service. And, above all, every transaction MUST be to your entire satisfaction.

We are co-partners with the public.

pearing in the reviewing stand. The country cannot afford to lose its president.'

"His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for president.' This was his brief and final answer. He rode in the procession."

The Sternness of Wilson.

The sternness of Woodrow Wilson, his secretary declared, was "just the reverse side of his humane nature," and made "nothing more natural" than he should have become the champion of small nations. The president's insistence upon Article 10 of the league covenant was explained as a wish to forestall the necessity of the United States going to war by making it a participant "in a plan to prevent the beginning of such a war."

"He wished to stop the next war before it should begin," Mr. Tumulty said.

In contrast to Mr. Wilson's self-proclaimed passion for peace, Secretary Tumulty declared that "when the challenge came from Germany to America, when the American mind was ready for war . . . this same Woodrow Wilson became the most uncompromising advocate of the most stringent measures for conducting the war, thereby to hasten the end of the war." The speaker recalled the president's speech to officers of the Atlantic fleet in 1917, published long after, in which he said: "I am willing to sacrifice half the navy Great Britain and we together have to crush the submarine nest."

"It was he," Secretary Tumulty continued, "who insisted on mining the North sea to cut off the German hornets. . . . Experts said that it could not be done. The civilian, Wilson, said it could be done, must be done and it was. It was the civilian Wilson who broached the plan for combining the allied powers in the west under the supreme command of General Foch in order that all the allied forces could be concentrated on the German forces to crush them. In his mind the supreme object of this war was to end war."

"Poor Publicity Material."

The "grave fault" which Secretary Tumulty asserted he found with the present, was his ignorance of "how to play to the gallery."

"He does not know how to capitalize his virtues for the front pages of the newspapers," he said. "He is dreadfully poor publicity material. Human from his heart to the finger tips, he does not know how to put his humanity on exhibition.

"As his friend and admirer, I have loved him better because he didn't. There was something too fine in his nature for the dramatic posturings of the political game as it is usually played."

The secretary told of a journalist who wished to have the president "do one of the stunts that the public dearly loves to read about" and of the comment of the president.

"He said to me: 'Tumulty, you must realize that I am not built for these things. I do not want to be displayed before the public. If I tried to do it I would do it badly. I want people to love me, but they never will.

"I have never forgotten the wistful tones in which he spoke those last four words: 'but they never will,'" Secretary Tumulty said.

Two Final Pictures.

Two final pictures, Mr. Tumulty said he desired to draw, the first, that of the president in 1917, "a straight, vigorous, slender man, active and alert."

"He is 60 years of age," he said, "but he looks not more than 45, so lithe of limb, so alert of hearing, so virile. It is Woodrow Wilson reading his great war message.

"The other picture is only three and a half years later. There is a parade of veterans of the great war. The yare to be reviewed by the president on the east terrace of the white house. In a chair sits a man, your president, broken in health, but still alert in mind. His hair is white, his shoulders bowed, his figure bent. He is 63 years old, but he looks older. It is Woodrow Wilson.

"Presently in the procession there appears an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers, the maimed and the halt and the blind. As they pass, they salute slowly, reverently.

"The president's right hand goes up in answering salute. I glanced at him. There were tears in his eyes. The wounded is greeting the wounded; those in the ambulance, he in the chair, are alike, casualties of the grat war.

"I don't believe in his heart President Wilson regrets his wounds. I fancy he realizes no man could die in a greater cause, but I do sometimes wonder if it ever seems to him strange that when a man has been seriously wounded in his country's service that he should be met with sneers and calumnies from his countrymen."

MUSCOGEE OFFICERS WAR ON SPEEDERS

Columbus, Ga., October 28.—(Special.—That the county policing bodies of Muscogee county intend to wage war on violators of the state automobile laws was brought out yesterday when four men were bound over to the superior court under bonds of $25 each to answer charges growing out of failure to display the 1920 auto license tags and speeding. Two deaths on the Camp Benning road recently has resulted in Sheriff Beard instructing his men to be vigilant in detecting and taking into custody all violators.

PASSENGERS INJURED WHEN ENGINE HITS CAR

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 28.—A switch engine on the Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia railroad ran into a crowded street car at the outskirts of the city tonight, injuring several passengers, including Mr. and Mrs. L. GREAT CONFUSION LIKELY TO ATTEND TUESDAY'S VOTING

5,000,000 NEW VOTERS ADDED TO THE LISTS

Grave Fear Is Expressed That Thousands Will Not Be Able to Exercise Franchise.

23,000,000 WILL VOTE NEXT TUESDAY

It is estimated that approximately 23,000,000 men and women will vote in the election next Tuesday.

Granting the usual 5 minutes to each voter to mark his or her ballot, the time to be consumed in voting for candidates will approximate 117,500,000 minutes, or 1,958,333 hours, the equivalent of approximately 223 1-2 years!

If the voters were stood up toe to heel in single file they would form a line approximately 4,375 miles long, or from New York to San Francisco and back to Kansas City.

Assuming that the crosses made by each voter totaled ten inches, the pencil marks, if straightened out end to end, would extend 6,388,888 yards, or from New York to Manchester, England.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, October 28.—Election day this year, if the people turn out to vote as may well be expected, will witness the greatest confusion that has ever marked a similar event in American history.

Because of the belated ratification of this women's suffrage amendment, which ratification is expected to add, conservatively, at least 5,000,000 voters to the lists, a majority of states have been unable to enlarge their election machinery to meet the increased volume of business. As a result alomst the same facilities for handling the election this year are in use as were used in the last election and, with the prospect of from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 more voters that must be accommodated.

There is a very great danger, therefore, of thousands of people not being able to cast their ballots in the limited time allotted for the work. Because of this, there has been started now a tremendous movement in all states to have the people vote early.

Nevertheless, it may be expected that the results in all states will be delayed and the final conclusive vote unavailable for a period longer than has been the case in elections of the past.

Generally speaking, five minutes is the time the average voter requires to fill out his or her ballot. Some, of course, require less and some more. But there are so many different parties and so many factional fights on in the country that this year it would seem doubtful if the average time required to make out the ballot would prove less than five minutes.

Chicago's Big Ballot.

Incidentally, the number of parties has so increased the size of the ballots that hundreds of thousands of dollars must be spent this year above all previous ballot-printing costs. Take, for example, the Chicago ballot. It measures 30 by 36 inches. There are complete tickets for the democratic, republican, socialist, socialist-labor, prohibition, farmer-labor and single tax parties. In addition, there is the space for John Harlan, candidate for governor on the "Harding-Coolidge republican" ticket, apart from the regular republican ticket. Harrison Parker is listed as candidate for governor of the "Co-operative Party of America" ticket. There is a candidate for congressman-at-large on the independent ticket.

It is estimated by Chief Clerk Sullivan, of the election board, that, in Chicago alone, the cost of printing and handling the ballots this year will be $75,000 over that of previous elections. Six tons of paper will be required to print the 6,000,000 ballots and 46 trucks have been secured to convey these ballots to the polls in Chicago.

A similar situation, varying in degrees according to the size of the cities, exists in almost every state in the union.

More Time Required.

And to study and vote such ballots will require more time than has been needed in previous campaigns. This is particularly true in view of the fact that the women generally, and the men to a less degree, are manifesting intention of voting independently of party, hundreds of thousands, for example, voting for a presidential candidate of one party and a senator of another party. In addition, governors are being elected this year in a majority of states and here again the voting independent of strict party lines is a feature of many of the contests.

In an attempt to meet the situation election boards throughout this section have adopted the slogan: "Vote before 10 a. m, if you don't wish to lose your vote.' In Indiana and Ohio, where the fight has taken on unusual intensity, the district leaders are voting thousands of people, who are old or ailing, at their homes, in order to save time. In fact, I found in Indiana that in some districts, the leaders are applying for ballots to be voted at home, by some who could go to the polls, but, because of the heavy registration in certain precincts, were being voted at home to insure all people registered getting in during the established hours.

Counting Greatly Delayed.

In scores of precincts in the east and middle west it has been discovered that the registration is such that, if an average of even three minutes were given each voter registered, all could not vote within the period established by law.

In 1912 the total vote on the president was 13,031,169. In 1916 this vote increased to 18,528,743, but in anticipation of the increased vote many states made provision for extra election machinery. This year, it is estimated that the total presidential vote will range around 24,000,000, which increase has not been generally provided for by the states.

In 1916 there were premature celebrations of victories by many from presidential candidates down, only to have the final vote a day or so later, reveal that in many instances, including the presidency, the early indicated results proved erroneous.

This year, as a result of the condition of the election machinery, the vote count probably will be delayed even beyond the time required in 1916—with similar possibility of a change in result when the final totals are in.

VOCATIONAL BOARD FOR CHILDREN HERE

First Steps Are Taken to Insure Bureau for Schools.

First steps toward establishment of a public school bureau for vocational guidance of students emerging into the business world have been taken by the Atlanta Teachers' association and Osborne Williams, director of the department of educational research and vocational guidance. Mrs. Anna Y. Reed, assistant director general of the United States Employment Service, spoke before the association in Browning hall of the Girls' High school Thursday afternoon, enunciating the principle "that primary and secondary education are not completed until the pupil is firmly established in either college or the business world."

Such bureaus have been organized in 23 cities in the country, including New York, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, St. Paul and Minneapolis. They are operated under the employment service, the government and local school boards each paying half of the expenses. The work of the bureaus is not limited to school children, but applies to all boys and girls under the age of 21. Atlanta is the first southern city to undertake the organization of a bureau.

Mrs. Reed pictured the broad gap and harsh contrast between the minute supervision of the school room and the lack of supervision in the business and professional phases of life, pointing out the many causes of failure in the cases of young boys and girls who cannot adjust themselves to this condition. Closely connected with these points she emphasized the fact that "work experience" should constitute a part of our educational system.

She stated that the great weakness of public schools today is their failure to follow up students and learn what they do after leaving the school, thus giving them an insight into the preparation for vocations.

The proposed plan was indorsed by W. A. Sutton and was passed unanimously by more than 100 teachers present. The final decision as to whether or not such a bureau will be established here by the government is dependent upon the local schools and the department of educational research and vocational guidance. The latter, headed by Mr. Williams, is doing all possible to push the plan to an early consummation. Today Mrs. Reed and Mr. Williams will meet the superintendent of public schools and several prominent business men to discuss the matter.

"Intelligence tests," as bearing directly upon the "educational guidance" mentioned by Mrs. Reed, have already been made in a number of the primary grades by Mr. Williams. These tests consist of a list of questions, graded as to difficulty in answering, which are given the child to answer in a specified time. The answers are then used as indications of the child's intelligence and aptitude in special lines of endeavor. When all of the results have been tabulated, Mr. Williams will announce to parents his recommendations for children as to guidance in education and later in vocation.

CHAPPLE DESCRIBES ADVERTISING EFFECT

The Ad Head of Big Mills Delivers Address to Local Club.

The effect of advertising and the subsequent collateral, or parallel sales advantages, which may arise from an extensive program were outlined to the Atlanta Advertising club at its regular luncheon in the breakfast room of the Kimball house Thursday noon by Bennett Chapple, advertising manager of the American Rolling Mills company, of Middletown, Conn.

Mr. Chapple also made encouraging comment on anticipations rife among the advertising element of the entire country over the convention of the Associated Advertising Culbs of the World in Atlanta next June, and his remarks along this line were supplemented by others present whose recent visits to other parts of the country had put them in touch with advertising people who announce their firm intention of visiting Atlanta on this occasion.

Robert E. Harvey urged that the Ad club co-operate in every way in the effort to take a large delegation to Macon next Wednesday, for participation in the exercises on that day at the Georgia State fair in celebration of Atlanta day. Mr. Harvey also urged that the Ad men give unstinted aid to celebration of Armistice day on Thursday, November 11.

An annual feature of the Ad club's work, sponsoring of work of the Anti-Tuberculosis association, was broached to the meeting in an effective address by Dr. Henry Alford Porter, chaplain of the organization, who pointed out the vital necessity for such work and the service which Ad clubs have rendered in the past along this line.

After the conclusion of Dr. Porter's talk, George Lowman, chairman of the committee which will handle this phase of the club's activity, addressed the meetin, telling the members that he was sure of their co-operation to the utmost in the movement and that he would feel no hesitancy in "drafting" any member to aid in the accomplishment of the move. Mr. Lowman said that the $10,000 to be raized by this year's movement, with the Ad club possessing a present membership of about 450, should work no hardship, since $30,000 was raised in the last effort when the club had a membership of little over 200.

St. Elmo Massengale, in the open forum session called by President Dave Webb, told interesting things observed in his recent trip to Europe, stressing optimism and cheeriness prevalent in many European countries heavily hit by war in opposition to lamentable tendencies now existent among certain Americans to "calamity howl" and "kick against the order of things."

President Webb and others present made interesting talks on enthusiasm evinced in the trip of an Ad club delegation to the recent installation ceremonies attendant on the organization of an Advertising club in Columbus. Mr. Webb urged every member who can possibly do so to make trips to other nearby cities for such organization in the near future.

EDGEWOOD SCHOOL WINS FIRST PRIZE IN FAIR EXHIBIT

In the school garden products exhibit at the Southeastern fair, participated by 41 public schools, Edgewood school was awarded first prize. The winning exhibit included 43 different kinds of vegetables, seven varieties of fruits, three kinds of nuts, 17 varieties of flowers and 36 classes of canned goods. Calhoun and English Avenue schools tied for second place, while Davis Street and Faith schools tied for third.

The premiums offered totalled $50, the division being made $25, $15 and $10. Relatively small premiums were purposely set by Secretary M. R. Striplin, in order to test the interest of school children in the new department. In the future it is understood that a minimum premium of $700 will be offered.

The department was arranged by Miss May Hardin, director of gardening and nature study in the Atlanta public schools. This branch of the local schools was organized about three years ago with the object of teaching children rudimentary gardening and kindred subjects. Fair rules governing entries in this exhibit were that all products must have been home grown by bona fide students of the public schools.

FIRE SENDS CREW OF BOARDING HOUSE INTO THE STREETS

$150,000 Lumber Fire.

Alexandria, La., October 28.—Mill No. 1 on the Cady Lumber company at McNary, La., near here, was destroyed by fire early today, causing a loss estimated at close to $150,000. Cause of the fire has not yet been determined.

Haiti is immensely proud of its newly organized and equipped motor postal service, which is said to render very prompt service.

GREAT COAL STRIKE TO END IN BRITAIN

United News Staff Correspondent.

London, October 28.—The whole body of British miners, 600,000 workers altogether, will decide next Tuesday whether to accept the government's compromise offer of settlement and thus end the strike, or to remain firm on their original demands.

In government circles the fight is looked upon as won. The miners' leaders are frankly anxious for an affirmative vote from the men they represent, and have strongly recommended acceptance of Lloyd-George's proposals.

The winning of the executives is a government victory. It may be only temporary, but it is a victory nevertheless, particularly for the premier, who thus emerges once more from the most critical position the coalition cabinet has yet occupied.

Depends Upon Miners.

The completeness of the victory depends, however, upon the miners themselves who may, if they are again stirred to action by radicals, throw the whole scheme to the winds.

The compromise which the miners' leaders have decided is fair and just calls for an immediate wage increase of two shillings a day from this time until January 3, 1921.

At that time the whole question will be subject to review, on the basis of the output for the five weeks ending December 18. If the average for September is maintained, an increase over the present scale of only one shilling a day will be continued, with a sliding scale calling for an extra six-pence per day for every 288,000 pounds sterling weekly increase in profits on exported coal.

From January and continuing until the last of March, the wage schedule will be revised monthly on that basis. On March 31, the joint committee will report on wages and profits during the entire period.

Opposition to Agreement.

Considerable opposition to the agreement on the part of the miners is predicted, inasmuch as the executives failed to submit the plan to the delegates, preferring to take the question direct to the workers for a referendum.

The principal cause for congratulation, in considering this a government victory, is that with the increased production practically assured, the winter coal crisis has been averted—which was the prime objective of Lloyd-George's latest moves.

The mine owners have given sincere pledges to co-operate to boost production, offering to sacrifice a proportional part of their profits if the increased output is not realized.

Following the balloting on Tuesday, the delegates' conference will meet in London to hear the result and take the final step closing the negotiations.

ROOSEVELT BRINGS $500,000 LIBEL SUIT

New York, October 28.—Franklin D. Roosevelt today filed papers in a suit for $500,000 against John R. Rathom, editor and publisher of The Providence Journal, and Scott C. Bone and Edward B. Clark, manager and assistant manager of publicity for the republican national committee. Mr. Roosevelt charges the defendants with circulating false and defamatory libel.

An editorial in The Providence Journal charged Mr. Roosevelt had sequestrated or destroyed navy department records and that he had sought personally to return to the ships of the navy men convicted of various crimes. Mr. Roosevelt made public denial of the charges and then Mr. Rathom sent him a letter outlining specific cases referred to in the editorial. The letter also was published in The Providence Journal.

Mr. Bone and Mr. Clark are made defendants because it is charged by Mr. Roosevelt they widely circulated the letter as republican propaganda.

Why, $2.50 is often less than the annual upkeep of an expensive watch, less than interest on a high-priced watch investment.

GOV. RUSSELL BURNED IN EFFIGY BY COLLEGE BOYS

Oxford, Miss., October 28.—A meeting of the faculty of the University of Mississippi was called today to investigate a demonstration on the campus last night when Governor Russell was burned in effigy.

Two hundred students took part in the demonstration, which followed an order of the board of trustees regulating dances at the university. The governor is chairman of the board.

Members of the board of trustees stated today that the order restricting dancing was issued because of the frequency of these social events; that dances were being held two or three times each week, lasting until the small hours of the morning.

REPUBLICANS SPEND MILLIONS FOR HARDING

Cost of Congress Fights.

Reports of the erpublican congressional and senatorial committees filed today with the senate committee appointed to investiagte campaign expenses, showed that the former had spent $488,525.41, and the latter aproximately $147,500 in conducting their campaign so far this year. Reports of the two democratic committees were embodied in the national democratic committee's report, which, along with the republican national committee's statement, was filed today.

The republican congressional statement showed that its total receipts were $5666,315.92 on October 26, with an unexpended balance of $77,790.51. A large number of contributions were listed, among which was $2,000 from H. M. Hanna, of Thomasville, Ga.

Chairman Miles Poindexter, of the republican senatorial committee, in his report, said that up to October 23, orders had been drawn on Treasurer Guy Scott for a sum totalling approximately $147,500, the report giving no total, but itemizing each order. Senator Poindexter reported the balance on hand October 19 as $3,700.

The democratic report said that in addition to other funds received, J. F. Guffey, of Pittsburg, had guaranteed $25,000 toward the expenses of an advertisement entitled, "From a Gold Star Mother," to be inserted in "certain newspapers in certain states," and that Allan A. Ryan had guaranteed $25,000 for the expenses of another advertisement, "The Voice of France."

The democratic committee's report gave an itemized statement of expenses, along which was approximately $90,000 paid various railway companies for train service. The republican report was not itemized.

New York, October 28.—Total receipts by the democratic national committee to October 25 for the conduct of the present campaign amount to $878,831.24, according to an announcement today by Wilbur W. Marsh, the party's national treasurer.

This figure, Mr. Marsh said, was today submitted according to the requirements of the corrupt practices law to the Kenyon committee investigating campaign contributions and expenditures in Chicago.

The sum collected, the democratic treasurer stated, is constituted almost entirely of contributions to the campaign fund, with the exception of $150,000 which was borrowed. Other sources, which aggregated collections of only a few hundred dollars, included the sale of the campaign text books, refunds from advertising, and such small items.

The statement itemizes moneys received by the headquarters in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, as well as the women's bureau. Of the total, $665,481.33 was collected in New York, while San Francisco showed an aggregate fund of but $1,763.90. The women's bureau was responsible for the collection of $8,554.50. Chicago collected $53,041.51.

Disbursements by the entire organization up to the same date, as shown by the statement, amount to $823,345.09, with New York bearing by far the heaviest burden, Chicago a sum slightly less than its receipts, and San Francisco an expense approximately eight times the amount of funds received. Running the women's bureau for the entire campaign to date cost but $1,339.30, the statement adds.

Account books of the treasurer's office also show commitments as of October 25 as follows:

Naturalized citizens' bureau, $761.19; organization bureau, $2,348.60; women's bureau, $12,022.20; treasurer's statistical, $1,403.26; general, $2,210.10; publicity, $121,109.34; total commitments, $139,854.69.

In addition to funds already received, Mr. Marsh's statement included a memerandum to the effect that two individuals had pledged $25,000 each to pay the expenses of advertising books relating to the league of nations.

Business Swept Away, Debt Came, Theft Followed

Cartersville, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—Entering a plea of guilty to stealing over $4,000 from one of the carnival women here two weeks ago, "Doc." Martin, said to be a prominent automobile dealer of Rome, was this morning sentenced by Judge M. C. Tarver to serve one year on the chaingang. Although the money was returned, and a plea of guilty entered, Judge Tarver, in pronouncing sentence, said he could not overlook the offense which Martin admitted, and gave him a chaingang sentence.

In a statement to the court, Martin related an interesting story. He said he was at the head of a good business in Macon at the outbreak of the war, but feeling his country's call, volunteered for service, and was soon promoted to the rank of captain. He served overseas and is said to have made a good record. Returning home, he found his business had been swept away, and he entered the automobile business in Rome. He prospered for a time, he told the court, and when an opportunity presented itself to secure the $4,000 in cash, the impulse for the moment was too strong to resist.

Before sentence was pronounced, a number of citizens of Rome appeared in Martin's behalf, and his lawyer, Attorney Mebane, pleaded for a fine, instead of the chaingang. The court thought otherwise, and Martin will at once begin his one year's sentence.

He has a wife and young child in Rome, as well as his parents, he told the court.

Chrysanthemum Show.

Cartersville, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—The annual chrysanthemum show will be given at Stilesboro, near here, this year on Friday, November 5, Miss Jessie McCormick, chairman of the commtitee, from the Village Improvement club, announced today. This is one of the most interesting events of the year in this section, and the show of these lovely flowers attracts visitors from throughout northeast Georgia.

COUNDOURIOTIS GREEK REGENT

He Is Minister of Marine in Venizelos Cabinet. Funeral of King to Be Held Today.

London, October 28.—The Greek chamber of deputies has elected Admiral P. Coundouriotis as regent of Greece by a vote of 137 to 3, says a dispatch to The London Times from Athens. Admiral Coundouriotis is minister of marine in the Venizelos cabinet.

In September, 1916, Admiral Coundouriotis, then commander-in-chief of the Greek navy, accompanied Premier Venizelos and his followers when they departed from Greece for the island of Crete and set up a provisional government for the purpose of forcing Greece into the war on the side of Serbia and the entente allies. The admiral was a co-signer with Venizelos of the proclamation establishing the provisional government, the power of which later brought Greece into the war and forced the abdication of King Constantine.

Dispatches from Athens at the time said that the departure of Coundouriotis from Greece created a deep impression on King Constantine and completely upset the morale of the Greek fleet, some of the vessels of which immediately left their anchorages and joined the allied fleet in the Aegean sea.

Since the end of the war Coundouriotis has been minister of marine.

CORPSE OF KING BORNE IN MOTOR TO CATHEDRAL

Athens, October 27.—Funeral services for the late King Alexander, which will be held Friday, will be attended by the Crown Prince of Sweden, according to present arrangements. He is in this city at the present time. Other nations will probably be represented by diplomatic officials.

In His Own Motor Car.

The body of King Alexander was conveyed today from Tatoi to the cathedral in Athens in his own motor car, which was driven by his great friend, Lieutenant Stavro Metaxas. The coffin was draped in the royal flag.

The improvised hearse was followed by several motor cars, in the first of which Dowager Queen Olga with a lady-in-waiting, while in the second was the widow of the king, Madame Manos, accompanied by M. Gryparis, grand marshal of the court.

Members of the cabinet and high officials awaited the arrival of the cortege at the cathedral, in which the body was placed on a catafalque guarded by a special detail of soldiers and officers.

After brief prayers the mourners withdrew and the public was admitted to the cathedral. The crowd was so dense that it was extremely difficult to maintain order.

$1 FOR A HAIRCUT, 35 CENTS FOR SHAVE, SCALE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, October 28.—The central executive council of the Master Barbers' association, representing 2,700 barbers in the city, today decided upon a raise to $1 for a haircut and 35 cents for a shave, to become effective January 1.

The explanation given was the increased expense of operating a barber shop.

"There seems nothing else to do," said A. B. Raymond, secretary-treasurer of the journeymen barbers' union. "However, the public should be educated not to tip the barber."

GOVERNORS BALK AT SHUTTING GINS

Columbia, S. C., October 28.—Governor Cooper stated today that he would not call a special session of the legislature, as requested in a resolution adopted by the cotton association here yesterday, and indicated that he would not issue a proclamation calling upon the ginners to close down for a period of thirty days. The special session of the legislature was requested for the enactment of legislation which would allow the farmers to pay part of their 1920 taxes in January and the remainder next July, the postponement being desired because of the financial situation due to the low price of cotton.

The governor stated today that as the legislature meets in regular session in January and as the people will next Tuesday vote on the question of changing the fiscal year for the state government, there would be nothing gained by calling a special session.

With regard to the proclamation for the closing of gins, the governor is informed that many of the farmers are opposed to this, and he takes the position that he has no more right to use his influence for a closing of cotton gins than he would have for a closing of stores or other lines of industry.

Texas Governor Refuses.

Austin, Texas, October 28.—Governor Hobby today declined to join Governor Parker, of Louisiana, in requesting ginneries to close down for thirty days or more.

"If the cotton is made it would not be wise to throw it away or allow it to deteriorate by not ginning it."

Governor Hobby said in reply to Governor Parker's request for such action: "Putting it in better shape for preservation by baling it will, in my opinion, enable the farmers to hold the cotton for higher prices without impairment of grade. It is likely, too, that if ginning operations should cease that gamblers and manipulators would exaggerate the amount of cotton held back and use it as a club to beat down prices more effectively than would be the case if the amount were actually ascertained through ginners' reports."

$300,000 BATTERY PLANT FOR ATLANTA

The F. V. L. Smith Company Already Has Secured a Charter.

Another indication that Atlanta is the logical manufacturing center of the southeast was the announcement made yesterday that a company has been organized here to erect a $300,000 electrical battery manufacturing plant. This will be Atlanta's first factory of its kind.

The concern has already been granted a charter by Fulton superior court and organization was completed at a meeting of promoters of the enterprise Wednesday. F. V. L. Smith, widely known Atlanta man and founder of the company, which is to be known as the F. V. L. Smith Battery company, is president and treasurer; J. W. Moore, president of the Atlanta Utility Works, is vice president, and S. L. Manson, of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, is secretary.

Although the exact location of the factory site has not been definitely determined, Mr. Smith said yesterday that an option has been secured on a plant near East Point. It is intended to operate a chain of general service stations throughout the southern states giving continual service. New York headquarters of the concern have already opened at 200 Broadway.

Mr. Smith announced that no stock in the concern will be offered for sale to the general public. He is leaving shortly for New York city to lay the plans of his company before eastern capitalists for their consideration. A number of Atlanta's leading citizens are already interested in the company.

Mr. Smith has been connected with the battery business since 1887, and has held prominent offices with a number of the best known institutions of the country. He has also invented a number of electrical devices and machines.

"I believe that Atlanta is the logical manufacturing center for the southeast," Mr. Smith declared. "There is no reason for expensive waste motion in shipping a finished product from 1,000 miles away when the product can be made just as good if not better right here in Atlanta. We intend to manufacture a superior battery of new design, new formula and process. The cost of production will be considerably lessened through extensive use of automatic machinery and equipment in our plant. We hope to have facilities for producing 1,000 batteries per day."

Batteries will be made for automobile starting, lighting and ignition, and for use on submarines, railway coaches, mining locomotives, wireless apparatus and all other contrivances requiring the use of either portable or stationary batteries.

MACON FAIR DRAWS THRONG OF 12,000

Macon, Ga., October 28.—(Special.) With more than 12,000 paid admissions on the opening day, the Georgia State fair began a ten days' session here today. The large crowd of the first day was due to the fact that a circus showed inside the grounds. The weather was ideal.

At a meeting of the fair committee and department superintendents today, W. D. Hammack, of Coleman, president of the Georgia Agricultural society, under the auspices of which the state fair is held, was presented with a gold-headed cane. The presentation speech was made by J. H. Mills, general superintendent.

MRS. LUMPKIN HEADS WOMEN IN ROLL CALL

Will Supervise the Women's Work in Red Cross Drive.

Coincident with the establishment Thursday of headquarters of the fourth Red Cross roll call on the second floor of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce building, it was announced that Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, prominent Atlanta woman, will supervise the woman's division in its co-operative work with the Civitan club, headed by Julian Boehm, who will conduct the movement.

The executive committee of men was announced Thursday as follows: James L. Logan, B. Graham West, W. D. Ellis, Jr., J. M. Harlinger, Norman C. Miller, Guy Thurman, H. A. Coles, W. D. Couch, R. N. R. Barnwell, Wade H. Davis and E. N. Brown. Mrs. Lumpkin will announce the committee which will serve with her within the next two or three days.

While the campaign does not begin actively until November 11, Armistice day, several memberships were taken Thursday, Victor H. Kriegshaber being the first to enroll. Mr. Kriegshaber, upon the opening of offices, called and secured memberships for himself and every member of his family.

Mrs. Lumpkin Experienced.

Particular gratification is being expressed over the acceptance by Mrs. Lumpkin of the chairmanship of the woman's division, since her former work with the Red Cross and with other organizations of the nature is remembered by all Atlantans as standing high in the list of things done by Atlanta women for patriotic and other meritorious purposes. She was a member of the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense, head of the woman's committee in the Sixth Federal Reserve district for the three last Liberty loan drives, and has most recently directed the women of the south in their war and post-war campaign for thrift.

Mrs. Lumpkin and others interested in the present movement have expressed their high regard for work the Red Cross has done in after-war days as not so spectacular, but quite as commendable as work during the emergency period.

"I have seen and known the value of the Red Cross," said Mrs. Lumpkin Thursday, "and the new department of nursing service, whereby our public health service is so greatly benefited, appeals to me and is going to appeal to all thoughtful citizens, men or women.

"I have always felt the visiting nurse could be the greatest agent for bettering public health conditions, because she can go into the home where she is needed, suggest a doctor when one is needed and supplement the work of a doctor. She can help within the home, just as one woman can help another, and I do not think the Red Cross could start a better or more practical form of service."

Membership $1.

The annual membership fee of the Red Cross is $1, and of this amount one-half is retained by the Atlanta chapter. Contributing membership is $5, $4 of which is devoted to work of the local organization. The sustaining membership is $10, and $8 of this amount goes to finance work of the Atlanta chapter.

Chairman Boehm suggested Thursday that some might wish to mail checks now for contributing or sustaining memberships, and asked that checks be made payable to W. T. Perkerson, care of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The roll call proper will be in progress from November 11 to November 15, inclusive, and Atlanta is expected to secure not less than 30,000 members.

Elaborate preparations are being made for beginning the canvass on Armistice day and the Federation of Woman's Clubs is to assist in the conduct of the campaign. Dr. Livingston Farrand, of Washington, D. C., head of the Red Cross, will visit the city next week in the interest of the roll call, and extensive preparations are being made by the local committee for his entertainment. He will speak at special meetings of the Rotary and Civitan clubs during his stay here.

The number of parts in a watch varies, but the usual number is 175, and in making these pieces and putting them together there are about 2,400 different operations.

To harness up the chained water power of America would result in a saving of coal of more than 126,000,000 tons a year.

WILTON HOTEL PARCEL BRINGS SUM OF $120,000

The largest Atlanta realty deal recently recorded was the sale of the Wilton hotel property at 220 Peachtree street, Wednesday, by C. H. Taylor to Hugh Richardson. The consideration is understood to have been $120,00. It is stated that Mr. Richardson purchased the property as an investment. The sale was handled by the A. S. Adams-Cates company. Mr. Taylor bought the property from the Hunter P. Cooper estate about one year ago for $80,000.

The property, which adjoins the Masonic temple, at Peachtree and Cain streets, fronts 40 feet on Peachtree and has a depth of 180 feet. It is improved by a semi-frame three-story structure, which for some years has been served as a hotel, and bears the name of The Wilton. It contains forty rooms.

JOHN Y. SMITH NOT MAN INJURED IN PISTOL SCRAPE

John Y. Smith, an attorney of this city, states that because of the similarity of his name to that of John S. Highsmith, shot and wounded Monday night by Newport A. Lanford, ex-chief of Atlanta detectives, he has been subjected to considerable annoyance by people who have telephoned his office to inquire about his condition. He has, he states, even been approached by people in the street, expressing surprise at his "early recovery." Mr. Smith has asked The Constitution to say for him that he is "quite well, and has not been shot or injured in any way."

GIFT OF $10,000 MADE TO N. C. UNIVERSITY

Chapel Hill, N. C., October 28.—Lawrence S. Holt, of Burlington, N. Mr. Holt is an alumnus of the university.

PLAN LOCAL BOARD TO CONTROL SPORTS

A "board of athletic control" to be composed of a number of men prominent in local amateur athletic circles, has been suggested for the city and has received the approbation of Mayor Key, who has invited the membership of the board to attend a meeting in his office at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

The origin of the board came from the suggestion of several men who had interested themselves in such amusements and who decided that since the disbandment of the war camp community service some body to take its place in supervision of amateur athletics should be provided. Members of the board are: R. K. Rambo, Julian Boehm, Robert Maddox, Jack Knowlton, A. M. Smith, H. G. Voorhies, J. R. Seaman, Robert E. Harvey and Charles W. Outlaw.

COX AGAIN STRIKES AT SATURDAY POST

Governor Charges Curtis Publication and Its Editor With Partisanship. Misstatements Alleged.

Dayton, Ohio, October 28.—Another statement charging The Saturday Evening Post and its editor, George Horace Lorimer, with unfair partisanship, was issued today by Governor Cox, democratic presidential candidate.

"The insidious purpose of The Saturday Evening Post, cloaked under non-partisan methods for the past decade, and more, has finally been brought to light," Governor Cox declared, stating that it had made misstatements only four days before election when it was impossible to correct them.

That the Curtis Publishing company had been found guilty by the federal trade commission of violating the anti-trust laws by unfair practices in distributing its periodical was asserted by Governor Cox, declaring that "big business" was opposed to him because he would give it a square deal and nothing more.

Governor Cox's Statement.

The governor's statement follows:

"When early in the week I called attention to the guerrilla tactics of The Saturday Evening Post on the basis of its last minute attack on me, the response of Mr. Lorimer, its editor, was that my action was unethical. I am perfectly willing to leave the decision on ethics to the voters of America, many of whom have been lifetime readers of The Saturday Evening Post and whom, from the time of its origin have looked upon it as a household journal, to which they rendered devotion because it took no part in partisan campaigns. The question of ethics would seem to lie in what America has learned to look upon as a square deal: and when a non-partisan journal becomes partisan in its very last issue four days before an election at a time when it is impossible for misstatements to be corrected or deceit to be met—it would seem to indicate a very deep-seated selfish interest based upon some purpose which could scarcely be called straightforward and honest. No man who represents a just cause has any objection to presenting both sides of the case.

"In my statement I charged ulterior interests. Since Mr. Lorimer has seen fit to reply simply in a way that raises the question of ethics, I would like to direct to him the plain question: Is his interest in this election, which brings the unusual act of partisan support from his paper, based upon the desire for a return to 'normalcy' under which his publication sought to prosper by unfair methods? Is it because the Curtis Publishing company was found guilty of the use of unfair and illegal methods of competition and of violation of the anti-trust law prohibiting use of certain 'tying end' contracts and of violation of the federal trade commission ruling? The complaint in each case was based upon the fact that the Curtis Publishing company made contracts with wholesale distributors which prevented them from handling other publications without permission from the Curtis Publishing company and which prohibited the sale of all competing publications.

Alleged Plan of Curtis Company.

"The plan of the Curtis Publishing company was with the intent and had the effect of largely increasing circulation of Curtis publications and unfairly decreasing circulation of competing publications to the end that the Curtis Publishing company would derive large advertising rates by reason of tremendous circulation. These unfair practices prevented competing publishers from obtaining distribution of their publications through the ordinary distributing channels and forced them to distribute through channels which did not have any facilities for a wide distribution. Proof for these unlawful practices was found by the federal trade commission after extensive hearings, on July 21, 1919, and the Curtis Publishing company was forced to cease and desist.

"Here is the harm of the reactionary desire for return to the normalcy. The protection of the anti-trust act is insufficient; but the federal trade commission has authority to investigate the facts and to issue rulings thereon. Every unfair business in America is, therefore, against me because I do not stand for the return to the old order under which the strong prospered at the expense of the weak and under which big business grew bigger while small businesses were forced out of existence.

"The insidious purpose of The Saturday Evening Post cloaked under non-partisan methods for the past decade and more has finally been brought to light. It has grown to such size and gained such prosperity as to be emboldened beyond all discretion and has expressed what in my mind is the thing which is causing all big business to support the reactionary candidate, that they know that from me they may expect a square deal and nothing more. It is the difference between a square deal and that which big business wants which constitute the ruturn to 'normalcy.'"

EDITOR LORIMER REPLIES TO COX.

Philadelphia, October 28.—George Horace Lorimer, editor of The Saturday Evening Post, in a statement tonight in reply to charges of unfair partisanship on the part of The Post and its editor, made today by Governor Cox, said:

"It is common kowledge that The Saturday Evening Post is not influenced in its stand by a desire for more circulation, because for some time it now has cut the orders for its edition several hundred thousand copies weekly. If it were, as Governor Cox charges, a large beneficiary of advertising growing out of the excess profits tax, its course in vigorously attacking that section of the revenue bill from week to week would be suicidal. In short, the animus behind Governor Cox's charge must be apparent to even the simplest mind. The real explanation of the stand taken by The Saturday Evening Post during the past year has not occurred, and probably could not occur to him; that it grew out of a sincere desire for better and more efficient government.

"Partisanship to Governor Cox means being against him and what he stands for. The Saturday Evening Post has always had perfectly clear-cut opinions on politics and other subjetcs, and has never hesitated to express them, whether they were compatible to etiher or both of the old parties and their candidates. Our policies in this respect are perfectly well known to the public, and quite unchanged. I repeat that when we stood for the re-election of Mr. Wilson in the last days before the last election, neither Governor Cox nor any other democrat found anything either 'partisan' or 'insidious' in our action.

"Governor Cox, personally, is of secondary importance in this campaign, but the democratic candidate, weighed in the balances of his public utterances, has proved himself merely a politician, using the democratic party, since the armistice has been one of incompetence, waste and failure to do the things that are necessary to the salvation of America."

KING HARDWARE CO.

PROFIT OF 6.85 ON PHONE RATES

This Is Estimate of Per Cent Yield, Provided Increases Are Granted the Company.

With J. M. Hoxsey, first vice president of the concern, still on the stand at the close of the second day's hearing before the Georgia railroad commission, of the application of the Southern Bell Telephone company, for increases in rates, disclosure that the proposed increases would yield an estimated profit of 6.85 per cent on the Georgia investment of 1921, and that the company had a total net revenue of $612,549.93, or 4.07 per cent, in 1920, were most important features of testimony Thursday.

It was also brought out again at the hearing that the Southern Bell is owned outright by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the commission took occasion to question Mr. Hoxsey of the intercorporate relationship of the two concerns and the Western Electric company, which is also the property of the telephone and telegraph company.

With an average investment in Georgia for the year ending July 1, of $15,038,348.80, the Southern Bell had a total expense of $4,550,858.18, according to the testimony of the witnesses, and a net reevnue of $612,549.93, or 4.07 per cent, which is little over half of the legal rate of interest in this state.

The total net revenue for 1920, if the new rates now petitioned had been in effect, would have been $1,547,469, or an increase in revenue of $934,919, stated Mr. Hoxsey. Applying the petitioned rates of 1921, on the basis of the same amount of business of 1920 and new expenses, the total net revenue of the company would be approximately $1,011,000, or 6.85 per cent on the investment, it was stated.

Hoxsey's Statement.

When the commission resumed the telephone company's hearing yesterday afternoon, Chairman C. M. Candler questioned Mr. Hoxsey on the relationship of the Southern Bell, the Western Electric and American Telephone and Telegraph company, and the witness made the following statement:

"The American Telephone and Telegraph company owns outright all the stock of the Southern Bell, and has owned it for several years, but so far as I know, it does not own any of the bonds of the Southern Bell. The American Telephone and Telegraph has from time to time advanced large sums of money to the Southern Bell for construction and equipment, and has taken the Southern Bell's demand notes. These notes would accumulate and when it becomes necessary for the Southern bell to pay them they were usually paid either by issuing additional stock or by selling bonds and paying them with the proceeds. The Southern Bell now owes the American Telephone and Telegraph about $1,400,000, covered by demand notes. It is necessary to pay these notes, and the company cannot find a sale for its bonds because of the insufficiency of its earnings.

"The American Telephone and Telegraph also owns, I understand, a majority of the stock of the Western Electric company, which is a very large manufacturer of telephone equipment. The relation of the Southern Bell to the Western Electric is similar to the relation between principal and agent, that is to say, the Western Electric acts as buying agent for the Southern Bell. There is a contract whereby the Southern Bell pays the Western Electric a commission on such purchases. This arrangement very often enables the Southern Bell to buy equipment at a great saving."

Session Adjourns.

With testimony still unfinished, the chairman alte Thursday afternoon adjourned the session until Friday morning when Mr. Hoxsey will complete his testimony, and representatives opposing the granting of the petition will probably enter further protests. Should the commission decide to grant the new rates, it is understood some of the protestants are depending upon contracts between their municipalities and the telephone company to prevent any local increase.

Mayor B. P. Jackson, of Vidalia, stated yesterday his city has a contract which gives residence telephones a rate of $2 per month and business telephones at $3 per month. Valdosta has a contract providing a $4-a-month rate for business telephones and $2.50 for the same period for residence phones. It is also claimed by representatives of this city that according to the contract the company should have installed 2,000 telephones, but only 1,600 have been placed.

The morning session of the commission was filled with hearings of the American Railway Express company for an increase in rates in the state of 13½ per cent; of the McRae-Helena Telephone company for increased rates for its exchanges at Alamo and Chauncey; of the Rhine Telephone company for new increased rates at Rhine, and of the Glennwood Telephone company for advanced rates at Glennwood.

The petition of the Savannah and Atlanta railroad to discontinue operating two trains between Savannah and Camak twice a day and substitute one passenger train and one freight each way a day was also heard. The commission at the conclusion of this case then heard the petition of a number of citizens of Farrar, on the Central of Georgia, between Macon and Madison, for a freight and passenger depot.

BROADSIDE FIRED AT HARDING VOTERS

our going into the league, and notwithstanding the 'wiggling and wobbling' of Senator Harding, the voters have taken him at his word that he is against the league and that he has turned his back upon it.

"Every smoke screen set up by the 'senatorial oligarchy' has been pierced and every entanglement has been torn down. The specious attempt to build up a slogan for a 'change' is the last to fall.

Cox Is the Candidate.

"My opponents make their fight upon the league issue and upon me. They have failed in their attempt to divert the issues. They have been compelled to recognize that Cox is the candidate and no longer can they continue their assault upon President Wilson, whom they have pitilessly belabored for months, even though they knew he was sick and unable to defend himself—as much a victim of the war as is any disabled soldier in the hospital."

In his assault upon sentiment for "a change," Governor Cox put these questions to voters:

"Do they want a change that will mean tax revision from a big business point of view? That is the change they would get from Senator Harding.

"Do the cattle raisers want the change desired so that the Kenyon-Kendrick bill will be killed, leaving the cattle men to obtain whatever prices the big five elect to give? All of Senator Harding's political associates are opposed to that bill.

"Do they desire a change 'back to normalcy,' relative to legislation? Will Johnson, Borah, Norris and the other progressives in and out of congress deny they are hoping to prevent Penrose from writing the next tariff bill?

"Do they want a change that will mean success to the program of reactionary politicians, including Senator Harding, desirous of abolishing all direct primaries and thus eliminating the 'troublesome instructed delegations' when the old guard leaders assemble at 2:11 a. m. for their quadrennial conference to pick the presidential nominee for the republican voters of America?

Harding and $1 Wheat.

"Do the farmers want a change to a federal administration headed by Senator Harding, who declared in 1917 that wheat could be raised at a profit for $1 a bushel?

"Do the farmers want a change to the type of political control that brought about the agrarian revolt in North Dakota?

"Do the working men of America want a change to an administration headed by Senator Harding, who voted for the anti-strike sections of the Cummins bill, although in keeping with his general conduct he would pose now as a friend of labor?

"Do the women of America want a change that would mean control of government by men led by Lodge and Penrose, who opposed woman suffrage and every other moral issue and who are just as wrong on all social service problems now as they are on the league of nations? During that portion of the last seven years in which there was a democratic congress, more humanitarian and national welfare legislation was enacted than during the whole history of preceding republican congresses, and more of it will be added to the statutes when the women will have rejected the party of evasion and misrepresentation.

"Do the small business men of the nation want a change in the federal reserve banking system that would enable a small group of bankers to regain control of the money power of the country?

Newberry's Tainted Seat.

"Do the supporters of fair and honest elections want a change that would mean more power to Senator Watson, of Indiana, who engineered the dilatory tactics that prevented action by the senate committee by which Senator Turman Newberry remained a senator for two years after the Michigan election and after his conviction by republican jury in a republican court in his own republican state for having purchased his seat in the senate?

"Do the men and women of Irish descent want a change that will mean, according to Senator Harding, that the question of Irish independence shall not be one for the intercession of official America; or do they want a change that will mean the presentation of Ireland's case at the bar of world opinion?

"Do the men and women of German descent, said to be led by George Sylvester Vierck, because of some promise of a separate peace under more favorable terms to Germany, want a change from the conditions at Paris, where, as everyone knows, Germany would have been cut to pieces like a beefsteak had it not been for the United States: or do they want the influence of the United States in the league of nations to see that questions are settled on the basis of justice, humanity and fair dealing instead of vindictiveness and destruction?

"Do the former service men want a change that would be nothing more than the repetition of the farce staged by congress when it played horse for over a year with the adjusted compensation question and came to no definite conclusion; or do they want a change to a positive pledge of support for the fourfold plan, approved by the American Legion at Cleveland?

Control of Supreme Court.

"Do the people who regard the supreme court as the greatest bulwark of justice want a change to majority control by reactionary justices selected by a reactionary president?

"Do the people want a change back to the old conditions that caused Roosevelt to revolt in 1912? Have they forgotten that the men now in control of the republican party are the same that Roosevelt fought and the people turned out of office? Those men have not changed. It is impossible that the public estimate of them has changed.

"These are the questions," Governor Cox declared, "that have been considered, and to them has come the answer in the acquisition of all the leading progressive and independent republicans, who in the past few days, have pledged their support through statements in the newspapers."

En route here Governor Cox gave a rear platform talk to several hundred persons at Richmond, Ind., declaring he believed it unnecessary to return to this state again, and referring to his early campaign prediction that he would "trot the last quarter faster than the first."

Governor Cox will return to Ohio tomorrow fo another day's campaigning in his home state. He will speak tomorow morning at Youngstown, the home of E. H. Moore, his campaign manager at the San Francisco convention, and during the afternoon at Ravenna, Ohio. A night meeting will be held at Akron.

Some of the most demonstrative crowds of the campaign greeted the governor here. Along the parade line he was cheered repeatedly and compelled to address a lobby crowd at his hotel.

His overflow meeting, addressed from a high balcony of Tomlinson hall, numbered several thousands. Tomlinson hall itself was packed.

Cox Answers Hughes.

Governor Cox commented tonight upon today's address here by Charles E. Hughes.

"Justice Hughes said that he favors a new association of nations," said the governor. "Judge Taft yesterday said that a new association of nations could not even be talked about for the simple reason that the league was now formed with forty-three nations. They will not break it up to please Russia, Turkey, Mexico and the United States."

Governor Cox added the statement that if the republicans cannot "agree upon where they stand, what assurance is there that there would be any definite result in the senate if the republican party is given control of the government?"

The governor also referred sarcastically to Senator Harding's speech yesterday at Cleveland.

"He said he had brought Judge Taft and Senator Johnson nearer together than ever before," said the speaker. "I contend that Taft and Johnson tonight are agreed that the republican candidate is trying to wiggle and wobble into the presidential chair."

The governor'se overflow audience hissed the name of Senator Lodge, of Massachusets, when the democratic candidate repeated his "conspiracy" charge against the republican leader.

"Wherever I go, from the salt water of the Atlantic to the Pacific," Governor Cox said, "the people seem to know whom I'm talking about."

Hisses also were given to the name of Senator Newberry, of Michigan, and the crowd gave a prolonged cheer when the governor predicted that Senator Watson would be left at home.

HARDEN CONVICTED OF BRIBERY CHARGE

government, contended that "a man of Harden's character and reputation does not love revenue officers enough to be chasing them all through the federal building in an effort to loan them money."

Harden's attorneys expect to file their motion for a new trial within the next few days. In the meantime Harden is at liberty under bond of $3,000. He is also under bond on two indictments returned last spring for distilling and the other for removing and concealing whisky. The two whisky cases have not yet been assigned for trial.

HARDING RENEWS REFUSAL TO JOIN

I can stand before you tonight and tell you that I am unpledged, I am unowned, I am unbossed.

"I haven't made a promise save one which isn't in the republican platform, which is my covenant to the American people. The only additional promise is that we are going to try to write the conscience of America into a notable program for social justice in the United States."

Against Present League.

Renewing his challenge to democratic leaders to show any inconsistency or change of position in his utterances on the league issue, Senator Harding declared that he had stood unfailingly against accepting membership in the Versailles league, but in favor of an international association founded on principles of justice.

In stating his position on the league, Mr. Harding declared he had voted for ratification with reservations because that was the only way the senate could deal with the problem as it was presented by the president. He outlined the argument in favor of the reservations on mandates, withdrawal and Artilican qualification had been designated to "limit our obligations, not to make them clearer."

The president's proposal for a mandate over Armenia, the candidate asserted, had shown in striking fashion the wisdom of the republican reservations. He added that, although the United States government sympathized deeply with Armenia, it could not afford to send an army of 70,000 to 100,000 there "after Great Britain and France had taken all the desirable territory bordering on Armenia, leaving to Uncle Sam the starving and oppressed people of Armenia."

Quoting from a British publication which declared the United States was doing more than any other nation in the world, in the way of rehabilitation, by its contributions to European relief, the nominee said:

"That is the soul of America. Talk about breaking the heart of the world. America is healing the heart of the world. But even if the heart-breaking tragedy were true, I would rather break the heart of the world than destroy the soul of American nationality."

Party Government and League.

In his discussion of party government and the league, Senator Harding said:

"I know very well that the American people are thinking of calling the republican party back to service in the nation. I have a very strong conviction that you are going to elect a republican as president of the United States. But I warn you, don't do it unless you intend to put the republican party in power in the congress as well as in the executive office.

"I would not want to be your president unless you are going to give us a republican congress to translate republican promises into legislative enactments. It is very important to have a majority in the United States senate and you ought always to think of the senate as saving to you your American liberty. Don't be distressed about the so-called senatorial oligarchy. There isn't any. I think we would have succeeded this year in harmonizing the senate into a completely useful agent if it had not been for the interference of the chief executive, who was not satisfied with running his own end of Pennsylvania avenue.

"'Oh,' they say, 'you cannot tell where Harding stands on the league.' Well, let me see if I can tell you where I stand. I am at least entitled to speak for myself. I have been speaking since the 22d of last July and I challenge any democrat in America, high or low, to find a contradiction in anything I have said.

Opposed to Military Alliance.

"I said in the beginning that we were opposed to an armed military alliance with the old world, and I say it now. I have said frequently, and I say now, that we are never going to have anything to do with a league with Article 10 in it.

"I have said repeatedly that America does not intend to accept that league. It is true, that as a member of the United States senate, I voted to ratify the peace treaty and the league covenant with reservations, but when I voted there were attached to the covenant reservations to safeguard the independence of the United States.

"I have said from July 22 to now, and I repeat it to you, and Iknow I speak what is in your hearts—America means to play her part in a new relationship among the nations of the world.

"America does not object; she wants an association of nations. America wants to bring the world conscience to common understanding. America wants to turn the light of world opinion on probable controversies or cause of conflict. America wants to join the nations of the world in promoting and preserving peace.

"I have not prescribed the specific thing, because I have not yet come into authority. I do not pretend to prescribe the specific thing myself. A one-man covenant is what brought about the failure of the first attempt. I am not the sort of candidate who believes he can run the world. I am going to need help in the United States."

DECATUR DECIDES ON PRIMARY DATE AT MEET TONIGHT

Having recently voted to abandon the existing councilmanic for the commission-city manager form of government, the citizens of Decatur have been called by the mayor and council to meet in mass assembly in the DeKalb county court room at 8 o'clock tonight to decide upon a date for the holding of a city primary election to select nominees for city commissioner.

The newly-adopted amendments to the charter provides for the holding of a city election on November 17 to elect five commissioners to administer the new form of government, which goes into effect on January 1, 1921. At tonight's mass meeting it is proposed to select an executive committee of citizens to carry out all details in connection with the authorized nominating primary.

Two tickets to contest for membership of the recently-voted board of commissioners of the cty of Deactur have been nominated.

Nominees of one ticket are A. S. Turner, W. P. Johnston, Dr. W. J. Houston, W. J. Mitchell and R. Henley. The other ticket is composed of W. J. Dabney, C. Eugene Allen, Guy Webb, R. E. White and Homer R. George. Names were suggested for the last named ticket by petitions signed by 400 voters of Decatur.

Ten Years Younger Than His Years

Doesn't it make you feel good—cause you to straighten up and feel "chesty"—when someone guesses your age at ten years or so younger than you really are? You look into your mirror, smile with satisfaction and say to yourself: "Well, he didn't make such a bad guess, at that."

The point is: You're no older than your vitality.

If a man is strong, vigorous, mentally alert, fine and fit at 50 he has a better chance of living up to 80 than a man of 30 who is weak and run-down has of living up to 60. While none of us can stay the years nor stop time, we should all make an heroic effort to successfully resist the effects of time by ever keeping our vitality at par.

When you sense a feeling of slowing down of your physical forces—when your stomach, liver, kidneys and other organs show signs of weakness—when you notice a lack of your old time "pep" and "punch"—in other words, when you feel your vitality is on the wane, you should commence at once to restore your energy, strength and endurance by taking

LYKO

The Great General Tonic

This master body-builder will help you keep young in spirit and mental and physical action, because it will assist Nature in maintaining your vitality at par. It enriches the blood, restores worn-out tissues, soothes jangling and over-wrought nerves, induces sound refreshing sleep, sharpens the appetite, tones up the digestion—in short, will put new life, new vigor and new vim in every fibre of your body.

You will be surprised how well you'll feel after taking a treatment of LYKO, if you are tired and worn out, nervously and physically exhausted. It's mildly laxative—keeps the bowels in fine condition. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Moran and His Colonels Arrive Today

Edited By Cliff Wheatley

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Centre college, of Kentucky, the "Prayin' Colonels," and the "Fightin' Fools" of southern football, who will play Georgia Tech Saturday afternoon on Grant field, threw the first surprise of the classic last night, when long distance calls to Danville established the fact that the Colonels had boarded a Southern railway train at 8:10 o'clock bound for Atlanta, and would arrive at the Terminal Station at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon.

The fact was established that injuries are general throughout the team, but nothing definite will be given out, it was stated, concerning this feature until the arrival of Coach Charlie Moran and his warriors.

It has been hinted that one of the great backfield stars of the Centre team was injured in the Harvard engagement, but his name could not be discovered last night.

Chance to Rest.

Centre's action in putting the time of their arrival up a day means that Coach Moran is taking every advantage of giving his men a good rest before the game. The trip will be a hard one, and every minute of relaxation will prove valuable to the cause of the Kentuckians.

Tech pulled the same stunt against the Panthers, and some critics state that the Golden Tornado's wonderful stand against the Pennsylvanians could never have been staged had the team arrived on the scene a few hours before the fray. A long night's rest in honest-to-goodness beds will mean much to the Colonels, and they will be in better shape to offer their best resistance to the destructive forces of the Golden Tornado.

It was stated last night that Moran's squad numbers well over a score of players, and that there will be plenty of substitutes for the gridiron gladiators who fall during the action.

Rooters Aplenty.

It is believed that a number of rooters are on the train with the team, but it was declared that the main body of supporters will not arrive until tonight. Special trains were required to cart the Centre backers to the Harvard game, and it is believed that more than 200 students and alumni of the institution will witness the game with the local collegians.

Due to the fact that cripples are numbered in the squad, the probable line-up of the Colonels would not be given out last night by officials of the Kentucky college. It was stated, however, that the line positions would not suffer any material changes, and that Tech backs would charge the same forwards that ripped through the Crimson line.

Welcoming Party.

A delegation of athletic officials, alumni and students will meet the squad at the Terminal station today, and the team will be carried on an automobile tour through the city. Later they will be taken to one of the leading hotels to remain until after Saturday's game.

It is possible that the Colonels will be sent through a short signal drill this afternoon, but the scene of this preparatory work could not be learned last night. Ponce de Leon park will not be used, as the Petrels and Wofford will contest within the classic enclosure throughout the afternoon. Piedmont park, we are informed, will be open, and there is a chance that one of the football fields at that place will be turned over to the Kentuckians.

CAROLINA WINS GAME FROM TIGERS

Columbia, S. C., October 28.—(Special.)—Before a great state fair crowd, the University of South Carolina defeated Clemson college here today, 3 to 0, in their annual game. Carolina won its last game from Clemson in 1912, one tie having been played between 1912 and 1920.

The only score of the game was made two minutes and 24 seconds after the referee's whistle ordered the start of the game. Carolina received the kick, and the ball was in play on the 22-yard line. Sizemore immediately brought the Carolina section up with a run around left end for 15 yards. The cheerers had not resumed their seats before they were brought up again, when Gressette threw a forward pass to Robinson, with a gain of 40 yards, the ball being advanced to the 22-yard line. The Clemson line stiffened, however, when the Carolina backs tried it, and the Gamecocks got but 5 yards in three attempts. Gressette then scored a dropkick from his 25-yard line, representing the first and last scoring of the day.

Clemson had a great opportunity to score in the second period, when the Tigers had the ball, with a first down, on the 7-yard line. Three line plays gave only 6 yards, and Clemson shot a short forward pass, which pass was completed, but netted a gain of only 2 yards, and the ball went over on the 2-yard line, Carolina booting the ball out of danger.

Carolina, later in the game, with two long runs, was in position to score, but Clemson intercepted a forward pass and kicked up the field. The game was played before a crowd of more than 7,000 persons. A feature of the game was the condition of the Carolina team, Coach Metzger making only one substitution, and this late in the game, when Right Tackle Hampton suffered a wrenched leg and was relieved by Lightsey, a brother of the Clemson tackle.

The best individual work was done by Gressette, in kicking and passing; Sizemore's ruynning attack, and Allen's defensive polay for Carolina. For Clemson, Lightsey played well throughout, while two substitutes, O'Neill, in the backfield, and Langston, at end, also starred.

The line-up:

BARROW TO HOLD UP BUSINESS END FOR THE YANKEES

New York, October 28.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, part owner of the New York American league club, today announced Edward G. Barrow, who resigned as manager of the Boston Americans two days ago, had signed as business manager of the Yankees.

Miller Huggins will sign a contract to manage the New York team another year upon his arrival here tomorrow, Colonel Ruppert added. Barrow had been with the Red Sox three years and previously was president of the International league for seven years.

PETRELS READY FOR GONG

BY FORD LITTLE.

The Ogelthorpe Petrels held their last practice Thursday in preparation for the Oglethorpe-Wofford game, which is to be played on Ponce de Leon park Friday afternoon. Practice was of the light variety, and nothing more than signal drill and an attempt at perfection of the plays was held.

The team received its regular afternoon talk from Coach Alcock, who stressed the fact that at last the Petrels have a chance to win a football game. This is a rather new fact to the Petrel eleven, as they have been hoped to lose by large scores in every game they have played this year, with the exception of the Chattanooga game. The problem is, will the Petrels take advantage of the fact that they have a chance to annex a game? The general feeling is that they will.

No overconfidence is present among the members of the eleven. They know that Wofford will put a team on the field which will be fighting every minute, and that, to win, they must play a little better football than they have played at any time this year. The team showed in signal work that it has improved remarkably. The old plays were gone through with and then the new plays, which were added in the last two weeks, were practiced on at length.

The new plays are mostly forward pass formations. The Petrels have had little success in this sort of offense all season, but with added practices and the addition of the new plays, they expect to use these with success against Wofford.

The team is in tip-top physical condition apparently. All those who received slight injuries in the Georgia game have fully recovered. Bartanfeld is still out with his dislocated shoulder, but whitehead and Waldrop are holding down his position at center in good form. With this one exceptian the team is intact and will enter the game in the best physical condition of any game this year.

The line-up for Oglethorpe will be:

The game will start immediately after the Boys' High-Richmond academy game, which will probably be 3 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at Chess' place for both the Boys' High game and the Oglethorpe-Wofford game.

GILMERITES AND AUGUSTA PLAY TODAY

BY J. LAUREN CLARK.

The Boys' High football squad will have the time of their lives when they tackle the strong Richmond academy team of Augusta this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park.

The academy team, composed of two coaches and fourteen players, arrived last night. From all reports the visitors are primed for action and their team is in the best of condition.

The Augusta team is composed of quite a few vets, and the whole bunch know football from start to finish. They have the services of two well-known mentors in Coaches Crook and Wilson. The former is an old University of Mississippi man and former coach of the Meridian High school team, while Coach Wilson played a varsity end for Washington and Lee in his football pushing days.

The Richmond academy team has not felt the sting of defeat this season. On their last appearance on the gridiron the Augusta boys handed the strong Columbia High school team of Columbia, S. C., a defeat that the fans of Augusta won't forget in a long time. Columbia outweighed the academy team over twelve pounds to the man, but this tonnage did not count and they were force' to bow their heads and take the small end of a 19-to-6 count.

After the South Carolina boys scored their only touchdown in the first quarter the only thing they could do was lose the ball and the Augusta team scored with ease. The weather was very hot and the game was slow.

With the glory of this victory ringing in their ears the academy team will take the field with only one idea in their heads, to take the bacon back to their homes.

Merry	Center
Higrief	Right Guard
Kilpatrick	Right Tackle
Whitney	Right End
Baker	Right Half
Sherlock	Full

The Gilmerites have had a bad year so far, and about the best way to redeem themselves is to win this game today. Coach David has put out a great deal of work this week to get his men into shape for the coming battle, as he knows what a tough proposition his team is up against.

The old dope has suffered several jars this year and if the Purple and White crew will put everything they have in stock into the game, there might be a glad story to tell from their standpoint after the game.

The Gilmer Street lads did not suffer any severe injuries in their game with Riverside last Saturday, so if they lose today they won't have an alibi.

The Boys' High line-up is not certain, as Coach David expects to make several changes.

The Boys' High game will be offered along with the Oglethorpe-Wofford game, the preps starts at 1:45 sharp. The admission will be $1.50.

FEATURE BATTLE LOOMS

BY WALLACE GEORGE.

Tomorrow afternoon the greatest game of a decade is to be played on Grant field. Other big games have been played this year and other years have seen important battles on the famous old Tech flats, but there never has been one that will come up to the game Saturday between the Centre Colonels and the Yellow Jackets. When the whistle blows at 2 o'clock it is going to be the starting point of a grand and glorious scrap that will be worth missing Thanksgiving, Christmas, Fourth of July and everything else to see.

Grant field, just now, is in the best shape it has been in all year and the cold wave that nas breezed in from the northwest has made weather ideal for the game. The rains helped, too, and the turf will not admit of a bit of improvement by Saturday, if the gods of rain decide not to pour out their wrath again on Atlanta. A pretty sight it will make when the lines are all fixed, the goal posts painted white and the fences all set up in place.

The stands are all fixed up now and the last work on them will be completed Friday afternoon. Three entrances are being built off Techwood drive to accommodate the crowd entering the big wooden stands on the eastern side of the field. These are for reserved seats only, and sideline crowds must enter through the usual gate at the southeast corner of the park. Another entrance for sideline space and unreserved bleachers is being built now directly back of the old baseball bleachers adjacent to North avenue.

12,500 Seating Capacity.

When finally sifted down to actual facts and figures, the total seating capacity of the park as it will be arranged tomorrow is in round figures, by a clos estimate, 12,500. Of this total, there are a few over 9,000 that are reserved and the remainder will go to first arrivals Saturday afternoon.

Standing room is going at a premium, and there is an exact limit of the number of unreserved admissions to be sold. This total is in the vicinity of 9,000, and already a large number have been disposed of at Jacobs' main store. If a limit were not placed on standing room admissions, there would be danger of a riot by the time the number passed the 10,000 mark, for the fragile fence that spaces off the gridiron would be totally insufficient to keep the crowd back.

The park will be opened up promptly at 12:30 o'clock Saturday, and what is left of the unreserved tickets will then go on sale. The hour of the game was very thoughtfully advanced to 2 o'clock, and long before this hour all the standing room will be gone if fair weather prevails. It will be necessary for the reserved sections to be filled promptly, for all space in the aisles has been lined off and sold and cannot be held open long.

THOROUGH WORKOUT FOR JACKET SQUAD

BY WALLACE GEORGE.

With the big game with Centre so near at hand, Coach Alec let up a bit on the severe workouts and did not let his men scrimmage Thursday afternoon. Practice was put to good advantage, however, and not a minute of the time was wasted.

Everything in the category of a successful football team was rehearsed during the course of the afternoon. All was done behind closed gates, following the policy adopted by Coach Alexander earlier in the week. Signal practice came in for its full share of time, and for the greater part of the first hour the two varsity elevens worked separately from one side of the field to the other, covering play after play that together are calculated to give Centre quite a bit to think about.

The backfield lined up with Buck Flowers and Red Barron at halfback, Judy Harlan at full, and Frank Ferst at quarter. The latter is the newest addition to the regular quartet of the Tornado backs, and performs in the position like he had never played anywhere else. Bill Fincher was back at his old game of calling signals, and this information, to those who followed the work of the 1918 team, causes them to smile contentedly.

General Workout.

Following the signal practice there was a lengthy bit of work on a variety of things calculated to generally condition the men for the kind of scrap that is coming off in one more day. Passing, punting, falling on the ball and relay races between the two varsity squads, and Coach Clay's reserves featured the day. It was 5 o'clock when Coach Alec called a halt, but the work had been strenuous enough to satisfy even the voracious Red Barron, whose gluttony for work is usually insatiable.

The team will hold its final practice Friday afternoon on Grant field shortly after 3:30 o'clock. It will be the simplest kind of limbering up combined with another continued spell of practice on the new formations and shift plays.

Columbus Mass of Color On Eve of Football Clash

BY GENE HINTON.

Columbus, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—All Columbus is a bewildering mass of color. The Red and Black of Georgia and the Orange and Blue of Auburn greet the eye in almost equal proportions. Practically every shop and building is gaily bedecked with banners and ribbons. Local sentiment is about evenly divided. The entire town has gone completely wild on the subject of football, and visitors by the hundreds have already begun pouring in from neighboring cities and towns.

The Auburn-Georgia classic is very probably the only, certainly the best, gridiron contest Columbus fans have an opportunity of witnessing throughout a football year. This fact in itself could be held accountable for the immense throng of football-famished fans who attend the game year after year, but there is a more poignant reason than that, a stronger force that impels the football fan to witness this game above all others.

It is this: For quite some years, Auburn and Georgia have faced each other on a Columbus gridiron. These games have always been close and without exception have set fans on their respective ears with their fierceness. In the very fiercest moments, however, when a single little trick of the trade might have turned the tide one way or the other, there has never occurred a single incident that could have cast a slur on the enviable record of either team for cleanliness and sportsmanship.

Excellent Game Assured.

It is not so strange after all, therefore, that fans should go to no end of trouble to see this game, for they know they will witness some excellent football, and, above all, clean football. If Auburn wins, the Georgia team and student body are the first to lift up their voices in acclaiming the victors, and if the Athenians come out on top of the heap, the same holds true from an Auburn standpoint.

Mike Donahue, Auburn mentor, is counting heavily on his Plainsmen to come out ahead. And for a very good reason. If Auburn wins from Georgia, they should have but little difficulty in reaching Atlanta with a clean slate on Thanksgiving day, when the gigantic struggle with Tech is scheduled to take place. Reports from the "Loveliest Village" indicate that the Tigers have been doing but light work in preparation for the game, as Mike is taking no chances on injuring his men any further. The Vanderbilt game, while resulting in a walkaway, put several of the Auburn men on the retired list for a few days, those injured being practically all members of the backfield. Shirling has a bad hip, while Scott is still troubled with his game knee. Red Howard seems to have great difficulty in keeping in perfect condition and has yet to come out of a game entirely unscathed. None of the injured, however, are incapacitated to the extent of keeping them out of the battle tomorrow.

Count on Shirling.

From the present outlook, it seems that most of the backfield burden will fall onto the brawny shoulders of Ed Shirling, fullback of sterling ability, who has but lately sprung into the limelight. Although somewhat late in "arriving," when he finally did so it was with a vengeance. His work in the Vandy game was a revelation. He had always been thought of as a good-enough, every-day fullback, but nobody, even in the wildest dreams, ever imagined the ripping, tearing Shirling that plowed its way through the Vandy line for four of Auburn's touchdowns and paved the way for the other three. If he shows the same driving power and speed against the Wildcats tomorrow, there is no telling what the score might be.

The Georgia outfit will start the game intact in every particular, at least so it seems now. The speedy backfield, made up of "Buck" Cheeves, a real star, aided and abetted by Collings, Hartley and Echols, are rearin' to go, and much dependance is placed upon them by Georgia supporters. That same backfield is no doubt an excellent one, but there's one question that is constantly arising, and which is undeniably well put—"Can the Georgia backfield, fast as it is, consistently pierce the tremendous Auburn line?"

Open Question.

This will remain an open question until sometime in the neighborhood of 4:30 tomorrow afternoon, and it will be settled at that time to the satisfaction of all concerned. No team has been able to turn the trick this season, and it may be that the Georgia eleven is slated for that honor. Who knows?

As usual, Mike Donahue will let well enough alone and will no doubt instruct his charges to play "Yale" football, in other words, to pierce the middle of the line, and then to pierce the middle of the line some more. Mike has had wonderful success with this style of play for many years, and there seems to be no great reason why he should change. On the other hand, knowing full well the many obstacles confronting them, the Georgia coaches will no doubt send their standard-bearers in to play open football, that is, to run around the big Auburn players, using every legitimate artifice of the game, and to put a great deal of dependence upon the aerial offensive.

The result will be interesting, and that this opinion is shared by several thousands of others is evidenced by the fact that the tickets for the game have dwindled away to almost nothing. This presages the largest crowd ever attending this annual classic, and it's a pretty good bet that they will not be disappointed for their trouble.

Wealthy Cuban Puts Business Aside for Football Classic

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY

Business is business, but the Tech-Centre engagement is something more than a football game, and mere business can be shoved aside with perfect ease. It was in this frame of mind that Mr. and Mrs. Christopher de la Guardia, of Havana, Mr. de la Guardia being a wealthy Cuban tobacco grower, decided to let a trip to New York wait while they saw the Dixie giants in action Saturday at Grant field.

At this point of the narrative we will stray away from the main issue long enough to introduce these folks to the sports page readers of Atlanta. Mr., or rather Senor, de la Guardia, if they use that title in Cuba, had never seen a football game until a friends who he and his wife was visiting here, carried them to the Georgia Tech-Davidson game. Senor and Senora de la Guardia were regular football "fans" by the end of the struggle, completely converted to Tech's cause, and then came the decision to wait until Tech's next appearance.

Anonymous Letter Writer Takes Tech to Task.

The writer is in receipt of the following letter from a correspondent who signs himself "Fair Play." We print the letter because we wish in our reply to "Fair Play" to correct any such impressions as he sets forth in his letter:

"Sporting Editor, The Constitution: Have been reading with a great deal of interest the arguments pro and con relative to the breaking off of relations between Pittsburg and Tech. Chicago, Illinois, Michigan or any of the schools of the western conference would refuse to use Flowers in their line-up as he is positively playing longer than he should. All of the above mentioned schools counted the year 1918 as a full year.

"It is a joke to speak of Joe Guyon as only playing the limit. You all seem to forget that Warner was the coach that Guyon played under and after leaving Warner, Guyon played at a prep school and was paid for his playing, both football and basketball. He then played professional football and from there joined Tech. Now, if Guyon was a professional football player, how in the world could he play with Tech as an amateur? It can't be done. Once a professional, always a professional.

"On top of that "Red" Barron played baseball this summer for which he accepted money. Then they allowed him to return to Tech and play amateur football this fall. Will you please explain how a man can be one thing in the summer and another in the fall?

"We all want to see Tech win, but if she can't win on the square, she should drop out entirely. They always have some excuse to offer when they lose, and, believe me, if they always have out-of-town officials, they will call the off-side play all the time. Every one in Atlanta knows that Tech is off-side most of the time. Would like to know what you have to say about what I have written.

(Signed.) "FAIR PLAY."

Great Imagination.

Aside from declaring that "Fair Play" has a wonderful imagination; that charges he outlines are ridiculous and childish; and that he displays a most alarming ignorance of anything connected with southern intercollegiate athletics, and the rules of the association, the writer has little to say about "Fair Play," and the foolish letter we have printed above.

In the first place, there is not one iota of evidence that Joe Guyon was other than a legitimate student at Georgia Tech. His record was carefully studied by college athletic officials of the various teams Tech played, and not one scrap of evidence denoting professionalism was found. Joe Guyon was given a clean bill, and any talk of his being a "ringer" is nothing less than the silly jabber of a lunatic. "Fair Play" is taking a whole lot for granted, and has not taken the trouble to search for evidence in any place but his very evident, very wild, imagination.

Anent Larron.

From that point "Fair Play" jumps to "Red" Barron and throws up his hands in horror over the fact that this smashing halfback, who taught Pittsburg fans how well football could be played, his whole frame being racked through pain from a broken jaw at the time, accepted money for playing baseball during the summer.

"Fair Play" is evidently ignorant of the fact that at a meeting of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association permission was granted for college athletes to participate in semi-professional baseball and accept money for their services, just so long as the league in which they were playing was not classed as organized baseball. We are under the impression that Barron played with the Winder club of the "Million Dollar League," and we defy any readers except those who are cursed with such lurid imaginations as "Fair Play," to say that the "Million Dollar League" was organized baseball, or that "Red" Barron violated any part of the reglulation which was unanimously adopted by the officials of the southern association when he accepted money for his good services.

Tech never offers an alibi for a defeat, and she never crows over her victories. Tech is as good a winner as she is loser, and we say the last paragraph of "Fair Play's" letter is a rank injustice.

Few of Tech's penalties at Pittsburg resulted through off-side play, and the officials at the game stated afterwards that the jump-shift of the local collegians was executed entirely within the rules that define a legal play.

The writer is unable to determine a motive for such a foolish letter as "Fair Play" wrote, and until some other proof is brought up, we will cling to the belief that "Fair Play" simply wanted to jump, and neglected to pick his landing spot.

GATE IS TIGHT AT GEORGIA

BY JOHN H. MAHONEY.

Athens, Ga., October 28.—(Special.) Unless old Jupiter Pluvius' wrath is appeased in some way there will be another battle among the waters and mud, between Auburn and Georgia in Columbus Saturday. The supporters of both elevens are praying that Old Sol will greet the two teams Saturday with his usual cheery smile.

Auburn seems confident of defeating the Wildcats. As for Georgia, she is satisfied to play the silent part. Georgia alumni, Georgia students and Georgia supporters know the strength of the mighty machine of Donahue. They know the odds the Red and Black will have to face, but they also know that a Georgia team dies fighting; that one never has been outfought, and that the Georgia eleven of 1920 will not be outfought Saturday.

Through Friday there will be secret practices on Sanford field. No one, other than the necessary helpers and managers were admitted. Georgia is making every hour of daylight count, and some of the night, because the well-known skull practice is held every night.

Hard Scrimmage.

Today one of the hardest scrimmages ever held within the confines of the field was staged. The backfield hit the second varsity line for gains nearly every time. The offensive is the important cog, which must be developed this week, if Georgia is to win over the Tigers. Coach Donahue will present a strong back field, and one that has not failed to score in the games that it has played in.

The Georgia backfield men will probable be "Buck" Cheeves, Dick Hartley, Echols, Collings, Bohren, Spicer, Fitts, Frots, Tanner and H. Baker. All of these men will be taken to Columbus, for that Auburn line must be scored on, and far more important, it must be scored through. Four of the men are fullbacks, who will be called on to buck the heavy Auburn line, for Georgia is going to show the skeptics and the wiseacres that the Orange and Blue line can be scored on, no matter how heavy it is. The fullbacks will be Collings, Frost, Echols and Tanner.

Dave Collings has done yeoman service for the Red and Black in the games he has played in this year. Upon his shoulders will fall the burden of the punting. A punting duel between Collings and Ollinger would be worth watching. Ollinger's wary spirals are said to average 45 yards. Collings is one of the best punters the Red and Black has ever had and he will run Ollinger a close race along this line. Jack Frost didn't get into the game early because of an injury sustained early in the season. Roy Echols is a new man from Darlington High school, who shows promise of being a wonderful back. Tanner is a veteran of the 1919 eleven and is a man who gains when he hits. He has more drive, probably, than any other fullback on the field.

The Halves.

Among the halves, "Buck" Cheeves, Dick Hartley, Bohren, Fitts and Baker are sure of the Columbus trip. The work of Cheeves and Hartley is known too well. They are the men who have scored so consistently for the Wildcats this year. Bohren is the half who held the reins of generalship in the latter part of the Oglethorpe contest. He is a speedy little back and, although playing his first year of collegiate football, has made good. Jimmy Spicer has been running scrub fullback up until this week. Fitts is the man who played such a good game against Furman. Hunter Baker is a product of Duval High school and played his first time in the Oglethorpe game Saturday. He is a fast man and gained consistently Saturday.

The line will be almost the same one that met the Tigers on that rain-soaked field last year. Owen Reynolds and "Red" Owens will hold down the wing positions, Artie Pew and Joe Bennett the tackles, and the guards will be played by Whelchel and Vandiver, with Murray and "Mark" Anthony as understudies. "Bum" Day, captain of the 1920 eleven, will preside over the destinies of center.

To the line might be added Anderson, Bennett and Richardson, ends; Highsmith, Taylor and Shelor. This does not take in all the men who are giving all they've got to defeat the men of Donahue Saturday.

Secret Practice.

The very fact that secret practice is on the program for the first time this year indicates that something unusual is going on behind the barriers of the field. Coaches Stegeman and DeHarte are working to put the finishing touches on the team, which is to bumble the Tigers, and if the successful combination can be found, they'll find it.

Tonight a big spirit meeting was held. Speeches were made by the men of the varsity, the coaches and leaders of the student body. The famous Georgia band was there, and will be heard in Columbus.

M'GRAW IS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

New York, October 28.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today was indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

The indictment was procured on evidence presented by Assistant Federal District Attorney Edward H. Reynolds, who investigated the fracas at the Lambs' club last August between McGraw and John C. Slavin, a musical comedy actor. The indictment charges that on that date McGraw had "illegal possession of a bottle of whisky."

EVERS WILL SUCCEED MITCHELL AT CHICAGO

Chicago, October 28.—Johnny Evers will succeed Fred Mitchell as manager of the Chicago Nationals next season it was annoureed by William Veeck, president of the club. Evers, who is now in Cuba with the New York Giants, broke into the major leagues as a second baseman for Chicago in 1905. He later went to Boston and then to the New York Nationals.

Excluded From Participation In Proposed Conference, Pitt Will Regret Recent Action

BY J. L. CARNEY.

Pittsburg, Pa., October 28.—(Special.)—The University of Pittsburg's cherished dream of a game here with Dartmouth and a place in the so-called "big four" or "big five," one of the reported reasons why Georgia Tech was dropped from the schedule of the Panthers, has been shattered.

Pitt has been given the cold shoulder both ways. Recently, it was reported, Pitt was to become a part of a "big four," which was to be composed of Dartmouth, Syracuse, Cornell and Pitt, and when Georgia Tech was dropped it was taken as an indication that the rumor was about to materialize.

However, announcement has now been made by Dartmouth, answering an overture from Pitt for a game next season, that an "eastern conference" has been formed with Dartmouth, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Colgate as members, and that it is impossible to place Pitt on the schedule.

Was Big Shock.

The Dartmouth announcement was a distinct blow to the Panther adherents, who had virtually taken it for granted that Dartmouth would play here next year, following announcement by the Pitt publicity man, immediately after his announcement of the break with the Golden Tornado, that "three big eastern teams are being considered for places on Pitt's schedule."

The formation of the so-called "eastern conference," which leaves Pitt out in the cold, now has every person guessing. It is even hinted that next year may find Pitt off both the Penn and Syracuse schedules, owing to those teams' membership in the "conference," which would give both teams four hard conference games and leave little room for another team of the strength of Pitt.

If this comes to pass, Pitt will be left in somewhat of a hole, and many are already predicting that the Panther athletic committee will ere long regret its hasty action of severing relations with the southerners.

MARIST BEATS PETREL THIRDS BY CLOSE SCORE

BY FORD LITTLE.

The Marist college football team defeated the Oglethorpe third team yesterday by the score of 14 to 13. The work of Beres, at right half, and Dorsh, at fullback, featured the game from a Marist viewpoint. For the third team of Oglethorpe the work of Lawrence and Bryant, in the backfield, and Custer and Rodriguez, on the line, featured.

Rodriguez recovered a Marist fumble and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. Lawrence also got away for a beautiful run when he returned a punt 90 yards for Oglethorpe's second touchdown.

2 LOCAL GOLFERS WINNERS

New Orleans, October 28.—Memphis and Atlanta will battle in the finals for the Southern Women's Golf associataion championship, it became evident here today when two players from each city qualified for the semi-finals.

Mrs. David Gaut, Memphis, will meet Mrs. John Hodges, Memphis, in the upper half tomorrow, while Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, Atlanta, and Miss Rosalie Mayer, Atlanta, are paired in the lower brackets. The closest match in today's round of the championship was that in which Mrs. D. Lowndes defeated Mrs. J. M. Taylor, New Orleans, 2 up. The two were all square at the end of sixteen holes of play, but New Orleans' hope faded when Mrs. Lowndes won the seventeenth hole and took the next when Mrs. Taylor began slicing into the rough.

Mrs. Gaut won easily from Mrs. W. C. Walker, Memphis, seven and six. Mrs. Hodges' long driving was a feature of her match with Mrs. T. B. Paine, which she won three and two.

Mrs. M. Schumate, Jr., Birmingham, by defeating Mrs. C. W. Strickler, Atlanta, five and four, qualified today for the finals with Mrs. J. G. O'Kelley, New Orleans, for the solace trophy. Mrs. W. C. Hanley, Bogalusa, meets Mrs. S. F. Nabers, Birmingham, and Mrs. George Harrington, Atlanta, meets Mrs. Ben Humphreys, Memphis, in the semi-finals for the Audubon trophy.

CLEMSON LOSES TO CAROLINA

Coulmbia, S. C., October 28.—The University of South Carolina today downed Clemson college in a hard fought game of football at the state fair grounds before a crowd numbering thousands of persons, to the tune of 3 to 0, for the first time since 1913. The score was made after two minutes and 42 seconds of play in the first half when Cressette, Carolina, kicked the pigskin over the goal from Clemson's 20-yard line, and stood throughout the remaining periods.

CHAMP BRITTON AND JACK PERRY WILL FIGHT SOON

Louisville, Ky., October 28.—Jack Britton, welterweight champion of the world, will defend his title against Jack Perry, of Pittsburg, in a 12-round no-decision contest here November 8, according to announcement today by a local athletic club.

TED LEWIS DEPARTS FOR ENGLISH BATTLE

New York, October 28.—Ted ("Kid") Lewis, the British boxer, who formerly held the world's welterweight championship title, was a passenger on the Mauretania, sailing today for England. He is to meet Johnny Basham at London on November 19. After that bout, Lewis plans to return to this country and seek a match with Jack Britton for the welterweight championship.

Declares He Stole Instruments to Buy Flowers for Mother

Jack J. Wood, 20, a vocational student at Georgia Tech, and a member of the band, was held under bond Thursday for the federal grand jury, following his arrest Wednesday on a charge of stealing government musical instruments from the Tech band. Wood told Commissioner W. C. Carter that he sold the instruments for enough money to purchase flowers for his mother, who was sick in an Atlanta hospital.

7TH DISTRICT AGGIES ARE DEFEATED

BY FRED HANEY.

Powder Springs, Ga., October 28. (Special.)—The football team representing the Seventh District A. & M. school located in this city met and lost to the Locust Grove eleven on the latter's grounds Saturday afternoon in one of the best games yet played at Locust Grove. The final score was 7 to 0 with Locust Grove holding the figure that indicated a win.

Although defeated Powder Springs put up one of the hardest fights that Locust Grove has had to play against this year. On several instances A. & M. had the ball on Locust Grove's five-yard line, but were unable to take it further, due to the good holding of the Locust Grove line.

Paris Stars for Aggies.

The feature of the game was the all-round playing of both elevens. From Powder Springs' standpoint the running of Quarterback Paris and Captain Ward, at right halfback, and the tackling of Bryant were outstanding features. Bryant, though a green man at the start of the season and weighing only 135 pounds, has turned out to be a valuable man for the school. Two of A. & M.'s star players were hurt during the game. Paris suffered a broken finger, and Ward was knocked cold. The former was forced out of the game, but the latter refused to leave after he recovered.

Any team wishing a game with the Powder Springs eleven will please communicate with Captain Harvey Ward at A. & M. school, Powder Springs, Ga.

Walter Camp Explains Why Small Teams Have Made Such Big Strides

DARING PLAY RISKED

BY WALTER CAMP.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Constitution.)

New York, October 28.—Many reasons have been given for the sky rocket advance of the so-called smaller college football teams, but no one explanation covers the case.

First-class coaching, it is true, has had something to do with the phenomena, but the word "daring" comes nearer describing the reason for the rapid rise of the lesser colleges. The smaller teams have been willing to attempt venturesome play and, as a matter of fact, a great deal of progress in the game has come in this manner. The older teams have been more conservative.

From the middle west have come some of the splendid examples which chronicled real development of the forward pass, but we must remember that teams like Washington and Jefferson and others below the Mason and Dixon line, along with the elevens of the far west and the Pacific coast assisted greatly in establishing value to the forward pass. And as for shift plays, they were really the creation of the larger middle western elevens, and were considerably perfected by the coast teams.

Another Reason.

But there is another reason for the smaller colleges march to football fame. It is the willingness of the "infant" institutions to play the part of David with the Goliaths of the football world. Nowadays we see smaller elevens playing schedules that include teams of supposedly superior strength, and although the smaller college—for a season of two—may suffer some defeats, it nevertheless is trained in that rigid football discipline, which, at one and the same time, makes for prestige and also gives birth to traditions which constantly act as a spur to the small college team in all future contests.

Many persons have forgotten the spectacular career of the Carlisle Indians at the time when Gleen Warner was in charge. It is interesting to recall the redskins' schedule of a decade ago. The school played fourteen games and included in the schedule were Bucknell, Syracuse, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Annapolis and Brown.

Now, take Brown for that same year. She played ten games and numbered among her opponents such teams as Pennsylvania, Harvard, Yale and Colgate.

The present season will possibly familiarize us more than ever with intersectional play, and will serve to contrast sections in a way that hitherto has been impossible. When Harvard, for instance, which is one of the most conservative of eastern institutions and one which has frowned on long trips and post-season coaches, made its cross-continent trip to play in the tournament of roses at Pasadena against Oregon, it broke away from the hide-bound tradition. But all this makes for improvement in the game of football and a wider diffusion of knowledge of the game's fine points.

Fat Men in Football.

Few fat men make good on the gridiron. This is not in detraction of the yeomen service rendered by some of the heavyweights, but the real stars of avoirdupois have been very few in number. Hooper, the old Dartmouth center, was one. Henry, the Washington and Jefferson tackle, was the star of this position for some years on All-American teams. Carter Galt, of Yale, reached a high place in the football hall of fame last year, and there have been several others whose girth did not interfere with stellar playing. But, as a rule, they have been just average line men—men who have performed good service in an inconspicuous way.

The tendency toward heavier ends is growing. Harvard had such good experience with Smith several years ago that she has gone in for heavier ends ever since. Desmond on wing last year was a 200-pounder and Yale has profited, especially in the past, through such broad-shouldered, muscular men as Shevlin, Bomeisler and Kilpatrick. There has always been a desire to get heavier quarterbacks, but Lonnie Stagg, out in Chicago, has been the only man successful in developing a "heavier than usual" quarterback. He is responsible for Kennedy.

A Kaleidoscopic Gridiron.

This has been a season of surprises, but nowhere more so than in the middle west. Take, for example, Northwestern's defeat of Minnesota, and Wisconsin's downfall at the hands of Ohio State. From present appearances, it would seem that Ohio State, Illinois and Chicago have all taken places in the limelight, but Notre Dame is coming fast, and her work thus far confirms the real ability of her play in 1919.

The mineral wealth of Lithuania is insignificant. There is no iron or coal. In the government of Vilna there are some deposits of chalk, which can be used for the manufacture of cement, and there are some deposits of salt. Peat is found in many parts of the country.

MAGNATES TO DISCUSS PROPOSALS

Chicago, October 28.—President Johnson, of the American league, and the five club owners which have sided with him in all league fights, will hold a conference here tomorrow which may decide whether there will be a baseball war over the proposed reorganization of the national game.

Officially, the conference is a meeting of the league's board of directors, but unofficially the clubs which Johnson terms the "loyal five" will be present, while the three which have opposed the junior circuit president in his administration of league affairs have not been invited.

Meeting with Johnson will be representatives of the Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis clubs. They will take up the proposal made by the eight National league and the Chicago, New York and Boston American league clubs that the national commission be abolished and control of baseball be placed in the hands of a "civilian tribunal" of three men financially disinterested in the game.

Baseball men point out that there are two courses which the magnates might take tomorrow. One is to agree with the other eleven major league clubs at the session called for November 8. The other is to refuse to take part in the proposals for a change in professional baseball management.

While President Johnson tonight would make no statement, his friends expressed the opinion that the club owners would agree to take part in the November conference.

If this is done it is believed Johnson and his followers will present a counter-proposition for reorganization which will contain the principles of the Lasker plan, but with several changes in the administration of the plan. Such action, it is believed, will avert a baseball war, unless it was found impossible to reach an agreement at the final conference in November.

Who is Sleeping on the Oldest Mattress in the House

WHEN Mother puts new mattresses in her own room, who has to sleep on the old ones?

Perhaps the children get them. Many people have not yet gotten away from the old idea that a mattress is good as long as anybody can sleep on it.

One of the few insanitary habits that the world has not yet cast off!

New Mattresses by all means.

Make certain, too, that your new Mattresses are sweet and clean when you get them.

Your sure protection is the label of Simmons Company—pioneer builders of beds and mattresses built for sleep.

This Label means materials sanitary from the very start. It means fine craftsmen working in airy, sunlit rooms.

So all you have to do is to see the Simmons Label, and then select the style of mattress you like best—sweet and clean through and through.

Simmons makes these fine mattresses in several grades, each notable money's worth at its price. Your choice of attractive patterns of ticking.

Ask Your Dealer to show you his assortment of Simmons Mattresses. Also Simmons Metal Beds, Day Beds, and Cribs, beautifully designed—firm, noiseless—built for sleep.

BUILDING GRAFT RICH IN NEW YORK

According to Evidence Given Probing Committee—Head of Building Trades Council Involved.

New York, October 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—After another day of sensational testimony, the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust," late today took an adjournment until next Thursday morning, November 4.

Developments at today's hearing were:

Testimony by William Waixel, house wrecking contractor, that he paid $1,000 to William P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades council, for the privilege of a working agreement with the council. He said he also paid another $1,000 to Brindell for a house wrecking job.

Because he had refused to "produce $25,000" for Brindell, Jacob Fradus, a general contractor, testified he had been "bankrupted and put out of business" by the labor leader, to whom he declared he had paid $1,000 for a job.

George H. Clark, a civil engineer, testified that when he went to see Brindell in Mr. Fradus' behalf, the labor leader offered to settle for $7,500.

Danted "Rake-Off."

Brindell, he said, was "very frank" and said he "thought he ought to have a rake-off" and "wanted the money for himself."

"Never saw anything like it before," added the witness, commenting on Brindell's attitude at the conference.

Charles H. Wallas, house wrecking contractor, testified that his $400,000 annual business had dwindled "down to $100 jobs" because he had refused to hire Brindell's men," adding, "I have been unable to obtain a contract for the last six weeks."

Wallas said he and other building contractors had appealed by telephone to Hugh Frayne, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor in New York.

"Mr. Frayne said it is true that this thing is unjust and unfair," explained Mr. Wallas, "but at the present time we can't do anything for you as Mr. Brindell is all powerful."

William Zaranko, president of the House Wreckers' union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said that 1,800 members of his organization had been unable to get work until they had obtained "privilge cards" from "Brindell's organization." Such identification cards were issued, he added, only to those who paid $50 as an "initiation fee" to the council and $10 a week out of their wages.

Destroyed Papers.

Testimony by Arthur Greenfield, president of the Employing Metallic, at a meeting last Monday destroyed papers that "might incriminate" them in this investigation, including the minutes of a meeting held April 26, at which price-fixing is alleged to have been discussed.

Testimony that a group of metallic lathing contractors, bidding on school contracts for the city of New York, had formed a combine to "get better prices" and stifle competitive bidding.

James E. Trainor, metal lath contractor, testified that the employing Metallic, Furring and Lathing association, had hired and paid Mr. Murphy, president of the Lathers' union, a salary of $55 a week, but did not know what "he was expected to do."

LEAGUE ARTICLE TEN ATTACKED BY HUGHES

Terre Haute, Ind., October 28.—Centering his attack on Article 10 of the covenant of the league of nations, Charles E. Hughes, in a speech here tonight declared that "upon this issue, which the democratic party has presented, the democratic party has been beaten."

Mr. Hughes attacked the Wilson administration, saying "there is a deep conviction that our national interests and prestige have been sacrificed to obstinacy and self-will." He declared that with the government has been the most autocratic in the western world."

"The administration," he continued, "has been intolerant of independent advice; it has demanded subserviency and put incompetence in high places. Inefficiency in some of the most important departments has been matched by failure of statesmanship at the seat of authority."

SUPPORT THE NOMINEES.

In the current issue of The Columbia Sentinel, Thomas E. Watson, democratic nominee for United States senator from Georgia, calls upon his supporters to vote the straight democratic ticket next Tuesday, taking the position that Cox and Roosevelt, as the party nominees, should be supported even by those democrats who differ with them on the league of nations issue.

Mr. Watson is right, for the success of the party and the maintenance of the principle of standing by its nominees should be the uppermost consideration of all democrats, especially here in the south.

Applying the same argument, Mr. Watson, as the regular nominee for the senate, is entitled to the support of all those who participated in the primary in which he was nominated, after a fair fight.

Just as Mr. Watson says that a vote for Cox and Rosevelt, by any person in Georgia who does not believe in the league of nations will not mean that the voter approves the principle involved in the league, so a vote for Mr. Watson by any person who ardently believes in the principle of the league of nations will not mean the abandonment of that principle by that voter.

In each instance such a vote will simply mean that the voter, regardless of his position on the league issue, indicates his willingness to abide by the action of a primary election in which he has participated.

This is a government by party, and party regularity should be recognized by those who participate in party action.

Primaries would become useless if the verdict rendered by them is not binding.

That is why The Constitution, after the April primary, took the position that every man who participated in that election was bound by the rules under which it was held, which position was unanimously sustained by the national convention at San Francisco, whose action is accepted as final by the recent state convention.

So with reference to the senatorial primary.

Mr. Watson has clearly earned the right to the united support of all who participated in that primary, and he should receive it.

The Constitution took that position immediately after Mr. Watson was nominated in the September primary, and we repeat it now.

RAIL AND ELECTRICITY.

Authorities are quite generally agreed that the economies demonstrated by the electrified railroads that formerly used steam power exclusively promise to bring about a great boom in the electrification of American trunk railroad lines within the next year or two.

"Financiers who at present seem conservative where the return is not immediate," says a report emanating from the Society for Electrical Development, New York city "may hold up the transformation of the railroads but it is obvious to every student of America's industrial development that the electrified railroad is a thing of the near future."

The report continues:

"The roads are facing the necessity of purchasing new equipment to replace that worn out and to accommodate increased traffic. To lay out great sums for steam power carriage would seem to be laying up useless equipment against the day when electricity will supplant steam. Certainly, the recent figures of coal savings alone would seem to justify the belief that steam as railroad power is near the end of its usefulness."

Undoubtedly this development is coming, and in the near future; and the coal situation, for one thing is hastening it.

But one of the strangest features in connection with the progress that railroad electrification has made lies in the fact that the southeast is the one section of the country that has not kept abreast with it—the southeast, which should be the very first to forge ahead in this respect, is lagging behind.

Considering quantity, ease of development, and proximity to point of application, there is no other section of the country—not even the famous northwest—that excels the southeastern states in respect to the feasibility of substituting electric current for steam in the operation of railroads.

It is time the railroad corporations serving this part of the United States were catching up with the times, scrapping their wasteful, soon-to-be-obsolete coal-burners, and substituting modern, up-to-date electric locomotives.

When that is done a great step will have been taken toward the permanent solution of the perennial domestic fuel problem.

THE BRITISH STRIKE.

Announcement that the parties directly at interest in the strike of coal miners in Great Britain have arrived at a basis of complete adjustment of their difficulties, all indications pointing to an early settlement, affords occasion for universal felicitation for the reason that the strike was of world-wide concern.

The government and the representatives of the striking mine workers are reported to have come to terms, and all that remains to end the strike is for that agreement to be ratified by the miners.

The whole world will feel a sense of relief and gratification when this is done and British coal production and dependent industries, resume their normal status.

This is no time for industry—especially for an essential industry like the production of coal—to be halted and tied up by quarrels between workers and employers. It is no time for the wasting of daylight and energy in heaving brickbats and in class warfare, or in bickering over hours of employment and rates of pay.

But it is time for work!

It is high time for greater effort, greater speed, for more concerted action, upon the part of every interest and every element, labor and capital alike, to the end of production, production, and more and more production!

The war is over; the world is rapidly readjusting itself to a pre-war, peace-time basis, and during the transition period—necessarily a period of unrest and uncertainty—it is more than at any other time necessary that every possible effort should be made by everybody, worker as well as capitalist, to keep the wheels of industry humming.

It Great Britain, it seems, the sober, sane, constructive sentiment of both sides involved in the coal strike has prevailed, and peace is about to be restored.

Of special significance in the settlement of the strike is the fact that increased production is made the basis of increased pay.

When worker and employer everywhere in the industrial world get together on that basis, and adhere to that principle, everybody will be the better off.

The coal operators have resolved to reduce the prices of coal to a fair margin basis, and have so informed the department of justice. But resolutions alone, while they may be encouraging, do not cut price schedules.

Judging by the reputations of some of the blue-bloods who have been suggested for Alexander's throne, the Greeks could do worse than to crown the monkey that bit the king.

Flour keeps falling in price; but from the way bread prices hold up one would think bread was made from something absolutely foreign to flour.

By all means the fair management ought to issue a grand championship blue ribbon to the weather man.

News reports say millionaire plumbers are in trouble in New York. Thus does vengeance overtake the mighty.

Germany anticipated a separate peace; but it also, not so many years ago, anticipated winning the war and dominating the world.

Several records were hung up in concection with the Southeastern fair of 1920, one being that of ten days of fair without a drop of rain!

GRAY HAIRS.

Autumn is the most beautiful period of the year, because of its changing leaves. It seems as though all the color and beauty, latent from early spring until autumn, had been saved to celebrate the coming on of the winter sleep. I think of gray hairs in somewhat the same way as I am thrilled by the colorings of the leaf-falling time.

Gray hairs tell more than the breaking up of youth—they tell of the ripening of hearts, the mellowing of minds and the building of immortal souls.

Gray hairs tell of hands that may reach out to help—for youth is the playtime when games mean so much more than the game. Gray hairs pick up the visions of the 'teens and tie them to the rays of the stars. For gray hairs see beyond. In them is the tint of prophecy.

Gray hairs are wrappings for minute pictures—personal battles, bodily sufferings, splendid contests in which the man or the woman won, disappointments, joys. In fact, every least phase of happiness or sorrow is soon or later recorded in the delicate linings of the hair—when they come to be like silver.

I would teach the boy or girl to honor gray hairs. For no matter how they came, they represent beauty of life at its turning.

I wouldn't color gray hairs. That would be to insult the Artist Triumphant!

I would have the gray hairs come one by one and not bother or worry over them. They should be accepted in lovely grace and accorded their worth.

The gray hairs of my mother and father inspire me as I write. For every one was an honored one, and very beautiful.

Sprinkld like snow amongst the dark and the gold, gray hairs will always be more than coronets!

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

MASKED LUNG FEVER.

In elderly or feeble subjects, or in subjects of Bright's disease, or in alcoholic habitues, pneumonia may develop without the customary preliminary chill, without any noticeable fever, without any particular complaint of pain or distress on the part of the victim, but just an unwonted degree of weakness or prostration. Indeed, it is a common terminal condition in various chronic diseases and in advanced age. Pneumonia in a drinker has too often been mistaken for delirium tremens, because the mental wandering or confusion may be the only symptom apparent to the casual observer, or even to the careless doctor summoned by the police. Pneumonia in infants often begins with a convulsion, instead of the mere chill commonly seen in the onset in adults; and when this convulsion of onset is followed after a day or two by stupor or coma (unconsciousness), as is often the case, a diagnosis of meningitis may be guessed at, unless the physician carefully examines the infant's lungs.

Physicians who are, perhaps, a trifle too enthusiastic about operating, sometimes rush a young patient to the operating room for an appendicitis operation, only to discover at the last moment, or maybe right afterward, that the pain in the lower right side was really due to pneumonia in the lower right lobe.

The pain of pneumonia is not the soreness or rawness of the chest, which is commonly felt with various slight acute conditions in which there may be much coughing. One with such soreness will worry about pneumonia only if he takes too seriously the nostrum makers' propaganda and the selling arguments offered by the shrewd corner druggist. There is no more likelihood of pneumonia occurring under such circumstances—unless the condition is deliberately aggravated by ill-advised doping with narcotic cough medicines—than in one who is perefectly well. The pain of pneumonia is a sharp, stabbing pain, increased by coughing and by each inspiration, in short, a pleurisy pain, for with lung fever (lobar pneumonia) there is invariably involvement of the lung covering (pleura) in the inflammatory process. It is this shap pain which may be referred to the lower right side of the abdomen, particularly in children, and give rise to the suspicion of appendicitis; but examination of the lungs will settle the doubt in every instance.

To this day one sometimes sees people going about with the mouth carefully covered, lest they "take more cold." This is the height of ignorance, credulity and superstition.

The first and best insurance against possible pneumonia, in any acute illness which causes anxiety, is REST IN BED.

The next best preventive is BREATHING COLD FRESH AIR, on sleeping porch, in tent, or in room with windows always open.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Stammering.

What is the cause of stammering? Could blood poisoning be the cause of stammering? Is there any cure for stammering? (E. R.)

ANSWER—I do not know what you mean by blood poisoning. Send a stamped addressed envelope for a system of self-treatment for stammering.

Home Made Sulphur Water.

ANSWER—Undoubtedly, yes. But why should one want to make it?

Cannibal Sandwiches.

Is it safe to use raw beef for sandwiches these days, or should the beef be seared a little to destrop any germs that might be in it? (M. W.)

ANSWER—Mere searing does not certainly destroy germs in meat. But it is rather parasites than disease germs which make raw beef inadvisable. Not all the meat that reaches the market is inspected. Tapeworm infection is a possibility which must be considered when you indulge in uncooked beef.

"Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received, only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of The Constitution."

Fair Handled Better Than Ever Before

Editor Constitution: Allow me to express at this time my appreciation for the splendid manner in which The Constitution has handled the Southeastern fair from a news standpoint.

I believe beyond any question that phase of the matter has been better handled this year than ever before.

From Every Angle Governor Cox Makes Clear His League Views In Plea for Nation's Approvaal

BY ROBERT J. BENDER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Marion, Ohio, October 28.—Considering that we are still at war with Germany, and the wide divergence of opinion in the country as to the treaty of Versailles, how is the United States to proceed to effect peace?

This is one of the outstanding questions crystallizing out of the long discussion of the league of nations issue.

Recognizing the situation ahead, there has been growing concern among leaders of both parties as to just how the new president would accomplish a break in the deadlock over the peace treaty, with the senate as equally divided as it will be after the elections.

Senator Harding is now working on a statement to the American people, designed to set forth clearly the steps he proposes to take to effect peace.

A series of questions has been submitted to each candidate by the United News, bearing on the manner in which they would proceed toward establishing the country on a peace footing. Governor Cox has furnished a statement covering the steps he proposes to take.

The questions were submitted to both candidates, in view of the situation growing out of the senate division, as seen by party leaders. The same questions were submitted to both candidates with the word that each candidate was being solicited in like manner. The questions were as follows:

The Five Questions.

1. If elected, would you re-submit the treaty of Versailles with recommendations for alterations and then ratification? Would you re-submit it with recommendation for ratification without alteration? Would you re-submit it with recommendation for rejection in its entirety or in so far as references to the league covenant are concerned? Or would you pigeon-hole the entire treaty and start on the problem from scratch?

2. What steps would you take between November and March to win over a sufficient number of the senate opposition to assure prompt action on the problem of peace after March 4?

3. In this interval, would you get into touch with foreign governments on the question of acceptable reservations or an entire change of plan? If so, how would you establish this contact?

4. Between November and March would you recommend any course of action for your party to take toward the treaty of Versailles now at the white house?

5. Would you personally address a joint session of congress or send a message to that body in presenting your program for meeting the international problem?

Senator Harding expects to cover these points, together with others about which he has been questioned, in a general statement before election day. It was the original plan of republican leaders to have him outline his position in a statement immediately after election, but there are indications that the new idea will be substituted.

Gov. Cox Makes Answer.

Pending the issuance of this statement, I present the Cox answers to the questions, as officially tendered.

Cox's answer to question No. 1:

"I intend to resubmit the treaty of Versailles to the senate shortly after my inauguration. It is apparent that a special session of the congress will be necessary for this and other purposes vital to the best interests of the nation. I do not stand for rejection of the treaty in its entirety or for the separation of the covenant and the peace terms. I would not pigeonhole the whole treaty and start from scratch.

"I stand for ratification of the league, and to achieve that end I will accept reservations that will help; that will clarify; that will reassure our own people and that will make clear to our associates in the league the limitations of our constitution, beyond which we cannot go.

"With the least senatorial conversation possible consistent with the great interests invlved, we will begin the actual work of reaching an agreement on ratification. I intend, if elected to sit down with the senate soon after the 4th of March and say: 'Gentlemen, the time has come to act; we have had enough conversation. The people have spoken their mandate and they want us to go into the league of nations.'"

Would Consult All.

Answer to Question No. 2:

"You ask what steps I would take between November and March to win over a sufficient number of votes to secure ratification. The senatorial candidate said at Des Moines: 'The democratic candidate favors going in; I favor staying out.' My election would be a mandate from the American people to the senate to approve the entrance of the United States into the league with the reservations I have outlined. For the senate to do otherwise, regardless of past actions, would be to treat the mandate of the people with contempt. During this period I intend to confer with the president, Elihu Root, ex-President Taft, and all others who have a sincere purpose, and who are equipped especially as advisors in this work."

Will Use All Information.

Answer to Question No. 3:

"I would not make an attempt to get into touch with foreign governments on the question of accepting the reservations or as to change of plan. I would, however, make use of all information which has been gathered from whatever source; and I would respectfully urge and request that information be sought through our state department concerning reservations which would be acceptable. As a matter of fact, there has been indication that the Hitchcock reservations, which is certainly one of the most ceptable to the allies."

No Business in Politics.

"I do not look upon the league of nations or the treaty of Versailles as a matter of partisan consideration. It never should have been in politics; and I, therefore, would not seek to secure any party alignment between November and March. I want to see the United States a member of the league at the earliest possible moment, and I am sure that consummation will come very shortly after March 4, 1921, as the joint action of both parties representing all the people of the country."

Take Counsel Together.

Answer to Question No. 5:

"The observation is pertinent; and on matters of importance in my executive experience I have always gone in person to a joint session of the Ohio legislature. In connection with the program for meeting our international problems, important things before us, I would which I favor, would not be unacconsider it not only highly proper but emphatically necessary to go before a joint session of congress that not only might a message be presented, but that we might properly counsel together."

CLOSING LECTURES BY DR. JULIA SETON

Julia Seton, M. D., of New York, international lecturer of the New Thought movement, who has been giving three free lectures daily at the Central Congregational church, will speak Friday at 11 a. m., healing meeting at noon and lectures at 3 and 8 p. m. Saturday there will be a lecture for women only at 3 o'clock. and at 8 o'clock a lecture in voice.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR A. H. OLMSTEAD

Funeral services for Adelbert H. Olmstead, widely known civil engineer of East Orange, N. J., who died Tuesday at Andrews, S. C., were conducted Thursday at the chapel of Harry G. Poole, with burial following in West View cemetery.

Mr. Olmstead was graduated from the Delaware institute, Franklin, N. Y., in 1867, and had done noted engineering work in many parts of the United States. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Miss Gertrude Olmstead, Mrs. Clara L. Harvey and Mrs. C. H. Conoley, of Atlanta, wife of C. H. Conoley, who is prominently connected with the Atlanta division of the Southern Bell Telephone company.

GOLDENROD

Tossing plumes of autumn gold
Scattered o'er the land;
'Mongst the tawny meadow grass,
By the breezes fanned.

Everywhere they nod and bend
With a friendly air.
Naught for gay and jaunty grace
Can with them compare!

When the winter's snowy robe
Hides the frozen sod,
Back we'll turn to catch the gleam
Of autumn's goldenrod.

DISTINGUISHING MARK ON BALLOTS OF WOMEN

Nashville, Tenn., October 28.—Telegrams have been received here from officers of the American Constituitonal league calling attention to the fact that the suit contesting the validity of the woman's suffrage amendment is still pending in the supreme court, and stating that it was important to avoid a possible contest, that the votes cast by women be given a distinguishing mark so they could be separately canvassed.

DR. BOVARD TO LECTURE

Sunday School Worker of Chicago to Speak Here.

Dr. W. S. Bovard, corresponding secretary of the board of Sunday schools of the Methodist Episcopal church of Chicago, will speak for the School of Methods for Sunday school workers of all denominations in the Baptist Tabernacle November 1 to 5.

Dr. Bovard is author of a book on "Adult Bible Class Work," and is highly regarded as a speaker on the Sunday school platform. He will speak each afternoon at 5:30 o'clock to workers in adult Bible classes and at night he will address the whole school on subjects of general interest.

His afternoon subjects will be "The Strategy of the Adult Bible Class Movement," "How to Have and Hold Worth While Class," "What Organized Bible Classes Should Study," "A Program of Service for Bible Classes" and "Evangelistic Opportunities for Adults in the Sunday School." His subjects for three evenings at 7:10 o'clock will be "An Adequate Program of Religious Education," "The Appeal of the Childhood of the World" and "Sunday School Superintendent—Called of God."

COUNCIL OF LEAGUE CLOSES ITS SESSIONS

Brussels, October 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The council of the league of nations this morning closed its session in Brussels. The council took a final adjournment after referring the question of Danzig, the regulations concerning which are in dispute between Poland and the authorieies of the free city, to the assembly of the league which is to meet at Geneva next month.

The council took other important action in deciding upon a plebiscite as to the disposition of the territory in dispute between Poland and Lithuania, this including the line fixed by the supreme council in December, 1919.

A. J. Balfour, the British representative, in making the closing address, declared that four great powers not now members of the league would enter it shortly.

"Without these great powers," he added, "it is impossible to predict what the league may accomplish."

LEMOTH IS ELECTED MISSIONARY BISHOP

St. Louis, October 28.—The Rev. J. O. Lemoth, of Baltimore, today was elected missionary bishop of Honolulu by the house of bishops of the Episcopal church, in conference here.

The Rev. Dr. Theodore M. Gardiner, of Liberia, a negro, was chosen suffrage bishop of Liberia and the Rev. Robert H. Miza, of Kansas City, Kan., missionary bishop of Salina, Kan. The conference ends late today.

Alabama Woman Impresses Obligations Of Woman's Suffrage

Editor Constitution: This is the first time that men and women have stood on a level, shoulder to shoulder, side by side, hand in hand. God grant that "united we stand, divided we fall." Men have always granted that a home is sweeter and cleaner and more desirable to live in when women have the care of it. Will not the aggregate of homes which make our cities be more desirable places to live in when women have a chance to help?

A recent writer on suffrage points out the fact that men create, originate, women conserve. We cannot hope nor do we want to build great airships or seek the reins of government. We women want, with all our hearts to spiritualize our homes, our cities, our beautiful world. United now in one great onward march we want to save the moral and mental and physical waste of the world.

I argue that the new dignity of citizenship will give an expansion to a woman's mind and heart and soul as she has not had before. A tremendous factor in man's nature, old as life itself, is to protect women.

Men feared higher education, they fear suffrage and many men are frankly dismayed and perplexed as to its outcome.

If we have made good with equal educational advantages will we not make good in this broader field of endeavor? With increased privileges and rights comes additional responsibilities. I would like to write in letters of fire—

The new freedom creates a new control.

With the broader field of activity must come a stronger ground upon their emotions. First, last and always must women guard their refinement as never before. The leaders of women must become conspicuously modest. Higher cut necks and covered arms for the street. Transparent blouses with visible underwear should be relegated to the privacy of our home where only those who love us will censor us.

The bold bare evening dress and extreme bathing suits should give way to a more decorous mode of dress. The rights of women to a voice in the government enlarges a woman's sphere but it just as certainly diminishes her freedom in conduct, in dress and in speech.

As she walks for the first time side by side with men, she will have to witness a varied and altogether new aspect to the world we live in.

Therefore, a new reserve will be wise for her at registration bureau and at the polls. Some men will look askance, many will be tempted to belittle and frown down upon the right of women to vote and consider it merely a new toy.

In order to protect herself a reserve and modesty such as men have not seen for many years must be conspicuously present.

While I am sounding this clarion call I must explain to my beloved own sex that I am convinced that as a sex men have lost confidence in us. Let us question ourselves closely. Do we deserve it? Have we not allowed a demoralizing downward trend of fashionable dress to eat right down into the very vitals of the most precious jewel of womanhood, modesty? I fear that if we face the truth we will have to admit that we have been pretty reckless with our ideals.

What has this to do with suffrage? Everything. Our changed status must bring about a changed attitude of mind. We are the world's new relation.

SENATOR BARRETT IN SERIOUS STATE, AFTER ACCIDENT

Senator Fermor Barrett, of Toccoa, who was struck by a motorcycle as he alighted from a street car before the Peachtree station Wednesday afternoon, passed a restless night at Davis-Fisher sanatarium, to which he was rushed following the unfortunate occurrence.

Mr. Barrett's injuries consisted of a broken right arm, a deep cut across his head and several contusions upon his body. It is believed, however, that he has no internal injuries, according to statements by Dr. E. C. Davis, attending physician. Because of his age, the shock to the senator's nervous system was a serious one.

Y. M. C. A. YEAR BOOK SHOWS BIG GAINS IN ALL ACTIVITIES

The Y. M. C. A. Year Book for 1920, just published, shows the greatest gain in all lines of association work in any year of its history. Tremendous gains in membership and activities are shown by reports from the associations reporting. Growth and development in Georgia can best be shown by a comparison of the 1920 figures with those of 1919, during which year membership was 9,600, compared to 13,773 in 1920. Property value in 1919 was $1,112,000, as compared to the 1920 figure of $1,742,000. Attendance at religious meetings increased from 78,000 in 1919 to 95,000 in 1920; gym classes from 3,241 to 3,455, and counties surveyed from 825 to 1,230.

There are many other items of service, each one showing an increase over last year, and officials are highly gratified at the splendid gains shown.

BRIDGE BUILDERS TO HOLD NEXT MEET IN NEW YORK CITY

The closing session of the thirtieth convention of the American Railway Bridge and Builders' association, in session in Atlanta since Tuesday, was held Thursday morning. The last issue taken up was the selection of the meeting place for the convention next year. After it was unanimously agreed that the 1921 convention be held at New York city, the convention was declared adjourned by Fred E. Weise, president.

After the adjournment, delegates went on a special train to Stone Mountain, where they enjoyed a barbecue dinner. They returned to their homes by special trains Thursday night and early Friday morning. The convention was one of the most successful in the history of the association, officials said.

SPALDING COUNTY FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWDS

Griffin, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—An exquisite day brought out a real old-time attendance at the fair grounds today. All banks, business houses and manufacturing plants closed at noon in order to allow all the employees to attend the fair.

The Griffin Fair association will make good financially this year as it has always done, but the attendance will not be equal to that of last year, which was a record-breaker.

This is unfortunate as there has never been such displays made here before. Many people who attended the big fair at Atlanta say that some of the exhibits of farm products will equal those made there.

Bits of New York Life

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, October 28.—(Special.) Thoughts while strolling around New York: Flakes of snow! How I'd like to coast down Academy hill back home. Popcorn balls on street corners. There's something fascinating about a window full of musical instruments. Secretly, I believe every man has an ambition to ply an accordion.

That policeman is bawling me out for crossing the street before his signal. I'll appear unconcerned. O! For a lodge in some vast wilderness. All the women are craning their necks to see Eugene O'Brien. Wonder what he makes a week! He wears a wrist watch. The upkeep of that is something.

Avery Hopwood. Has four plays running on Broadway. Used to be a reporter in Cleveland. A British officer wearing a monocle of smoked glass. Newspapers from all cities. That would be a good place to meet someone from home. E. H. Sothern out for a walk.

There's a gruff old sailor. Has the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera whiskers. Bet he packs a mean marlingspike! Crates of chickens going to the pier. Around the water-front is the only place they seem to sell plug tobacco. And one of the few places where cursing seems to be an art. Three tramp steamers drifting out to sea.

I'll go up through Wall street and see the sights. Still putting in windows broken by the bomb explosion. All the reporters believe it was a careless driver's work. And not a red outbreak. The J. P. Morgan building looks like it had been in Belgium.

A street runs through the Municipal building. And so do street cars. The most impressive thing to me about the city hall is the hundreds of shoe shine stands, and they never seem busy. A statue of Nathan Hale. What was it he said? I must brush up in my history. Old women out gathering kindling for the winter. There goes Norman Hapgood into The Tribune office. I'll listen to this street orator awhile and then go home.

Brock Pemberton's "Enter Madame!" is rated as the hit of the New York theatrical season. Considering that it was the first venture of the young newspaper reporter from Emporia, Kan., on the rough theatrical seas, it is a crowning record. It started at the old Garrick, out of the theatrical belt, but its immediate success has resulted in its removal to the Fulton, in the center of things theatrical. Pemberton, it is said, will be able to retire on the proceeds of his first play if he so desires. But now he is planning to produce Zona Gale's "Miss Lulu Bett," that admirable story of the small town drudge. Wise theatrical men are predicting a slump in the theater within 30 days. They base their prediction on the small number of really worth-while plays. But New York is still building more theaters.

The police say that with the demand for workers during and following the war, the Dummy Chucker vanishedammm mh htaarm rfrg Dummy Chuckler is the type of weird beggar who eats soap, throws faked fits and froths at the mouth, with the hope of inspiring passers-by to toss him money. But the other day the Dummy Chucker returned. One fell in a seizure on Fifth avenue, but when someone in the crowd yelled, "Make way for the officer!" the rogue jumped up and ran.

In an office building on West Forty-second street, one morning this week, an elevator dropped and stuck between floors. The only passengers were a young man and a young girl. They were strangers. After 20 minutes the girl fainted in the young man's arms. Of course, you have guessed it. They are to be married soon.

Captain English Gives Big Party On 83d Birthday

On Thursday, his eighty-third birthday, Captain James W. English "put one over" on the other officers, directors and employees of the Fourth National bank.

For years it has been the custom and privilege of "the folks of the Fourth," as Captain English affectionately calls them, to celebrate in some original manner their chief's birthday. This year the captain determined to get ahead of them, and for weeks has been planning the party which was given Thursday evening at his home on Cone street. To make certain that he was getting ahead of the folks of the Fourth, he issued his invitations personally some time ago and then proceeded to shroud all details of the celebration in secrecy.

Thursday morning he visited the bank for only a few minutes, returning to his residence to complete arrangements for the evening. While thus engaged he received a call from Frank P. Rice, who observed his eighty-second birthday on Thursday also. The two spent some time reminiscing about the days when Ansley Park was a wilderness and the Exchange hotel, at Pryor and Alabama street, was the fashionable center of Atlanta.

In the evening about 150 members of the "Fourth's family" gathered at the Cone street home for one of the most enjoyable evenings which they have ever spent. Captain English, bearing his 83 years with bouyancy and a youthful heart, was leader and instigator of a rollicking party which abounded in fun and good spirits. An informal buffet supper was served the guests.

In the afternoon the folks of the Fourth, unwilling that the captain should have the day's program all to himself, sent a gigantic basket of pink and red roses, numbering 83 in all, and accompanied by the following verse:

"If each sweet rose could bring today
A message fond and true,
The eighty-three would softly say:
'Dear Captain: We're for you.'"
(Signed) "The Folks of the Fourth."

Probably no words could express more adequately the feeling of hundreds of Atlantans, who congratulated Captain English Thursday, for the man whose friendship they count as priceless and whose ability they unreservedly respect, and whose anniversary they rejoice in.

CHARGED WITH SALE OF SUBSTITUTE SOFT DRINK IN ATLANTA

Stonewall Hight, who operates a store at 142 West Georgia avenue, will be tried this morning before Judge T. O. Hathcock, in the municipal court, on the charge of cheating. According to the prosecutor in the case, L. A. Willmott, representative of the Orange Crush company of Chicago, Hight was selling a substitute to customers when they asked for orange crush. The substitution was reported to the company in Chicago, and Mr. Willmott was sent to Atlanta to invstigate. He swore out a warrant against Hight, who is out under a $100 bond.

Mr. Willmott stated that a number of dealers are using substitutes, and that it is the intention of the companuy to prosecute vigorously each case. W. T. Gloer, of the Adams National Detective agency, handled the Atlanta end of the case and worked up teh case against Hight.

"Users of orange crush in various sections of the country have complained that inferior substitutions are sold by dealers of soft drinks," stated Mr. Willmott, "and the company is running down every complaint of this character that is made by drinkers of the beverage. The name, orfane crush, is patented.' explained Mr. Willmott.

Mrs. S. N. Burts, of Spartanburg, S. C., well-known Sunday school worker of that state, will give a series of lectures to parents of children in both secular and Sunday schools of the city on "stories and story telling" at the Atlanta school of methods.

Presuming upon the universal interest in stories and the story method of teaching young people, it is believed that this number will be one of the most popular of the seven courses on the school's program. Mrs. Burts is probably the most prominent story teller in the Sunday school field.

The school of methods will begin Monday afternoon, November 1, at 3:45 o'clock, and will run for five days. Each afternoon at 3:45 Mrs Burts will speak, using the following subjects: "The Educational Value of the Story," "Learning to Tell the Story," "Helps in Telling the Story," "Story Interests," and "Telling the Story."

POWER COMPANY HEAT TURNED ON THURSDAY

Business Houses Signing "Pro Rata Slips" Get First Warmth.

Heat furnished to buildings in the central business district by the Georgia Railway and Power company was turned on Thursday for firms utilizing this method of heating their quarters, which had signed the heat contract, which is effective November 1, and the "pro rata slip," indicating their willingness to pay for heat between now and November 1 at the same rate as that specified in contracts.

Mayor Key, although he made no expression as to his intentions concerning the signing of the contract for buildings used by he municipal government, announced Thursday afternoon that request would be made to the power company through R. M. Floyd, custodian of the city hall, that the heat be turned on in the city buildings.

Much uncertainty seems to have prevailed in the city as to the exact method by which furnishing of heat by the power company operates, with respect to the time at which contracts go into effect and other items. It was explained Thursday that the original time for turning on heat, set in 1902 when the plan was first initiated, was November 1. This plan operated successfully for several years, the "steam heat season" of the company being set as from November 1 to May 1, as the months in which this heat was normally needed by the congested business district, which is the only area supplied.

Change Is Made.

In 1918, however, when, it will be remembered, Atlanta experienced a violently cold winter, it was thought that some plan must be found by which the heat could be secured prior to November 1, if wanted. The early winter of 1919 corroborated this opinion of the power company, it was said, and contracts for that year contained an option for the purchaser of heat whereby he might state his preference as to October 15 or November 1 as the starting date for heat, both forms of contract to expire May 1.

Officials of the power company state that the percentage of those who chose the October 15 date was just about one-third of the total applicants, so that the company decided it not according to the wishes of the majority of their patrons to begin the heat sooner than November 1.

With this experience, they said, November 1 was set as the date which would be specified in contracts, especially on account of the rise in the price of coal, which had become effective in 1920.

The company left a proviso, however, by which heat could be turned on at an earlier date if a sufficient number of patrons requested it, and it is under that plan of operation that the city was furnished heat Thursday and will continue to be furnished heat.

Opening of the heat furnishing program prior to the date set in the contract entails only the signing of a "pro rata slip," by which the purchaser agrees to pay the same rate, in proportion, for his heat up until the time his contract becomes effective, as he will pay for heat due him by contract. A reasonable number of requests for this early starting provision, and the signing of the pro rata agreements, were the only things necessary to the obtaining of heat Thursday, and from then on to May 1, said power company officials.

Heat sold to patrons by the power company is furnished by the boilers in the Butler street plant of the company, the boilers in the Gas and Electric building, and occasionally, in times of extreme cold, by heating systems in other downtown locations. At present, however, the Butler street boilers suffice for the need, and in most cases the Butler street plant and the Gas adn Electric building boilers can furnish all the heat required, it was said.

NEGRO SCHOLARSHIPS

Boston Philanthropists Give Three Hundred Dollars.

"Three hundred dollars were received from philanthropists of Boston for four free scholarships for this term in the Holmes institute," stated Rev. B. R. Holmes, president, in delivering an interesting lecture in the Cosmopolitan African Methodist Episcopal church, to a large audience.

"The scholarships will be given to worthy young girls who live in the rural districts whose parents are unable to send them to institutions where they will receive training," said he. "The students receiving the scholarships will be given a course in cooking and dressmaking aside from the regular studies. Representatives in New York and Boston of the institute have opened a campaign to raise funds for twenty-five scholarships by the first of the year."

Rev. W. J. Williams, chancellor of the institute, said Rev. Holmes is destined to take the place of the late Booker T. Washington in advocating the proper training for the colored people of the south, and urged the audience to support the institute for the good it is doing in training the colored youth along the proper lines.

REDUCTION IN WAGES OF TEXTILE WORKERS

Gaffney, S. C., October 28.—A 15 per cent reduction in wages of all operatives employed by the Gaffney Textile Manufacturing plants was announced today to take effect November 1. It is estimated 1,500 workers will be affected. The reduction is necessary because of the reduced price and small demand for textile products, the management reported.

The government commission has fixed the basic wage in Austria at $30 per week.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that the distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Theferore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength.) Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—(adv.)

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble — Take Glass of Salts.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—(adv.)

MORE LIGHT GIVEN ON LUSITANIA CASE

Ex-Collector Malone, Who Cleared the Liner, Says She Carried British Explosives—Charges "Frame-Up" on La Follette.

New York, October 28.—Dudley Field Malone, candidate for governor on the farmer-labor ticket and former collector of the port of New York, in an address tonight declared that when the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine she carried a consignment of 4,200 cartridges for the British government, which contained a total of nearly eleven tons of black powder. The assertion was made in citing the case of Senator La Follette, who charged that the Lusitania carried explosives for the British.

"When the record of the Wilson administration becomes a matter of open history," Mr. Malone declared, "the world will realize that no government ever perpetrated such a reign of oppression and secrecy upon a people."

Mr. Malone said that when Senator La Follette declared the Lusitania carried explosives consigned to the British government he was "immediately slated for expulsion from the senate, and, as we all remember, came within a hair's breadth of that fate."

Malone's Report Withheld.

"When Senator La Follette was on trial before the senate elections committee within his right as a senator," he continued, "he demanded from the treasury department a copy of the report of the collector of the port of New York on the condition and cargo of the Lusitania. The treasury department referred him to the state department and the state department refused on the ground that the report had become a part of the secret archives. As it happened, I wrote this report on the Lusitania because I had examined the Lusitania in my capacity as collector of the port of New York. . . . And it was upon the evidence supplied by me that the Lusitania was not armed, that President Wilson wrote his famous second Lusitania note to the German imperial government. But, in my view, the ruthlessness of the German U-boat warfare could not justify the Washington administration in persecuting Senator La Follette for telling the truth, nor could German militarism be offered as a reason for refusing to tell the American people just what the Lusitania had on board when she was sunk.

"Frame-Up" Alleged.

"I considered then, and I consider now, that the persecution of La Follette on a charge which the administration knew to the false from evidence in its own possession, was a frame-up on Senator La Follette, and a fraud on the American people. When I heard that Senator La Follette was refused access to my report, I informed his counsel and told his counsel to inform the government that I would testify in support of the senator's statements, and that I would not remain silent and see any man crucified for telling the truth. Whereupon, the trial was postponed from week to week and finally dropped. It has been admitted by the German admiralty that the Lusitania was struck by a German torpedo. But it will never be known whether or not there was a second explosion in the Lusitania's cargo which made her sink before she could be reached. . . . We do not know and never will know actually what was in all the boxes and cases which made up this cargo. But we did know that there was one consignment on board the Lusitania of 4,200 cases of Springfield metallic cartridges, each case containing 1,000 cartridges, with five pounds of black powder to each 1,000 cartridges. Therefore, there was concentrated in one consignment in the hold of the vessel a shipment of nearly eleven tons of black powder, which, by the impact of the torpedo, may very well have contributed to the incredibly rapid sinking of the great liner.

Lusitania Not Armed.

"The other consignments of ammunition and shrapnel, known to have been on the Lusitania were consigned to the British government, but contained no explosives. President Wilson was perfectly right when he denied the charge made by the German government that the Lusitania was armed. She was not armed. But, the administration was dead wrong when it sought to keep from public knowledge all the facts about the Lusitania case."

Concluding his address, Mr. Malone said:

"No matter what may be the individual opinions on the Lusitania or any other question of public knowledge, we must teach our political leaders and our government that the American people are not afraid to learn the whole truth about anything and are willing to draw their own conclusions when all the facts are presented. The autocratic suppression of the truth through the arrogant autocracy of the leaders of both old parties is merely another reason why the people at this election are seeking for a new kind of administration, politics and government."

The University of Chile was first opened to women students in 1886.

ORGANIZED LABOR BACKING FARMERS

cost of production price is reached, but an appeal may be made to congress.

A general committee to draw up a policy to be followed by the conference was appointed, with John Tromble, of Kansas, as chairman, and all the various agricultural interests represented. It went into executive session immediately.

The conference met on call of the committee appointed by a recent similar gathering to receive the answer of the federal reserve board to the plea for more credits. The statement of the board was declared by this committee to be unsatisfactory.

Georgia Members Active.

The three Georgia members, Charles Barrett, L. B. Jackson, director of the Georgia Markets' association, and Martin Amorous, of Marietta, took a prominent part in today's session.

The speakers denounced the policy of sending bank surpluses to New York city, to be loaned to Wall street and other interests at exorbitant call money rates, while the agricultural interests are unable to obtain financial assistance.

Morgan Sheppard, a Virginia farmer and member of the Virginia State Farmers' institute, said that "it is claimed that banks have loaned billions of dollars more than last year. What I want to know is to whom it was loaned." He declared he knew of one Virginia bank which had sent its surplus money to New York city and hit a call money rate of 22 per cent of interest.

Mr. Sheppard suggested that in attacking New York city banks for high interest rates, John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, might investigate conditions in other cities. Mr. Sheppard said that Mr. Williams might find something of value were he to inquire into banking operations in Richmond and other places.

The conference received a report from the committee which remained over in Washington from the last farmers' conference and received the statement of the federal reserve board's policy with respect to crop financing.

Charles W. Holman, representing the national board of farm management, characterized the board's statement as "the same old bunk useless and detrimental." He declared that since September the prices of all essentials except clothing and farm products had risen and that these "had been artificially depressed."

Loan Suggested to Germany.

A loan of a billion dollars by the United States to Germany, was one plan laid before the poilcy committee. William W. Brauer, of New York, who asserted that he represented the German government, asked the committee to indorse legislation by congress authorizing such a loan to Germany. He said the German government was prepared to give such a loan priority over all reparations payments under the Versailles treaty. Property of the German government and the German nationals seized by the alien property custodian, and claims arising from the seizure of German shipping would be offered as additional security, Mr. Brauer said. Germany was ready to purchase $200,000,000 of agricultural products immediately, he asserted, on such an extension of credit.

Mr. Brauer said he held a contract with the German government authorizing him to secure the billion-dollar loan, and would have sole charge in spending it.

Labor Offers Support.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and William K. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, promised their co-operation with the farmers in addresses. Mr. Johnston declared Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, had authorized him to give his support to the effort to secure credits for the orderly crop marketing.

Mr. Morrison characterized as "profiteers" bankers who charge farmers and laboring men excessive interest rates, and added that the farmers and laborers, constituting a majority of the population, are supporting a minority who live at the expense of the majority.

Defending the right of the laborer to strike, Mr. Morrison said the farmer was likewise privileged to destroy a part of his crop if he cannot obtain a pair price for it.

"Farmers and labbr are suffering from the same evil," said Mr. Johnson, "and if we only co-operate we can solve them all. We could secure control of the banks by co-operation and change the complexion of congress."

Grip on Government.

Mr. Johnson charged that "certain men" had gotten hold of the government and were manipulating it for the benefit of the few, but explained that he was not referring to any particular administration.

H. S. Mosely, of Perry Grove, Ark., suggested that the farming interests send telegrams to Governor Cox and Senator Harding asking them whether, if elected president, they would "remain inactive while the farmers are losing millions of dollars," and demanding an answer before the farmers "go to the polls."

Sterling Hillman, secretary of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, telegraphed that his organization was in sympathy with the farmers' efforts.

The conference sent an invitation to the Russian Co-operative society of New York, to send representatives to the meeting.

CUT OUT COTTON AND KILL WEEVIL

Farmers of Spalding Urge Unique Plan to Rid the Country of Pest.

Griffin, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—At a meeting of thirty-four of Spalding county's best-known farmers, all of whom reside in what is known as the Cabin district, resolutions were passed urging Georgia senators and congressmen to work for and secure the passage of a bill prohibiting the planting of cotton for one year east of the Mississippi river, and the following year west of the Mississippi, with a strip of fifty to one hundred miles on each side of the river not to be planted to cotton either year.

The resolution recites the fact that under existing conditions it is not possible to raise more than half crop of cotton, and then only at double expense. The farmers frankly admit such a law would work more or less a hardship upon many, especially the manufacturers of cotton goods, but it is their opinion that the situation demands some such drastic action. The closing paragraph of the resolution follows:

Resolved, That we ask our congressmen, senators and other authorities whoever they may be, to pass a law of quarantine not allowing any cotton to be planted east of the Mississippi river in the year 1921, nor any cotton to be planted west of the Mississippi in the year 1922, with a strip on the river fifty or one hundred miles wide that will not be planted either year, and that the people living in said fifty or one hundred-mile zone be paid a fair amount for having to suffer two years instead of one. That the rest of the cotton belt will not be paid as it is for their own good. We believe further that this is the opportune time to pass this law as this can be done without losing our labor, there being nowhere for said labor to go.

BATTLE OVER COFFIN OF IRISH LORD MAYOR

pipers were followed by 200 priests, chanting prayers for the dead.

Then came the carriage of Archbishop Daniel Mannix, buried beneath floral offerings. The hearse bearing MacSwiney's coffin with its gaelic inscription telling that he was "murdered by the foreigner in Brixton jail," and surrounded by its bodyguard of Sinn Fein volunteers, was followed by the mourning party, and after this came the hundreds of Gaelic societies, each carrying its own banner and the flag of the "republic."

In the crowd there was the usual hush of respect. So great was the crush that many women fainted. But nowhere was there the slightest threat of disturbance.

During the procession the bands leading the various Irish societies walked to the tune of the Sinn Fein soldiers' song, which is the national anthem of the Irish republic.

Scene In Cathedral.

The scene in the great cathedral durnig the celebration of the pontifical requiem mass was most impressive.

Church dignitaries, the lord mayor of Dublin, the deputy lord mayor of Cork and deputations representing the British parliamentary labor party and various Irish political and civic organizations attended.

Thousands of persons thronged every available space in the large cathedral, scores standing on chairs in the aisles, straining for a glimpse of the chancel where the casket reposed on a catafalque with four officers wearing the uniform of the Irish republican army standing motionless as a guard of honor.

The casket was surmounted by wreaths and the hat which the lord mayor formerly wore as commandant of the Cork brigade of the volunteer army. The breast-plate of the coffin bore an inscription in Gaelic reading:

"Murdered by the foreigner in Brixton prison, London, October 25, the fourth year of the republic. Aged forty years. God have mercy on his soul."

Mrs. MacSwiney Absent.

In the front pews reserved for the family and official delegations there was one figure missing, the lady mayoress, who collapsed this morning from the strain and anxiety and was unable to be present at the ceremony in the cathedral.

Just as the services were beginning, the four men who, with their comrades had been guarding the body throughout the night, were relieved by a quartet wearing long coats which they took off as they stepped to their places, exposing the uniform of the Irish republican army.

When dawn filtered in through the lofty windows of the gray old cathedral, first preparations began for the requiem mass.

The guard, composed of members of the London and Cork brigades of the Irish volunteer army, was changed frequently during the night. The men were dressed in civilian clothing, and did not carry arms. The yellow light of the candles fell on the green, white and orange colors of the Sinn Fein flag, which was draped over the coffin, which rested on a catafalque placed before the high altar of the church.

A bulletin issued today by the Irish Self-Determination league regarding the wife of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney said that her collapse as the result of the death of her husband had confined her to bed, making it impossible for her to attend today's ceremony or accompany the body to Ireland.

TENDER INFANTS STOMACH KEPT HEALTHY

Georgia Woman Praises Nestling Powders.

In the home of Mrs. M. B. Guy, of Manchester, Georgia, you will always find a box of Nestling Powders. Mrs. Guy in a recent letter to this company says, "I have kept a box of Nestling Powders in my home constantly for the past four years and I consider them unexcelled for children during teething time. It keeps their little digestive organs in perfect shape." Thousands of mothers have been using Nestling Powders to safeguard the health of their infants and children for the last ten years. They tend to increase the weight, better the appetite, induce normal sleep and good digestion. You will see the results in baby's cheeks as the condition of the digestive organs and the blood improves and the bowels start functioning properly.

Doctors and druggists immediately recognize the worth of Nestling Powders from the formula, which is printed on every box. Send for our little 8-page booklet which briefly describes the many diseases peculiar to babyhood and tells how each one should be treated. Ask for the names of some of the delighted mothers who have used Nestling Powders.

If your druggist does not have Nestling Powders in stock send us his name and forty cents and we will send you a full sized package of twenty powders.

Laseter—Johnson.

Miss Estelle Laseter and Mr. Ollie C. Johnson were married Monday evening, October 25, at the Second Baptist church by the pastor, Dr. Henry Alford Porter, in the presence of a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home in Atlanta.

Druid Hills Church.

The Sunday school of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church will give a Hallowe'en social Friday evening, October 29, at 7:30 o'clock.

A splendid program has been arranged, consisting of music, recitations and other features. The church will be beautifully decorated with autumn leaves.

All members of Sunday school and church and all friends of the church and congregation are invited.

Today's Calendar

Miss Margaret Yeager's luncheon in compliment to Miss Hallie Poole's guests, the Misses Rambo, of Nashville.

Dance by Sigma Tau Sigma sorority, Sacred Heart school, at K. of C. hall on Pine street.

Dance at Segadlo's for college set.

Mrs. Victor Smith's children's party for her daughters, Marie and Lyra.

Mr. William Lambright's Halloween party this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wesley's dinner tonight in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ottis Wesley.

Afternoon party by Mrs. Oliver Lindsay and Mrs. Ed Gramling for Miss Margaret Harbuck, a bride-elect.

Alliance To Entertain For Mrs. McCarthy.

The Alliance Francaise gave a special program of music and interpretive dance yesterday afternoon at 3:30 at Marist hall in compliment to Mrs. George S. McCarthy, who leaves shortly with her husband, Captain McCarthy, of the army, for his new post at Norfolk.

Mrs. McCarthy has taken prominent and delightful part in the activities of French-speaking people in Atlanta during her year's residence here while her husband was at Camp Gordon, and her friends, as well as all lovers of the arts and the French language, were invited.

There were three pianists—Miss Lillie Peeples, Mrs. C. C. Case and Miss Rose Gabrielle Tabib. Mr. Warner and M. Rollain sang, and a group of the Spiker Players, Miss Edna May Horine, Miss Dabney and Miss Dozier, gave dance interpretations.

Mr. Charles Loridans made an appropriate address in French.

Hallowe'en Party at Playroom Saturday.

Atlantans downtown Saturday need not be frightened at the unusual number of ghosts, hobgoblins, elves and witches seen on the street, for at the magic hour of 3 p. m. they will all vanish into the Peachtree Arcade, where there is a playroom party to celebrate Hallowe'en.

Children with or without Hallowe'en costumes will be welcome, but there will be two beautiful prizes offered, one for the most unique boy's costume and one for the best girl's Hallowe'en attire. These will be selected by the judges after the grand march in which all will take part.

Miss Mary Ben Wright, a talented student at Agnes Scott, will tell Hallowe'en stories in costume. There will be Hallowe'en games, and also the popular fish pond and ice cream cones.

The playroom will be beautifully decorated for the occasion, many of the favors and decorations having been made during the week by children attending the kindergarten playroom.

Those attending the party are urged to be on time, as the entertainment will start promptly at 3. At the last playroom party, a month ago, 250 children attended, and a hundred had to be turned away in order to prevent overcrowding the playroom.

A large committee of ladies from the home economics department of the Woman's club will be on hand to assist. Mrs. McDonald, the caretaker, is looking after the children.

The admission is 25 cents, which includes refreshments. The ice cream cones and fish pond are 10 cents extra.

To Mrs. Coppedge.

Mrs. Frank W. Burr entertained at luncheon Wednesday at her home on Peachtree circle in compliment to Mrs. Clarence Coppedge, the guest of Mrs. Claude Frederick, to Mrs. Byron Patton, a recent bride, and to Mrs. Bernard Boykin, whose wedding was an event of last summer.

The living room was beautifully decorated with marigold and ferns from the garden of the hostess. The luncheon table, covered with lace mints, had for a centerpiece a silver vase of nasturtium. The candles were in colors to match and the places were marked with hand-painted autumn leaves. Mrs. Burr wore a smart model of brown satin, embroidered with silk chenille and gold. Covers were placed for seven guests.

Y. W. C. A. Industrial Field Secretary to Visit Local "Y."

Miss Louise Leonard, Y. W. C. A. industrial secretary for the South Atlantic field states, will arrive in Atlanta today to spend five days with the Young Women's Christian association, where she will work with the industrial extension department.

This department is working with the "Y" clubs already organized, and is rapidly organizing new forces of girls in stores and factories into groups for co-operative efforts along "Y" club lines that appeal to young women. The purpose of the association's industrial extension work is to provide proper recreation for employed girls and to give them a sense of the dignity of labor.

The "Y" clubs are planned to give employed girls an opportunity to meet one another and to stimulate their comradeship. Regarding the extent of industrial extension work that Miss Leonard will find being done by the Y. W. C. A., it is stated by Mrs. Archibald Davis, president, that from October 1, 1919, to October 1, 1920, the number of "Y" activities put on for younger girls' clubs numbered 201, with a total attendance of 4,012. The girls were under 18 years of age, and included girls from grade and high schools, also young employed girls.

For evening clubs the activities of the Y. W. C. A. numbered 427, with a total attendance of 7,761. These clubs had as members business and professional women, girls from factories, stores and offices. The girls came from their work directly to the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Arcade, had a 15-cent supper and enjoyed their activities afterwards. The total number of activities for all girls numbered 1,428, with a total attendance of 39,859.

On Friday night Miss Leonard will have a 15-cent supper at the Y. W. C. A., with representatives from all groups of "Y" girls. Saturday and Monday she will visit stores and factories with Miss Esabell Goss, industrial extension secretary for the local association. Saturday night Miss Leonard will go to the "Jo Hi" clubhouse, for girl employees from the J. M. High company, where she visits the "Jo Hi" club. The visitor will also go to the Hallowe'en party to be given at the Wren's Nest on Saturday night by the Y. W. C. A. Old Glory club and to the "Y" Wide-Awake club Hallowe'en party on the same night.

Capital City Club Ball To Open Social Season

The Halloween dinner-dance at the Capital City club tonight will mark the formal opening of the social season, and the entertainment will be appropriately elaborate and beautiful. Several hundred guests will be entertained.

Interesting among the dinner parties will be that of Miss Harriet McDaniel, who will entrtain in honor of her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Kirkland, of Nashville, and Miss Hazel Nelson. Invited to meet them are: Miss Henrietta Davis, Miss Dorothy Haverty, Miss Mary Ware, of Lynchburg; Messrs. Esmond Brady, Laurence Willet, Reginald Fleet, Gillespie Adams, James Scales, Otey Mitchell, and Dr. Brady, of Baltimore.

Mr. Orme Campbell's party will be a compliment to Mrs. John Jewell, of St. Louis, the geust of Miss Isoline Campbell.

Colonel and Mrs. M. Zalinski, who will arrive today from their wedding trip, will be honor guests in a party of twelve.

A party of twenty-four, in which a group of Atlanta men will be hosts, will be a compliment to Miss Helen Billingsley and Mr. George Wathen, of Louisville, whose marriage takes place Saturday.

Miss Mary Cohen and her attractive guest, Miss Frances Gurr, of Macon, will be the center of a party.

The season's debutantes will be hostesses in an interesting party.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Backman will entertain in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffee, who have recently arrived from their wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Speir will entertain in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fischer, of Charleston, S. C. The guests will include Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Folsom, of Washington, D. C., who are in the city for a few days; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Crane, of LaGrange, Ga.; Mr. J. H. Hayes, Mr. Gus Ryan and Mr. C. H. McMillen.

Among others entertaining will be: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Inman Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Congdon, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Woodruff, Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Nicolson, Jr., and Mrs. Mrs. Milton Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Goodhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Simms, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Evins, Miss Nellie Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. John Gelyer, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Harrell, Mr. J. B. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maud, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cassels, Mr. Edwin F. McCarty, Mr. D. C. Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Watkins, Colonel Little, Mr. F. L. Hurt, Mr. Charles Cox, Mr. C. B. Wilson, Mr. Parson, Mr. and Mrs. John O. DuPree, Dr. and Mrs. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker.

Mrs. Victor Cluis Honored By Red Cross Executive.

Mrs. Victor Cluis, of Atlanta, was the honor guest at a beautiful luncheon given recently in New York by Mrs. William Draper, a member of the national executive committee, American Red Cross, and one of the most prominent figures in the war work of that organization.

The luncheon was given at Mrs. Draper's home, and Mrs. Cluis, who was one of the most valuable of the Red Cross workers in Atlanta, was guest of honor in a party which included the leading women in the work of the Red Cross in every section of the country.

Beautiful Dinner-Dance Given for Bridal Party

An elaborate and beautiful entertainment last night was the dinner-dance given at the Capital City club by Mr. and Mrs. Brown Mantle, of Cincinnati, who are at the Georgian Terrace to attend the wedding of Miss Helen Billingsley and Mr. George Wathen, of Louisville, Ky., on Saturday morning.

The party numbered twenty-four, and dinner was served in a private dining room, the table decoration a handsome arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums.

Concert Coloratura to Give Brilliant Matinee Recital

The Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., will present Mary Adele Hays, an Atlanta girl who has made a national reputation as a concert artist, at a matinee recital this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Washington seminary. Those who have heard Miss Hays in recital are enthusaistic in their praise and compare her voice to Tetrizini's in its marvelous technic and beauty of tone.

Assisting artists on the program today will be Mrs. C. W. Bulgeman, head of the violin department of Brenau School of Music; Mrs. Charles Dowman, accompanist; Miss Kathleen Morris, pianist and accompanist.

Mrs. A. P. Treadwell and Mrs. Charles Love will have charge of tickets at the door. Mrs. Joseph Heard is general chairman of tickets.

The admission will be 75 cents with a special charge of 35 cents for school children. A large number of tickets have been sold and the occasion promises to be an artistic event in the musical life of Atlanta.

- 1 teaspoonful of lemon extract

FORMULA

Bring the sugar, syrup and water to a boil, add the glycerine and cream of tarter. Boil until it forms a firm ball when tested in cold water. Remove from fire and add the flavoring. Pour on buttered plates and pull when cool enough to handle.

UPSHAW ADDRESSES STUDENTS AT EMORY

A thousand students of Emory university gave enthusiastic reception at chapel Thursday to Congressman W. D. Upshaw when he addressed the body on "Making the Most Out of College Life." At 1:30 o'clock Mr. Upshaw spoke to students of Decatur High school, where nearly 300 "young Americans" alternately laughed and applauded as the speaker told them the possibilities of pluck and purpose.

Congressman Upshaw has been invited to be orator of the day at the patriotic celebration on "Armistice day" at Emory university.

NATIONAL DRIVE OF GIRL SCOUTS EARLY NEXT MONTH

The national drive of the Girl Scouts of America will begin on November 5 and will continue through November 16. The North avenue troop will conduct the campaign in Atlanta, directed by Miss Jane Harwell, captain, and Miss Margaret Bland, lieutenant.

"We want grown people who are interested in the Girl Scout movement and who want to help it, to become sustaining members by paying $1 per year," declared Miss Harwell.

The young captain of the drive explains that the Girl Scout movement is closely akin to that of the Boy Scouts. In England the organization is known as the Girl Guides, but in America they claim full sistership to the Boy Scouts. The primary purpose of the Girl Scouts is the development of a higher type of citizenship through training and leadership. Miss aHrwell and Miss Bland will receive membership subscriptions at Decatur 369 and Ivy 3278, respectively.

Sculpter Leaps to Fame.

Art and romance are inextricably commingled, and the acomplished artist's most interesting possession is a humble or picturesque beginning. Paul Darde, whose sculptured studies are causing France to hail him as a new master, was a shepherd, tending his flocks in the Cevennes mountains, when a well-known artist found him, not long ago, and carried him off to Paris for a short course. His work, declared by admirers to rival that of the great Rodin, is usually hewn directly from the stone, without previous modeling, using ordinary stone masons' tools.

Entirely New Way to Banish Superfluous Hair
(Really Removes Roots and All)

Why should any woman continue to wear an ugly, humiliating growth of hair on her face, now that it is known this can be completely and quickly removed, roots and all, by the new phelactine process? The process is not to be compared at all with the depilatory, electrical or shaving methods. Phelactine is non-ordorous, non-irritating, non-poisonous—so harmless it could be eaten without any bad effect. Best of all, the hairs come out entire, even the roots, before one's very eyes! The skin is left as smooth and hair-free as a child's.

Anyone who purchases a stick of phelactine from the druggist and follows the simple directions, is bound to be pleased and delighted.—(adv.)

HURT ALL OVER COULDN'T SLEEP

Suffered So Much and So Long, Indiana Lady Became Discouraged and at Times Cared Little to Live.

Leavenworth, Ind.—Mrs. Hannah Peru, of this town, writes: "About six years ago I began the use of Cardui for female weakness. I suffered such fearful bearing-down pains at . . . It seemed like something was just pressing on the top of my head and it burned like fire. I was indeed a nervous wreck.

"For four years I couldn't do my housework. I was in bed most of the time. . . . I got so discouraged, and at times I wanted to die. I was in so much pain. At times I hurt all over. . . . At night I was restless and couldn't sleep. I had no appetite, in fact was a misery to myself and every one else.

"I continued in this condition until finally I began Cardui . . . Took Cardui regularly until I took a number of bottles. It cured me. I cannot say too much for this treatment, and highly recommend it to others."

For more than forty years Cardui has proven beneficial to suffering women.

Parents of Weak, Ailing Children

Will Be Interested in This Letter.

A mother writes: "My little girl was weak, puny and tired all the time, did not want to do anything. Vinol was recommended.—it built up her strength and made her healthy, so now she romps and plays like other children and is robust and rosy."

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the very elements needed to create red corpuscles in the blood, quicken the circulation, increase the appetite and soon strength and vitality is imparted to every part of the body.

Pioneer Builder Of Atlanta Has 82d Birthday

Frank P. Rice, one of Atlanta's pioneer builders, was 82 years old yesterday.

To the casual observer he would not be taken for a man of over 60 years, retaining to a marvelous degree his physical strength and youthful appearance.

He has served the city in many capacities, retiring from public life as chairman of the city water board.

The development of Atlanta's water system is very largely due to his foresight and business ability, for the extensions that are now being made largely follow the line of multiplied units that were worked out under his administration as chairman of the board.

Mr. Rice has been actively identified with the development of Atnis figure bent. He is [illegible] years when congratulated upon securing has seen the city grow from a village to a metropolis, and recently, "white way" lights on West Peachtree to North avenue, he said:

"It won't be long before they will be extended to Sixth street, and you younger men will see them go to Peachtree creek, and before many years the city limits will reach way beyond Buckhead."

Mr. Rice did splendid work for the city and the state as a member of the legislature, and it was largely through his efforts that the state made the appropriation for the building of the present state capitol.

Despite his four score years and two, Mr. Rice lives a life of rare contentment, and is never happier than when talking about the Atlanta of the old days and in prophesying as to the city's future.

Miss Louise Leonard, Industrial Worker Of "Y. W.," Visits Here

In the interest of the perfection and elaboration of the industrial extension department of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A., Miss Louise Leonard, Y. W. C. A. industrial secretary for the South Atlantic states, will arrive in Atlanta today for a stay of five days.

This organization is rapidly forming new "Y" clubs among the working girls of the city, drawing membership from all ages. The purpose of the clubs is to provide social life, proper recreation and an opportunity for widening of acquaintances, for girls employed in stores, offices and factories.

According to the statement of Mrs. Archibald Davis, president of the Y. W. C. A. in Atlanta, Miss Leonard will find a record of 201 activities, put on for the younger girls' clubs with a total attendance of 4,012 between October 1, 1919, and October 1, 1920. The girls were under 18 years of age and included both students and employees.

For evening clubs activities numbered 427, with an attendance of 7,761. These clubs are composed of business and professional women. Total activities for all girls are 1,428 and show an attendance of 39,859.

Friday night Miss Leonard will have a 15-cent supper at the Y. W. C. A., with representatives from all groups of "Y" girls. Saturday and Monday she will visit stores and factories with Miss Elsabelle Goss, industrial extension secretary for the local association. Saturday night Miss Leonard will go to the "Jo-Hi" clubhouse for girl employees of the J. M. High company, where she visited the Jo-Hi "Y" club. The visitor will also go to the Hallowe'en party to be given at the Wren's Nest Saturday night by the Y. W. C. A. Old Glory club and to the "Y" Wide-Awake Hallowe'en party on the same night.

Gresham Improved; Funeral of Victim Of Accident Friday

W. D. Gresham, Y. M. C. A. building superintendent, who was injured Wednesday afternoon when struck on Peachtree street by an automobile driven by R. W. Walsh, veterinary surgeon, was reported Thursday morning to be in a satisfactory condition after passing a fairly good night. Walsh is held on $1,000 bond pending hearing before Recorder Johnson.

The funeral of Berry M. Moore, 63 Dorothy street, Lakewood Heights, who was fatally injured Tuesday night by an automobile driven by R. C. Bell, as Mr. Moore was alighting from a Lakewood street car near Lakewood Heights, has been changed from the time originally announced. The services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, in the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Interment will follow in North View cemetery. After investigation by the solicitor's office, Mr. Bell was released on $5,000 bond Wednesday afternoon.

CHARLES LIPSCHITZ AGAIN GOES ON TRIAL

Charles Lipschitz, a former New York clothing salesman, went on trial Thursday in the criminal division of the superior court for the second time on the charge of larceny of a trunk containing over $40,000 worth of diamonds, property of a New York concern.

Lipschitz was tried and convicted in the same court a year ago and was sentenced to serve six months in jail, twelve months on the chaingang and pay a fine of $1,000. Judge J. Render Terrell, who presided at the trial, granted him a new trial on an appeal.

Lipschitz is charged with having changed the baggage checks on a trunk, containing clothing, owned by his employers, and a trunk containing the jewels, in charge of another salesman, at Savannah. The diamond trunk is said to have been sent to Lipschitz in Atlanta, and was taken to a local hotel, where the jewelry was removed. Lipschitz was arrested several days later in Portland, Ore.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—(adv.)

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Her arm slipped from his neck and again she clasped both slender hands, rested them on his shoulder, and laid her cheek against them.

"It wouldn't help me out of this pickle if we misbehaved," she said thoughtfully. "It wouldn't solve the problem. . . . I suppose you've taken me seriously as an apostle of that new liberty which ignores irregularities—doesn't admit them to be irregular. That's why you said what you did say, I fancy. I've talked enough modern foolishness to have you think me quite emancipated—quite indifferent to the old social order, the old code of morals, the old dogmas, the ancient and orthodox laws of community and individual conduct. . . . Haven't you supposed me quite capable of sauntering away unconventionally with the man I love, after the ironical and casual spectacle of marriage which I have afforded you?"

"I don't know," he said bitterly. "I don't know what I have thought. . . . There will never be anybody except you. If I lose you I lose the world. But between you and me there is a deeper tie than anything less than marriage could sanction. We couldn't ever do that, Steve—let the world go hang while we gave it an extra kick for each other's sakes."

"Because," she whispered, "dad's roof was ours. For his honor, it not for our own, we could not affront the world, dear. . . . Not that I don't love you enough!" she added almost fiercely. "I do love you enough! I don't care whether you know it. Nothing would matter—if there were no other way—and if I were free to take the only way that offered. Do you suppose I'd hesitate if it lay between taking that way and losing you?"

She turned and began to pace the path excitedly, cheeks flushed and hands clenching and unclenching.

"What do I care about myself!" she said. She snapped her fingers: "I don't care that, Jim, when your happiness is at stake! I'd go to you, go with you, love you, face the world undaunted. I care nothing about myself. I know myself! What am I? You know!"

She came up close to him, her face afire, her gray eyes brilliant.

"You know what I am," she repeated. "You and dad did everything to make me like yourselves. You took me out of the gutter—"

"Steve!"

"You took me out of the gutter!" she repeated excitedly. "You cleaned the filth from me, gave me shelter, love;—you educated me, made me possible, strove to eradicate the unworthy instincts and inclinations which I might have inherited. My aunt told me. I know what dad did for me! Why shouldn't I adore the memory of your father? Why shouldn't I love his son? I do. I always have. I didn't dream that you ever could offer me a greater love. But when I understood that it was true—when I realized that it was really love, then I stepped into your arms because you held them out to me—because you were your father's son whom I had loved passionately all my life in one way, and was willing to learn to love in any way you asked of me—Jim!—my brother—my lover—"

She flung herself into his arms, choking, clinging to him, struggling to control her voice:

"I am nothing—I am nothing," she sobbed passionately. "Why should not all my gratitude and loyalty be for your father's son? What is so terrible to me is that I can't give myself! That I can't throw myself at your feet for life. To marry you would be too heavenly wonderful! Or, to snap my fingers in the world's face for your sake—dearest—that would be so little to do for you—so easy.

"But I can't. Your father—dad—would know it. And then the world would blame him for ever harboring a gutter-waif—"

"Steve, dearest—"

"Oh, Jim," she stammered, "I haven't even told you how those inherited traits have raised the deuce with me. I've got in me all the low instincts, all the indolence, the selfish laziness, the haphazard, irresponsible, devil-may-care traits of the man who was my own father!"

"Steve—!"

"Let me tell you! I've got to tell you. I can't keep it any longer. It was something in Oswald that appealed to that gypsy side of me—awoke it, I think. The first time I ever saw him, as a boy, and under disagreeable circumstances, I felt an odd inclination for him. He was like me, and I sensed it! I told you that once. It's true. Something in him appealed to the vagabond recklessness and irresponsibility latent in me—the tendency to wander, the indolent desire to drift and explore pleasant places. . . . After you went abroad I met him. I wrote you about it. I liked him. He fascinated me. There was something in common—something common in common between us. . . . I went to his studio, at first with Helen, and also when others were there. Then I went alone. I didn't care, knowing there was really no harm in going, and also being at the age when defiance of conviction is more or less attractive to every girl.

"He was fascinating. He was plainly in love with me. But that means nothing to a girl except the subtle excitement and flattery of the fact. But he was what I wanted—a fellow vagabond!

"Every time I came into town I went to his studio. My aunt had no idea what I was up to. And we did have such good times, Jim!—you see he was successful then, and he had a wonderful studio—and a car—and we ran out into the country and then returned to take tea in his studio. . . . And, Jim, it was all right—but it was not good for me."

Here's What Makes 'em Happy

Flaky, crispy doughnuts, "brown as a berry and light as a feather"! Cook them at home and you'll know they are going to be delightful and digestible. Always make your doughnuts out of Ballard Self-Rising Flour. It is so much easier—quicker—surer and more economical. Do not add salt, soda or phosphate—Ballard Self-Rising Flour contains these ingredients mixed in correct proportions. You couldn't buy them and mix them yourself for the same price.

You'll find that Ballard Self-Rising Flour saves you lots of time, trouble and money. It enables you to bake the most delicious biscuits, rolls and cakes much cheaper than you could buy them. And there's hardly any work at all. The result is guaranteed good.

Ballard quality is always the same. Only the best grades of Winter Wheat are used in milling. The self-rising ingredients are scientifically added, and the flour sifted thru silk to insure purity and cleanliness. Ask your grocer for the best self-rising flour he has—

Try this recipe for Doughnuts:
4 cups Ballard Self Rising
½ cup sugar
1 level tablespoonful lard
1 egg
1 cup milk
Mace, nutmeg or lemon to flavor as preferred.

Stir sugar, lard and egg, then add milk. Sift flour, mix lightly but fully. Cook in grease hot enough to brown on one side in less than a minute. Turn over and cook till brown on the other side.

Women of Middle Age

Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change in her life without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, smothering spells, fainting spells, nervous troubles and irregularities are symptoms that should have prompt attention. These two letters prove what a successful remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for women at this time of life.

These Two Women Helped During Change of Life.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for it."—Mrs. Susan C. Staples, 157 B School St., Taunton, Mass.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. Margaret Danz, 743 N. 25th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Political Situation Gives Stock Market Weak Tone

BY R. L. BARNUM

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, October 28.—Yesterday the stock market was soft. Today it was weak. Politics and tight mnoey were again responsible for lower prices.

Cables that the London coal strike had been settled, subject to a vote of the miners, were received in the financial district before noon. But there was temporary recovery in stock market prices and then the decline was only resumed. Today's losses in individual stocks ran from 1 to 5 points or more. In the last hour there was a recovery of from 1 to 3 points.

Despite the apparent swing in sentiment toward Cox during the past few days, Wall street still believes firmly that Harding is going to be elected. "No matter what comes out of the election," one large Broadway commission house sent out over the wires to its customers today, "lower prices are practically certain to follow—a reaction if Harding is elected, a wide open break if Cox is successful."

The house in question is of the belief that traders will sell the market if Harding is elected on the theory that the good news is out, and hence that profits should be taken. Your correspondent is willing to go on record, however, as predicting that if Harding is elected there will be a few days at least of rising prices.

Call Money Advances.

Today's money market was the same as has been experienced all week. Call loans opened at 9 per cent and advanced to 10.

A number of railway earnings statements for the month of September were published today, and some of the reports make it plain why the government is withdrawing its funds from the banks. Atlantic Coast Line, for example, earned $5,061,000 gross, an increase of $317,000. But there was an operating deficit of $2,256,000. Other companies reported deficits which undoubtedly made it necessary to call on the government for the money which the government owed on account of guaranteed net income up to September 1. Norfolk and Western, on the other hand, showed $8,959,000 gross for September, an increase of $1,611,000, with net at $1,394,000, a gain of $424,000.

Ticker Causes Flurry.

Holders of Southern Pacific shares, that is speculative holders, had a good scare this morning. Last night's closing price was 98⅛. The opening today was 97⅝, and then there was a drop to 97⅜. With all holders of railway securities watching the news tickers for statements of earnings for September, the first to record the higher freight and passenger rates, there was a flash this morning, "Southern Pacific earnings for September." Then came the figures showing gross for the month at $12,518,000, an increase of $3,089,000, followed by an operating deficit of $5,870,000, compared with a surplus of nearly $5,000,000 for the same period of 1919. A hurry call to Southern Pacific's office at 165 Broadway, brought forth the information that a mistake had been made by the ticker. The statement just printed, it was explained, was for August, not September. During August the company charged up a lot of back pay under the wage award, and only received a return on the higher freight and passenger rates for the last few days of the month. The higher rates became effective August 26.

Big Bond Issue Snapped Up.

Atchison sells ex-dividend tomorrow. It will be interesting to see if the dividend of 1½ per cent which comes off is made up before the close of business that day. Some shrewd traders bought the stock today on expectations that it would. However, while the floating supply of seasoned dividend-paying railroad shares is small, all signs fail times when loans are being called, as they were today.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. announced at 11 o'clock today that the subscription books to the offering of the $30,000,000 Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company 7 per cent bonds, due May 1, 1931, had been closed. The books were open only an hour and the offering was largely oversubscribed.

American Sugar continues to quote 12 cents for its product. Arbuckle, the Federal and the National companies were quoting 11 cents for sugar.

Northern Pacific has been given permission to issue $6,000,000 new securities to raise funds for equipment and improvements to roadbed, provided the company raises $10,000,000 itself.

Lower Exchange Rates.

When the arrangements were completed for the payment of the Anglo-French loan, it was generally expected that French and English exchange rates would rally. Sterling did recover somewhat, but then came the British coal miners' strike, and rates went off again. Now that the strike has been settled, it was hoped that rates would advance, but they have not done so. Dealers have no explanation to offer except that American exporters who had held their bills from the market are now throwing them overboard to meet their own requirements for cash. High money here usually means lower exchange rates.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis has been called for December 29, for the purpose of acting upon a long term lease of the company's property to the Pennsylvania through one of its subsidiary companies has already acquired all but a minority interest of Panhandle stock through an exchange for Panhandle 5 per cent mortgage bonds. The Pennsylvania proposes to acquire the minority stock. Terms for the lease of the road have not as yet been announced.

Call Money Scarce.

There were times yesterday up until the last half hour when call money could not be obtained. The same conditions existed today. There was a feeling of uncertainty which had a disturbing influence on sentiment. At one time today there were bids for $25,000,000, with no money offered.

Kelly Springfield Tire, one of the newcomers on the exchange, which shot up like a rocket and came down like a stick, put out its earnings today for the six months ended June 30. Gross stood at $4,779,000, against $3,762,000 for the first half of 1919. Net for the first six months of 1920 was $2,023,000, compared with $2,053,000 for the same period of last year.

Sugar.

New York, October 28.—The local market for raw sugar was quieter today and no further sales were reported. Prices were unchanged at 7¼ cents for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 8.52 cents for centrifugal and it was reported that considerable sugar was offered at quoted prices for November shipment, without being taken. Nothing new was reported in the refined situation at prices unchanged to 11 to 12 cents for fine granulated. The demand continues moderate, but it seems to be limited for prompt delivery.

There was a further decline in sugar futures owing to continued selling by commission houses, prompted by the unsettled feeling in the spot market. Closing prices were 5 to 10 points net lower.

Coffee.

New York, October 28.—The market for coffee futures closed at a net decline of 16 to 20 points. WHEAT ADVANCES, CLOSING NERVOUS

Talk of Larger Importations From Canada Finds Reflection in Stiff Bearish Influence.

Chicago, October 28.—Wheat moved upward in price today owing more or less to definte word of contingent settlement of the British coal strike. The close was nervous, ¾ to 1¾c net higher, with December $2.07¼c to $2.7¾, and March $2.01¼ to $2.01½. Corn finished unchanged to ⅞c higher, and oats gained ¼ to ⅜c. In provisions the outcome was a setback of 30c to $1.25.

At first the wehat market showed a decided downward tendency, due, in a consierable degree, to unexpected delay in the British strike negotiations and to bearish contentions that the farm strike in this country had not developed to the extent which had been looked for. The tal kof possible larger imports of wheat from Canada was also a bearish influence. A sharp rally, however, followed the receipt of news that the terms of settlement of the British strike had been officially announced, subject only to a referendum on the part of the miners. Lifting of a railway embargo at Baltimore was an additional assistance to the bulls. On the other hand, much uncertainty in the late trading resulted from gossip that during the next few months France would be out of the marekt.

SHORT OFFERINGS SEND STOCKS DOWN

Some Popular Issues Rallied, But the Closing Tone Was Irregular to Heavy.

New York, October 28.—Selling for both accounts, in which short offerings probably predominated, effected severe depreciation of quoted values on the stock exchange today, the reversal encompassing every important division of the list.

The reaction was accompanied by the largest transactions since the early days of the month, totaling about 850,000 shares. Some of the more popular issues rallied substantially on profit taking in the later dealings, but the tone at the close was irregular to heavy.

There were no developments to account for the slump other than those which have done service since the period of deflation began, namely, the money stringency and additional signs of backwardness in commerce and industry. For investment purposes, however, funds remained plentiful, as was evidenced by the oversubscription to new capital underwritings.

Money rates were unchanged, the bulk of the day's call loans being made on a 9 per cent basis, rising to 10 per cent in the final hour, when a sum approximating $20,000,000 was in demand. Most of the day's funds came from out-of-town sources, the same interests also making moderate time loans.

The one hopeful incident of the day—virtual settlement of the British coal strike—was utterly ignored, not only by the stock market, but by foreign exchange as well. The London rate fell almost 2 cents under yesterday's best quotations and new low points of discount were recorded in remittances to continental Europe, including so-called neutral countries.

Oils, steels, equipments, shippings, motors and numerous allied specialties, more or less as named, bore the brunt of the break, but rails were relatively steady, a brisk advance in Southern Pacific being the final feature.

All domestic and foreign issues in the bond market, including the Liberty group, were irregular, a few inclining to heaviness. Total sales, par value, were $14,750,000.

Old United States bonds were unchanged on call.

New York, October 28.—An early decline on reports of a hitch in the British strike negotiations was followed by a sharp advance in the cotton market today owing to later reports that the strike had been settled and unfavorable weather in the south. January contracts sold up from 20.05 to 21.20, and closed at 21.10, compared with 20.73 yesterday, with the general list closing firm at a net advance of 20 to 70 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 20 to 41 points in response to lower Liverpool cables and the less favorable British labor news. There was also selling on the weakness of southwestern spot markets late yesterday and the failure o fearly weather advices to emphasize the drop in temperature. Active months showed net losses of 54 to 68 points during the middle of the morning, with December selling at 20.48 and March at 19.88, making reactions of 212 to 262 points from the high records of Tuesday. There was more covering at this level and the market firmed up during the afternoon on the British strike news and the detailed reports of the weather bureau showing low temperatures at many points in the belt. Brokers with Japanese connections were particularly active buyers on the advance and the covering movement became general as prices worked up to 21.70 for December and 21.00 for March, or about 47 to 60 points above last night's closing figures on the more active position. Last prices were within 10 or 15 points of the best. Liverpool trade advices said buying to fix prices on call cotton had absorbed offerings on the early decline there and helped the rallies in the later trading.

Exports for the day were 12,806 bales, making 902,332 so far this season. Port receipts, 38,109; United states port stocks, 1,122,710.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

COTTON ADVANCES 46 TO 52 POINTS

New Orleans, October 28.—Fluctuations were wide in the cotton market today and changes were sudden and unexpected. In the early session there were wide declines and in the late trading there was a sudden bulge which recovered all early losses and sent the market to handsome net gains. The market finally closed 36 to 49 points up net.

Uncertainty over coal strike developments in England was the main reason back of the selling which opened the trading of the day. Longs who were discouraged over the failure of the strike conference to come to an agreement yesterday let go large quantities of contracts for which there was little demand, and before this selling ceased the market was down to 19.74 for December with the list at net losses of 59 to 77 points.

The demand was freshened for a while by the announcement that an agreement to end the strike had finally been reached, but the real buying appeared late in the day when big buying suddenly was felt, coming from traders who apparently had determined to run the short interest to cover. During the last half hour of the session the demand was urgent and buyers found little cotton for sale, with the result that the market toward the close was 46 to 52 points over the final prices of yesterday, with December at 21.

Considerable frost was reported in the belt, with more frost predicted, but it stimulated little buying.

SUOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, October 28.—Spot cotton steady; 75 lower. Sales on the spot, 118 bales; to arrive, 869. Low middling, 15.75; middling, 21; good middling, 23. Receipts, 8,898; stock, 287,514.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, October 28.—(Special.)—Although the greater part of the day today's market was weak the fluctuations were wide and exceedingly rapid. The chief topic of conversation continues to be a possibility of a settlement of the British coal strike, but on the whole the general impression seems to be that it will soon be settled, and for that reason we believe the effect upon the market of the settlement will be only temporary. We continue to believe that sales at the monent are advisable, although emphasizing the fact that on any material weakness purchases should be made for the long pull. JOHNSTON BROS.

New Orleans, October 28.—(Special.)—The reactionary tendency of the market to lower levels was still in evidence today, having spread to Liverpool and continued in American markets today.

News concerning settlement of the British coal strike, but contingent on ballot of the miners, was without effect on values, and official advices of heavy frost in Oklahoma, north and central Texas were almost ignored until this afternoon, when the market bulged sharply.

With the return of fair weather, picking and ginning will be resumed, causing receipts to increase, and it is expected that offerings will be free again.

Therefore, the farmer's sincerity of holding his cotton from the market is to be tested once more, and it remains to be seen if the producer will offer freely at present low prices, or if he will hold for higher prices.

while the market is so depressed.

The settlement of the British labor troubles, if it becomes a reality, and prospects favor such a development, should prove an important favorable occurrence, as it would likely be followed by more activity in Manchester and a better demand for the staple.

Private advices from England anticipate a revival in business after the coal strike is definitely settled, as orders are increasing, while efforts to adjust labor disputes is being worked out.

H. & B. BEER.

New York, October 28.—(Special.)—The cotton market today has been one of wide fluctuations caused by large operations by traders who on the one hand regard the price as too high and on the other those who reason that the market should advance further. Uncertainty as to the final settlement of the English strike, the closing of mills in the south and New England and the poor demand at interior points have encouraged selling, while confidence that the producer is determined and able to hold his property as long as is necessary has encouraged the buyers. It is an interesting contest, quite reasonable from the point of view of the general trade, and would indicate a more stable and quiet market later on until one set of economic forces dominates the other. J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, October 28.—(Special.)—Liverpool was sharply lower this morning, private dispatches stating that there was a serious hitch in strike negotiations. Public cables were to the effect that some plan of settlement would be announced by Lloyd-George during the day. While there is undoubtedly a hitch in negotiations, it is our opinion that the strike will be settled in the course of a week or so. The market fluctuated more or less aimlessly on these various rumors, but generally speaking, at a somewhat lower level than yesterday. There was a moderate amount of southern selling which was taken by Japanese buying, particularly in March and July. On the whole the market was steadier than was expected from the early cables. Domestic trade demand is almost wholly lacking and no improvement is reported in the goods market. Their business is stagnant. HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

The necessity at the moment is not the stopping of gins or picking; the requisite is for the interior to stop offering freely

New York, October 28.—(Special.)—The unsettled feeling and lower prices for cotton early today resulted from the British strike situation around mid-day. It was reported the strike was settled subject to ballot by the miners. It is to be noted that Liverpool spot sales were 7,000 bales, a sign of good demand in that market. In many cotton markets from New England to Texas increased demand for spot cotton is reported, including lower grades. This is one of the healthiest signs discernible in months past. If it continues, with resistance prevailing on the part of spot owners, the market can advance quickly. ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

New Orleans, October 28.—(Special.)—Today's market proved to be a rather two-sided affair, but near the close shorts covered freely and the market ran up very rapidly, closing at the highest prices for the day.

The market opened with sharp declines from yesterday's close, overnight selling orders and the weakness of Liverpool being the principal causes. Some buying developed on the news that the British coal strike had been settled subject to vote of the miners and the weather map which, although showing generally clear weather, was accompanied by much cooler temperatures with rather general light to heavy frost in the central and western belt. Today's sharp reaction shows just how dangerous the short side is at those prices, and while there will no doubt be many opportunities to sell sharp rallies for scalping purposes, we would not advise following any decline too far, and believe that buying on good breaks will be more profitable in the long run. DUGGAN & BOUDEN.

New Orleans, October 28.—(Special.)—The cotton market today was an erratic and puzzling affair. During the greater part of the day the market was under selling pressure, which came chiefly from interests identified with the bear side. Even in the face of the official announcement that the coal strike had been settled, these interests sold the market freely. In the afternoon, however, it became apparent that the market had become heavily oversold and the big bull interests here and in New York taking hold had little trouble in bringing about an extensive covering movement that carried prices up 126 points from the low levels reached earlier in the day. Shorts were almost in a panic at the close when December, contracts sold as high as 21 cents. With several holidays and a presidential election coming on early next week we look for further short covering and advise buying on any good recessions from today's closing levels. NORMAN MAYER & CO.

Dry Goods.

New York, October 28.—Little business was reported today in unfinished sheetings for the bag trade. Yarns continued dull, raw silk was easier following weakness in Yokohama, and wool goods remained dull.

Curtailment of production has been agreed upon by some large southern mills, according to reports received here today by selling agencies today following similar reports from New England.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 28.—Cotton seed oil declined 18 to 22 points early for leading months in line with the bearish showing in other commodities, but steadied somewhat near the close on covering. Trading was professional in character. Closing bids were 2 to 12 points net lower. Sales, 7,900 barrels. Prime crude, 8 bid; prime summer yellow spot closed 11@12.50; December, 11.31; March, 11.78; May, 11.95 bid; prime winter yellow and summer white, nominal.

FROST IS SLATED TO FALL FRIDAY, SAYS WEATHER MAN

Thursday morning's temperature of 42 degrees will be lowered this morning by one degree, it was predicted Thursday night by C. F. Von Herrmann, local weather forecaster, and a frost, very light except in low places, was expected to arrive sometime between midnight and daylight, according to his prophesy. Fair weather is promised for the day.

If the frost prediction proves correct, it will be the first frost of the autumn here. The bulletin issued yesterday by the bureau at Washington corroborated Mr. Von Herrmann's forecast of frost. The weather man said that the temperature will continue to rise Friday until it becomes pleasantly warm and that fine weather may be expected Saturday for th eTech-Centre football game.

SPALDING FARMER GIVEN $100 FINE

Albert Bethune, Spalding county farmer, Thursday pleaded guilty in the United States district court to charges of removing and concealing whisky, and was fined $100 by Judge Sibley. The indictment against Bethune charged that federal prohibition agents recently discovered on his premises one of the most cleverly concealed liquor caches ever brought to light in this district. It is claimed that a large quantity of whisky was found in an underground cave, entrance to which was through a trapdoor in the wall of an old well, the door being fifteen feet below the surface of the ground.

Announcement was made yesterday by John Dean Steward, deputy clerk of the district court, that approximately 65 cases have been removed from the calendar of the present term of court for reassignment because of the unusually heavy docket.

Lyric Theater (Keith Vaudeville)—Today (matinee and night). See advertisement for program.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

Two corking good acts and a side-splitting wind-up that features one of the cleverest nut comedians ever see nin Atlanta stand out prominently at the Lyric theater for the final half of the present week.

Marie Stoddard, well-known to local theatergoers, in "Kidding the Actors," shares honors with the Three Musical Avalos, booked as England' premiere exlophonists," both these numbers being well up to winter vaudeville form. Miss Stoddard in her inimitable way, mimics some of the comical types seen on the stage, and the Avalos present a heavy and brilliantly-executed program on their exlophones. Both acts received big hands at the Thursday afternoon performance.

Prevost and Goulet, in "a vaudeville melange," end the bill with a turn that includes tumbling, music, clever stage tricks and other vairetles of entertainment. The comedian in this turn has a face that would put Ben Turpin himself to shame, and his guileless guffaws were invariably followed by storms of laughter on the part of his hearers.

Other acts on the program are presented by Williams and Pierce, billed as "two modern county Jakes," and Hamlin and Mack, in "The Two Records." The former is of the usual song-and-dance variety, while the latter, which has been seen here before, is clever. The regular run of news and feature pictures accompany an attractive bill of vaudeville numbers.

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

An interesting bill, brightened by two shining instances of vaudeville artistry, sent audiences at Loew's Grand away with a smile Thursday. Proof that there's "something new under the sun" was enjoyably evident during the sojourn of Ernie Gordon and Evelyn Delmar behind the footlights. A "boob" comedian, a charming bit of femininity and a piano may be stereotyped entertainment material, but Gordon and Delmar make you forget that fact. Their songs, their "business," and even the tempo of their act radiates originality, and this ingenious duo consequently had trouble in halting their encores.

Harry Brooks, as the youthful octogenarian in "The Old Minstrel Man," contributed a humorous deliniation that kept the house wavering between laughs and tears. Aided by admirable support, his sketch is a wonder in entrapping sympathetic approval.

A sextet of incredibly precocious pigs stirred up whirlwinds of mirth and applause as the closing feature. The finale of the act has the porkers cascading down a "shoot-the-chutes" in a style entirely too ludicrous to describe. Gillani and Marguerite, with accordeon, mandolin and tambourine, offer a few minutes of spirited harmony typical of their Latin nativity. A riotous mix-up of give-and-take nonsense won much favor for Fisher and Lloyd, two blackface funsters. "Lahoma" was the Grand's feature.

STILL CAPTURED WITHIN FEW DOORS OF POLICE STATION

A five-gallon copper still and worm was captured Thursday night by policemen and detectives at 228 1-2 Decatur street, corner Decatur and Pratt streets, within a few doors of the police station. The presence of the still was reported to the police.

The house is occupied by several families of Syrians, and all professed ignorance as to its ownership. No whisky was found, it is said, but the still was "rigged for business." Officers finding the still were Policemen Malone and Englet and Detectives Mosely, Condy, Austin and Brown.

WOMAN'S HANDBAG SNATCHED BY THIEF

A handbag containing $12 was snatched from Mrs. M. L. Black, of 64 Forest avenue, Thursday night by an unknown negro man near the corner of Forest avenue and Courtland street. Mrs. Black reported the occurrence to the police and efforts to identify the negro are being made.

DORSEY AGAIN URGES PROTECTION OF GINS

Governor Writes Letters to Ware Officials Concerning Threats.

Urging that full protection be given to ginnery operators and that every effort be made to apprehend parties guilty of posting threatening notices, Governor Hugh M. Dorsey Thursday night wrote officials of Ware county, following the receipt of a letter from J. D. Sweat, of Waycross, in which it was declared that he and others had been warned to close their gins until cotton reached a market price of 40 cents.

It was explained by the governor in his letters to county officials and in his reply to Mr. Sweat, that other than requesting a rigid enforcement of the law, he could take no action in the matter. Should any of the threats be carried out, he stated, he would then be "very glad to offer the highest possible reward" for apprehension of the guilty parties.

Mr. Sweat's letter to the chief executive follows:

"For three years I have been doing a perfectly satisfactory ginning business in my neighborhood. On last Tuesday night, the 19th, they placed a card on my gin house forbidding me ginning any more until cotton went to 40 cents—a match attached to card.

"Will you be kind enough to advise me what to do with such unlawful acts? Others have been treated the same. Any information or advice will be especially appreciated."

ELKS' ROLL CALL HELD LAST NIGHT AT CLUB BUILDING

Atlanta Elks last night held their annual roll call at the Elks' club building, a large crowd of local Elks being present in addition to about 50 visiting members, many of whom were army officers. The meeting was featured by the starting of a movement to lift all outstanding debts off the lodge's shoulders within the next year or so by means of some special stunts the Elks are planning.

A new custom was initiated when all present were urged to introduce themselves informally to all with whom they came into contact, and a very pleasant and beneficial evening was spent.

COAL COST PROBE WILL BE RESUMED ON NOVEMBER 13

Investigation of alleged coal profiteering in Atlanta will be resumed by the federal grand jury on November 13, it was announced Thursday following the adjournment of the jury. The body will meet in November for a special session in order to complete the probe which is being conducted at the direction of Hooper Alexander, United States district attorney. Testimony of all available witnesses had been completed Thursday.

It was announced at the district attorney's office that from the amount of evidence already presented to the jury against one Atlanta dealer, indications are that a true bill will be returned. It is understood that transactions of two other Atlanta dealers who have come under the surveillance of department of justice agents will be aired before the jury when it gathers for the special session.

KIWANIS CHARTER FOR WASHINGTON BRINGS BARBECUE

Washington, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—The presentation of a charter to the newly organized Kiwanis club, of Washington, was the occasion for bringing together here today perhaps the liveliest bunch of boosters from various Kiwanis clubs of Georgia that Washington has had pleasure of entertaining in many years.

R. S. Wessel, of Atlanta, state Kiwanis governor, was on hand, together with Warren Kimsey, field representative, and Frank Reynolds, each of whom were among the speakers at a big barbecue dinner given in honor of visiting Kiwanians at the Washington Country club. There were about two hundred people present.

Rev. G. S. Frazer, leading spirit in the Kiwanis organization here, welcomed the visiting clubmen, while C. Howard Orr was master of ceremonies. Among other speakers were Dr. Little, of Milledgeville; George Barrett, of Augusta, and Rev. G. F. Hiller, of Milledgeville.

BANKERS OF ATLANTA RESERVE BANK GUESTS

Marking the opening of the Federal Reserve bank cafeteria, officers of the Federal Reserve bank last night entertained officers of the Atlant banks with a delightful banquet in the dining room of the cafeteria on the third floor of the bank building. Over fifty officials of Atlanta banks were present, representing, with one or two exceptions, every banking institution in the city. R. R. Kittle, member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Sylvania, was also a guest.

J. M. Slattery was toastmaster, and introduced each of the speakers with pleasing remarks. The principal talk was made by Robert F. Maddox, president of the Atlanta National bank. He declared that the "south was not broke—that southern institutions had always paid their debts, and that he expected to see the financial condition of the south in an above-normal condition within a short while." He congratulated the federal reserve system on the manner they have dealt with problems that have come up during the last few months.

Talks were also made by Governor M. B. Wellborn and Joseph A. McCord, chairman of the board of directors. Each of the speakers expressed their belief that the south was on a sound financial standing despite the drop in the price of cotton, and they stated facts which showed that the financial powers of the country were in sympathy with the producers.

The opening of the bank cafeteria will be an attractive feature to the employees of the bank. Every employee will be served lunch each day for $6 a month. The lunch will consist of meats, vegetables, coffee, milk, bread and coffee, all at a cost of about 25 cents.

DR. GIBSON, MACON, COMES UNDER BAN OF HARRISON LAW

Macon, Ga., October 28.—(Special.) Dr. O. C. Gibson, well-known Macon physician, was indicted by the United States grand jury here today on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic law. Dr. Gibson is alleged to have written narcotic prescriptions.

He has taken an active part in local and state politics for several years, and is widely known throughout the state.

TAYLOR PAINFULLY BURNED THURSDAY

C. B. Taylor, 30, of 99 Trinity avenue, was painfully but not seriously burned Thursday when his clothing caught fire in his room at the residence. It is thought that sparks from a cigarette ignited his clothing. He was rushed to Grady hospital in an ambulance, which arrived at about the same time as men from the fire department. The damage to the house was slight, being confined to the room in which the occurrence took place.

COLORED "Y" DRIVE REACHES $7,000 MARK

By hard work the teams brought the total up to $7,000 in the colored Y. M. C. A. drive last night. The fact that this figure has been reached, leaders stated, means that the $10,000 goal is assured by the close of the week. All of the workers will get on the job early Friday, and final reports will be made Sunday afternoon at the City Auditorium, when the musical and literary program will be carreid out.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MACULAY TODAY

Funeral services for Cruger Macauley, well-known citizen of Atlanta and former member of the advertising staff of The Journal, whose death occurred Thursday at his home, 54 Juniper street, will be conducted Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Macauley was 49 years of age. He had lived in Atlanta since childhood. His father, Rev. George Macauley, was the first rector of St. Luke's church. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Lizzie Macauley, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Henry C. Fallaw, of Charlotte, N. C., and one brother, John Macauley, of Delray, Fla.

RELIEF OF DISTRESS COTTON IS PLANNED

Fitzgerald, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—At the meeting yesterday afternoon of the Fitzgerald Community council of the Ben Hill county Farm Bureau federation, it was decided to arrange through the farm bureau for the financing of distress cotton and corn. The big brick barn owned by Robinson Bros., will be rented and distressed crops will be handled there. The farm bureau's cooperative sale of cattle and hogs will also be conducted from the barn.

Money will be loaned on corn warehouse receipts at 50 cents a bushel to keep it from going on the market now at a price lower than is considered its worth. The means of handling distressed cotton will be more thoroughly threshed out and definite plans adopted at the meeting of the county advisory board of the bureau Thursday afternoon.

At the meeting yesterday a resolution was passed urging the farmers to hold their cotton until the farm bureau can come to their assistance. Co-operation of business men of the city, whose business will suffer if the farmers are forced to sacrifice their crops, will be secured. Business men are asked to attend the meeting Thursday.

SAVANNAH SECURES ATLANTA EXHIBITS

Savannah, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—Gratz Dent, county farm demonstrator, returned today from Atlanta, bringing the good news that he had landed for the Savannah Tri-State exposition, to be held here November 8-15, three of the finest exhibits seen at the Southeastern fair in Atlanta, namely, the Montgomery county, Ala., exhibit, which took first prize; the Haywood, N. C., county exhibit, which county won first place last eyar at the Southeastern, and the beatuiful apple show from North Carolina.

Mr. Dent was unqualified in his praise of the Atlanta fair as the best that has ever been held, from the point of real showing of the live stock and agricultural resources of the state.

TWO TRADE BODIES FIGHT LIGHT RAISE

Americus, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—The Americus and Sumter County Chamber of Commerce has added its voice to the protest already made by the city council against granting increased rate to the Americus Lighting company, which supplies this city's gas and electricity.

The company is seeking increases of approximately 25 per cent in gas and electric power rates, and citizens and business organizations here are opposing the petition strenuously. The railroad commission has set November 4 as the date for hearing the controversy.

GENERAL LAW, C. S. A., SINKING IN FLORIDA

Bartow, Fla., October 28.—Major General E. M. Law, last surviving general officer of the confederate army, critically ill at his home here, was slowly sinking tonight, his physician announced, and little hope was held for his recovery. General Law, who is 84 years old, recently suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Ever wished you had some sort of a book that told you in a right to the point way what to do when you wanted to do some painting, varnishing, enameling or staining?
Ever wished you knew what made paint peel or chalk off and how to prevent it?
Ever wished you knew the kind of floor paint or varnish to use on old floors and the best way to treat a new one?
Ever wished that someone would write a little book about just these things and do it in an interesting, chatty kind of way, so you could find out the things you want to know and be told those you ought to know?
In short, you have wished over and over for a book that would take the perplex out of paint perplexities.
The Happy Happening Book is your answer.
It's a tale of inside and out, told by one who has had a score of years' personal experience with exactly your kind of problems.
He tells it to you just as if he were sitting right here by you and having a friendly chat.

ERMINGER APPOINTED RECEIVER OF PLANT

New Bilge-Tunnel System.

(From Popular Mechanics Magazine.)

Surprisingly large cargo space characterizes two sulphur-carrying steamships recently built at Newburgh, N. Y., as a result of a new, patented arrangement of the twin propeller shafts. Ordinarily these shafts would have been mounted in tunnels placed near the center line of the ship, thereby breaking up the floor of the after holds into useless wing and central pockets. But the new arrangement places the two power units as far outboard as possible in the engine room, and consequently locates the shafts along the after bilges and run of the vessel, or, in other words, near the joints of sides and bottom.

HARDING OBJECTS TO G. O. P. CARTOON

Candidate Asks Suppression of Cartoon That Offended Catholics—Again Denies Knowledge of Vanderlip Deal With Russia.

Cleveland, Ohio, October 28.—In another statement regarding the activities of Washington Vanderlip, reported to be negotiating with the soviet government in Russia, Senator Warren G. Harding declared here today that he was "very certain" he never had given Vanderlip a letter of introduction to anyone and that Vanderlip was in no sense to be regarded as his agent.

Only Formal Note.

If there is any truth in published reports that Vanderlip has used such a letter in his negotiations, Mr. Harding said, the communication must be no more than "a purely formal note given at the request of some friend."

The senator, resting here between campaign speeches, also publicly expressed his disapproval of a cartoon recently published by Harvey's Weekly, picturing Governor Cox in allegorical character. The republican nominee said in a statement that because he was sensitive about giving offense to religious reverence, he had asked for suppression of the picture made by the A. T. Reid syndicate, which has done work for the republican national committee.

In his comment on the Vanderlip story, the candidate reiterated that he had no recollection of ever having met Vanderlip, and added:

"If he ever got a letter from me, which I am positive he did not, it could not have been more than a purely formal note, given at the request of some friend. But I am very certain that no such letter even as that was ever given. Of course, Vanderlip is in no way my agent or representative. I have no agents, and I never heard of this matter until it appeared recently in some news reports."

The senator's secretary, George D. Christian, Jr., also declared he was certain no letter of introduction ever had been given Vanderlip. The senator's letter files for the last session of congress are in Washington, he added, and so could not be checked over immediately.

Harding on Reid Cartoon.

Mr. Harding's statement on the Reid cartoon follows:

"My attention has been called to the Reid cartoon, published in Harvey's Weekly, portraying the democratic nominee in the difficult task of hanging a portrait of Uncle Sam with the heart of the covenant. Of course, a candidate has no part in the exercise of the freedom of the press, but I not only do not approve of this cartoon, but weeks ago I came in possession of an advance copy in my capacity as publisher, and immediately asked our newspaper at Marion to wire and request its suppression.

"Believing, as I do, in the fullness of religious freedom in America, I am always sensitive about giving offense to any religious reverence, and the recommendation to destroy the cartoon in question was made when it was clearly an expressed conviction which conveyed my views without a thought of making a political appeal.

"I do not believe that either Cartoonist Reid or Harvey's Weekly intended any offense, but since it is a matter of public discussion, I do want my attitude of disapproval made emphatic."

WELLS DENIES HARDING STORY.

London, October 28.—H. G. Wells, the author, whose name was referred to by Secretary of State Colby in reference to the visit of Washington D. Vanderlip, to Russia, has issued a formal statement to the press denying the correctness of reports made by Evan E. Young, United States commissioner for the Baltic provinces, stationed at Riga, concerning conversations which Wells was reported to have had with Nikolai Lenine about Vanderlip's proposal. Mr. Wells says in his statement that Young's information must have been derived third or fourth-hand from reports of private conversations.

Secretary Colby's statement, issued October 26, said the Young report stated that Lenine had informed Mr. Wells that Vanderlip had claimed to represent Senator Harding. Senator Harding, in a statement, denied knowledge of Vanderlip.

New York, October 28.—Democratic National Chairman White gave out a letter here today from Allan A. Ryan, saying that Republican Chairman Will H. Hays' "lame apology for the cartoon which invoked blasphemy and sacrilege in the interest of the republican ticket" did not "recite the true chronology of all the facts."

Mr. Ryan's letter decared that the cartoon "was printed in the October 9 issue of The National Republican, a subsidized organ of the republican national committee." "The postoffice department reports show that this organ is owned by Mr. Hays, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Hilles, Mr. Adams, Mr. McKinley and others now actively engaged in managing the republican campaign," the letter said, adding: "Thus this shameful cartoon ran the very gauntlet of official republican approval, ending at last with the econium of him who Senator Harding declares to be one of America's great minds; who claims that Senator Harding was nominated in his room and through his astute planning. . . . I refer to George Harvey, as recently as Tuesday evening, the confidential dinner companion of Mr. Hays himself, on which occasion they presumably discussed how to escape the consequences of approving sacrilege as political argument."

Mr. Ryans letter concluded:

"I can best express my opinion of the good faith of Mr. Hays and the decency of republican subsidized journalism by subscribing an additional $15,000 to your campaign."

MORTUARY

John P. Given.

John P. Given, 48, traveling salesman, died Thursday at a local hospital. He is survived by his wife, one small daughter and one small stepdaughter; his mother, Mrs. George W. Given, of Phoenix, Ariz.; three brothers, George W., of New York, and Roger B. and T. T. Given, also of Phoenix, and one sister, Mrs. G. A. Slaughter, of Los Angeles, Cal. The body is at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes.

James W. Story.

James W. Story, little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Story, died Thursday at the home of his parents, 5 English avenue. Besides his parents he is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Story, of Ashburn, and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Garner, of Villa Rica.

"NEXT" MEANEST MAN ROBS BLIND CORONER

Americus, Ga., October 28.—(Special.)—Zachariah Whitehead, a DeSoto negro, is held in jail here charged with cheating and swindling. It is alleged that he raised a check originally drawn for $1 to read $5 and succeeded in passing it on Ed Jenkins, Sumter county's blind coroner.

Some time ago "Overall Charlie," another negro, succeeded in passing a piece of oiled paper upon the blind coroner for a dollar bill, thus earning for himself a reputation as the meanest thief in Georgia. Whitehead received $4.55 in cash, besides some merchandise, in exchange for the check he is alleged to have raised.

Six Months in Prison For Sylvia Pankhurst On Charge of Sedition

London, October 28.—Sylvia Pankhurst, who was arrested on October 19 charged with attempting to cause sedition in the navy by editing and publishing an issue of the newspaper The Workers' Dreadnought on October 16, was sentenced today to six months' imprison ment on conviction of the offense.

Since Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested last week it has been made known by the government that letters she had written to Nikolai Lenine, premier of soviet Russia, were in its possession. In one of these she was quoted as saying, alluding to her arrest:

"I expect six months' imprisonment. I have considered the hunger strike, but I am afraid that weapon has been destroyed, since the government is letting the Irish hunger strikers die."

Another letter to Lenine, Miss Pankhurst was declared to have written:
